QUEEN CREATES DUKE PRINCE OF THE REALM

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen today created her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, a prince of the realm less than 24 hours after he returned from a world tour which took him to the remotest parts of the Commonwealth.

The honor, which does not affect the succession to the throne, means the Queen's husband will be known in future as His Royal Highness Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh.

TITLE BOUT SET TONIGHT

CLEVELAND (AP)—Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio and challenger Johnny Saxton each weighed in today at exactly 147 pounds, the limit for tonight's 15-round title match. Basilio ruled a 7-5 favorite.

Saxton was three ounces over the limit the first time he got on the scale. But after a little exercise, he came back and made it. Bout will be televised over Channel 4 at 7 p.m.

Unemployment Passes Peak

Winter unemployment appears to have passed its peak in Victoria and on the lower mainland.

Officials of the Unemployment Insurance Commission said today 419 men and women had gained or regained jobs in the last week.

Total of unemployed now stands at 4,092 compared with 4,511, the winter peak recorded recently.

City hall building inspector's office reported today several permits have been issued for new homes and one new four-suite apartment is expected to be constructed shortly.

Carpenters are also expected to start next week on a $52,000 renovation to the Salvation Army Men's Hostel on Johnson Street.

Most of the 264 men who went to work in the last seven days were recalled by previous employers. The amount of new hiring is still quite low and jobs continue to be scarce. Officials expect the number of job vacancies will increase in the next two or three weeks.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(AP)—The 27 Asian and African members of the United Nations today agreed to support a resolution calling for sanctions against Israel.

The action came at a private meeting just before the 80-nation General Assembly began a new round of debate on Israel's failure to get out of the Gaza Strip and the Sharm el Sheikh area, on the Gulf of Aqaba.

The group decided to submit a formal proposal to the assembly at once. The proposal called for:

1. A general condemnation of any non-compliance with United Nations resolutions.
2. The withholding of economic, financial and military aid from Israel.

Sponsors of the resolution are Lebanon, Iraq, Sudan, Indonesia, Afghanistan, Pakistan and Ceylon.

POLICY UNDER FIRE

Latest despatches from Jerusalem say minority party leaders on both sides of the political fence are uniting today in demanding that Ben Gurion keep Israel's troops in the Gaza Strip and along the Egyptian coast of the Gulf of Aqaba.

Speaking in the Israeli Knesset (parliament), they rejected the latest conditions laid down by Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion for Israeli withdrawal behind the armistice lines.

At Washington, Eisenhower administration officials said today the United States will agree to Israel's request for further talks on the question of withdrawing her troops, but will not seek to delay United Nations pressure against the Jewish state.

Freight Rates Hike

OTTAWA (CP)—The railroads have been directed to boost freight rates on goods moving between eastern and western Canada by two cents per 100 pounds, the board of transport commissioners announced today. The order is effective March 1.

Snow Fright Easing Off

Indications for snow in the Victoria area eased off today with a recession of a mass of Arctic air which has been threatening the coast.

Official forecast calls for "possible" snow Saturday morning, turning to rain—if the snow develops at all—in the afternoon.

Low tonight will be 30, high Saturday 38 to 40.

'Foolish' to Start University In Victoria Now, Says UBC Head

Strong opposition to the establishment of a provincially supported university in Victoria at the present time, was voiced here today by Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia.

He urged full development of UBC before establishing a second university or a system of junior colleges.

Dr. MacKenzie was speaking at the annual meeting of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau at the Empress Hotel on "The Future of Higher Education in B.C."

The best and most useful contribution that Victoria College can make, he said, is in the field of arts and sciences at the undergraduate levels.

"I am sure that, in due course, as the need arises and as the development is justified, Victoria College will grow and expand the work that it now undertakes," said Dr. MacKenzie.

He pointed out that there is nowhere in Canada at present a system of junior colleges, nor has any Canadian province been

BUDGET at a GLANCE

1. No changes in consumer taxation.
2. Province to sign federal tax rental agreement for another five years, avoiding dual income and corporation taxes.
3. Technical changes in mining and logging resources taxes.
4. Province takes over from Ottawa 2% levy on insurance premiums.
5. Budget hits all-time high with over-all allocations of $295.9 millions.
6. $28 grant to home-owners for land tax relief confirmed.
7. Paying off of direct provincial debt speeded up with special allocation of $21 millions from revenue surpluses. Object is to retire all direct debt by 1962.
8. Guaranteed debt jumps $85 millions in year.
9. No new aid for University of B.C. buildings.

Another Man Faces Charge In Bank Raid

Indictment Against Barry Keele Withdrawn for Lack of Evidence

A charge of armed bank robbery against Victoria man Barry Irwin Keele, 26, was withdrawn in city police court today because of insufficient evidence.

Meanwhile, police said a second Victorian, 25 years old, has been arrested in Vancouver and will be charged in court Saturday with armed theft of $3,000 from Canadian Bank of Commerce James Bay branch on Feb. 11.

Mr. Keele was in custody since Feb. 14 when he was arrested in Saanich with an unnamed companion who also was held but later released after questioning.

City detectives were expected to bring the second suspect to Victoria sometime today.

HAD $600

He was arrested by Vancouver police in a hotel room early Thursday. Detectives had observed him since early Wednesday night and found in his possession $600.

Prosecutor Alan Bigelow told Magistrate H. C. Hall this morning police did not wish to proceed against Mr. Keele. He said a preliminary hearing for Mr. Keele, who elected trial by judge and jury and for whom $10,000 bail was set, was scheduled for next Tuesday.

But "there is insufficient evidence to warrant commitment in this charge," he said.

Mr. Keele was unable to post his bail bond and remained in custody until released today.

IWA Drafts Secret Pact On Wages

Will Be Revealed Monday at Parley

VANCOUVER (CP)—A secret draft of pay demands by 30,000 coast woodworkers has been drawn up for presentation here Monday to the district convention of the International Woodworkers of America, it was learned today.

The draft was completed Thursday by a policy committee whose officials were sworn to secrecy until it is presented to the conference for final approval.

Some of the 122 locals represented at the meeting are calling for wage demands of from 15 to 30 per cent above the present basic rate of $1.59 an hour.

MANY DEMANDS

There are numerous other demands for a union shop, health and pension plans, improved holidays and a 200-day guaranteed work year.

When the coastal workers of British Columbia enter wage negotiations March 15, their talks will coincide with negotiations of about 70,000 other IWA members in Washington and Oregon.

"GOT TO MOVE"

"We've got to move," Mr. Hartung said Thursday. "Other basic industries are winning big increases and the cost of living is going up. We can't lower our standard of living by staying where we are."

"If we should have to go on strike in B.C. and across the line, at least we will not be filling each other's orders when the other group is out."

ATTACKS CARPENTERS

Mr. Hartung also attacked the United Brotherhood of Carpenters as "a strike-breaking institution."

He told cheering delegates: "They are going behind picket lines and signing up scabs. They do not want to meet or co-operate with us. I've tried to meet them but they are always too busy to talk."

Land Tax Relief For Home Owners Is Main Policy

Details of B.C. Budget, Page 10

An all-time record provincial budget calling for total outlays of $295.9 million was submitted to the B.C. Legislature today by Premier Bennett.

The budget is $37 millions higher than the budget of last year, but $21 millions of the increase is brought about by a special allocation of funds toward paying off the direct provincial debt.

The actual increase in general spending will be $16 millions, or about 6½ per cent.

There were no surprises in Mr. Bennett's budget.

There were no changes in consumer taxation either up or down.

A tax relief scheme of $28 for homeowners through a direct provincial grant had already been forecast. The premier gave no details just how this back into the income-and-corporation tax fields thus creating detailed legislation will be put dual taxation.

New Five-Year Tax Agreement

He announced that B.C. will again sign a five-year agreement with Ottawa under which the federal government rents the province's tax rights in these fields.

In signing this, he said B.C. has negotiated a better deal than the agreement of the last five years, giving it about $9 million a year more in its share of the revenues collected by Ottawa.

The only tax changes in the budget were an outcome of the alterations in the agreement with Ottawa.

B.C. will now impose a 2% tax on insurance premiums—a tax vacated by Ottawa at the first of the year—and there will be minor changes in the natural resources taxes on logging and mining which will bring increased revenue to the provincial coffers.

The budget contained no new grants for buildings at the University of British Columbia, sought by both the university administration and students' drive.

The premier pointed out that the government has already allocated $1,000,000 a year for ten years for this purpose and has been very generous with the university.

One of the chief announcements in the budget was that the massive road and bridge building program launched last year will continue at the same high level.

Total allocations for roads of all kinds is fixed at $70.9 millions, an increase of $2.7 millions over the 1956-57 appropriations.

Another $10,000,000 is allocated for buildings and various other capital works, bringing to $80.8 millions the total spending on capital projects, an increase of $700,000 from last year.

The ordinary expenses of government show a jump of $10.5 millions, from $198,080,131 to $208,526,533.

It is estimated total general revenues of the province will reach $268,444,000. This compares with an estimate of $224,537,000 for the fiscal year which ends March 31, but in his preliminary report the premier showed that the revenues this year have already far exceeded these estimates.

While the revenue estimate would not cover the whole of the planned outlays by the government, the premier explained that there is $49.1 millions in the revenue surplus account, built up from previous surpluses. All of this is available for use as required.

The sales tax in the coming year will yield $86,250,000 it was estimated. Gasoline taxes will yield more than $25,000,000 and liquor profits are estimated at $23,750,000, an increase of $2,250,000.

However, the premier said the general approach to the budget had been one of caution because of the tight money policy at Ottawa and the disturbed international situation.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Eternal God, Father of our spirits, we pause to remember before Thee all who make it easy for us to believe in Thee and difficult to forget Thee, the last to doubt and the first to believe, the last to blame and the first to forgive. In the name of Christ, our Lord. Amen.

WENNER-GREN BALLOTS TOP 1,200 MARK

Well over 1,200 ballots have now been cast in The Times public opinion poll regarding the Axel Wenner-Gren proposal for developing B.C.'s northland.

The ballot was printed for the last time in Thursday's paper.

This morning's mail brought between 600 and 700 letters, reflecting the widest interest in the government's decision to reserve the 40,000 square-mile area while surveys are being made by the Wenner-Gren people.

Tabulation of the votes begins this afternoon and it is hoped to have a complete count by Saturday morning. Results will be published in Saturday's paper.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

100-Watt Smile Beamed on Squire

Premier Bennett was in rare good humor Thursday on the eve of his long-awaited Budget Speech to the legislature.

He turned his 100-watt smile on both sides of the House during the closing stages of the Throne Speech debate, and refused to be angered even when John Squire—that ardent CCFer from Alberni—reproached him about not answering letters.

It must be admitted, however, that Mr. Squire's methods of approach are somewhat Machiavellian.

"If the premier had answered my requests there is no knowing but what I might have returned to this House as a Social Creditor," he said.

"You are a pretty nice fellow anyway," the premier replied, beaming a fatherly grin at the opposition member.

Mr. Squire wasn't so easily disarmed. He lit into the premier for calling a snap election last September and told him he would have to get up very early if he hoped to deprive Alberni constituents of their vote.

"Most of us were sitting right beside our radios when the election was announced and we were lining up next morning to register our names on the voters' list."

Then he chided the first minister for his election statement that the Social Credit government stands on its record.

Stand on That Record—Hide It

"If the CCF had a record like the Social Credit government we would stand on it, too, because we wouldn't want anyone to see it."

Mr. Bennett continued smiling while Mr. Squire castigated him for his repeated use of the word "smear" under opposition attack.

"We come here to do an honest job for the province," the member said, "and I think we are entitled to a respectful hearing."

"The other day the premier was quoted on the radio as saying 'smear, smear.' I wonder what the public think of this legislature when they hear this sort of thing."

Having more or less disposed of the premier, the Alberni member turned to the subject of reckless motorists.

Bad Drivers Are Dangerous Criminals

Such motorists, he said, should now be regarded as dangerous criminals who between them were responsible for more deaths and injuries than war or disease.

"There has been more heartbreak, more broken homes in this province from auto accidents than anything else," he declared.

He suggested the ministry should develop musical appreciation among the younger citizens and lure them away from the seductive juke boxes.

And he went so far as to suggest that the new minister should look into the beer parlors—administratively of course—to see how they could be improved as a source of recreation.

Combining the two ideas, there is little doubt the serious-minded Mr. Price would have British Columbians drinking beer to the refining strains of Bach and Mozart.

DETROIT (AP)—Miss Margaret Boone had the doggonest tea party.

As a friend, Mrs. Mary DeMeulenaere, stepped through the front door, a grimy, mud-splattered hound dog bounded in close behind her. It lumbered over to Miss Boone's new living room sofa, stretched out its dirty paws and fell asleep.

When Mrs. DeMeulenaere started to leave, with the dog still sleeping peacefully, Miss Boone asked: "Aren't you forgetting your dog?"

"My dog!" said her guest. "I thought it belonged to you. It was gnawing on a bone on your front porch when I arrived."

Egyptian Princess Has First Free Date

CANNES, France (AP)—Princess Ferial, ex-king Farouk's eldest daughter, went out without her chaperone for the first time Thursday night and danced far into the night with young society friends.

The 19-year-old Egyptian princess came from Switzerland to attend the wedding of Princess Marie-Louise of Bulgaria and German Prince Karl Wladimir of Leiningen. She left the wedding party, with her father's approval, shortly after dinner.

Son-in-Law Seeks Winch's Burnaby Seat

BURNABY (CP)—The son-in-law of the late Ernest Winch was nominated Thursday night as CCF candidate in his father-in-law's constituency in the forthcoming provincial by-election. The Burnaby riding vacancy was created by Mr. Winch's death.

Cedric Cox, a pattern-maker, won the nomination over Mrs. Grace McInnis, wife of Angus McInnis and daughter of the late J. S. Woodsworth, first national leader of the CCF.

If the city of Victoria, following the example of London and Hamilton in Ontario, wished to give an annual grant to Victoria College, or if citizens wish to create an endowment for it, it could easily be accomplished.

Said Dr. MacKenzie: "I am convinced we should have in this province at least one good and fully-equipped university, and that it should be provided with reasonably adequate finances to carry on its work."

"Unless this is done, and done first, much of the rest of our effort and our money will be so dispersed as to be in a sense wasted, in that the results are likely to be second rate and mediocre higher educational opportunities for the young men and women of the province."

Dr. MacKenzie stressed he is not interested in building a "colossus" at Point Grey—"nor am I in principle opposed to the decentralization of higher education or the establishment of junior colleges; provided this is done intelligently and with a view to the wise use of the taxpayers' money and avoidance of unnecessary and expensive duplication of effort and facilities; and provided, too, it is done in the right order and at the right time."

The UBC president said the university is planning a large capital drive program in 1958.

"We have already begun work and hoping that it will be possible to increase private and public contributions to our capital needs."

Dr. MacKenzie announced that within the past week he has received letters of resignation from three highly qualified young men who are leaving the university for better paid positions in the U.S.

"This is likely to continue in an accelerated way unless two things are done. One: that we get enough money to pay them reasonably adequate salaries in comparison with offers made them by other institutions in the U.S. or by industry or governments."

"The other is that they be given reasonable hope that over a period of years UBC will be adequately equipped with buildings and facilities to look after the modest needs of Canadian professors and Canadian students."

Missing Missile To Stay Missing

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—Remnants of an errant military rocket apparently are scattered in the high Rockies of Colorado or the desert reaches of Utah.

The 39-foot Matador missile escaped Thursday with about an hour's fuel left.

It soared northwestward from Alamogordo and probably landed in southwest Colorado or southeast Utah. The region is sparsely populated.

The U.S. Air Force planned to give up its search this morning for the missile because continuation "would cost more than the missile is worth."

They said it did not carry an explosive warhead and was equipped only with instruments.

Weatherman tells how forecasting has progressed

"The immense increase in aviation has necessitated development of new techniques in weather forecasting," says Herb E. Chadburn of the Meteorological Branch of the Department of Transport.

"From a far-flung network of weather stations, information regarding both upper air and surface conditions is teletyped to central forecast offices. Here it is analyzed and used as the basis of forecasts," continues Mr. Chadburn. "Forecasting today benefits not only aviation but farming, shipping, forestry and many businesses and government agencies dependent upon the weather."

In forecasting for their personal futures, men like Mr. Chadburn benefit from progress in another field... life insurance.

In planning your life insurance, you'll find your life underwriter more helpful today than ever before. He constantly seeks a broader knowledge of the individual needs of families like your own. With today's more flexible protection, he can help shape your life insurance plans so that they provide money for your children's education, for your own retirement income, or for other worthwhile objectives.

In these and many other ways, the life insurance companies have progressed with the times.

Additional training for life insurance advisors is now provided by a voluntary 2-year course stressing the study of individual needs. Following this, an optional 3-year University Extension course is offered, leading to the degree of C.L.U. (Chartered Life Underwriter).

Opposition Supports Municipal Aid Plans

(From Times News Services)

Opposition speakers gave qualified support to a government proposal to extend the scope of federal grants paid municipalities in lieu of taxes on federal property.

Progressive Conservative, CCF and Social Credit speakers all said the measure, expected to cost between $16,000,000 and $20,000,000 annually instead of the present $9,500,000, is a step forward but does not go far enough.

Finance Minister Harris, sponsor of the change, set through the debate on a resolution preliminary to introduction of the bill.

He has said the bill will provide for payment of the equivalent of full municipal rates on all federal property receiving municipal services.

Promises Great Assistance—Winch

Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) said the resolution promises a bill of great assistance to municipalities. There had been a tradition that Crown property was exempt from taxation.

"This is a recognition by the government in meeting a need by making payments that are morally right but not constitutionally necessary."

Municipalities were meeting responsibilities never contemplated when the constitution was drawn up. The time might be approaching when the Articles of Confederation governing federal, provincial and municipal matters might have to be rewritten.

Mr. Winch said there is no central record of federal property holdings in Canadian municipalities, nor of their values.

"The government doesn't know its own properties nor their valuation." That was extraordinary.

Ambrose Holowach (SC, Edmonton East) said his party is prepared "to give every support and co-operation in this measure to assist municipalities."

He also said it does not go far enough, and suggested that a municipal loans board be set up by the federal government to make long-term loans "at reasonable interest rates."

Prime Minister St. Laurent, Thursday, dropped a hint that this year's budget will announce an increase in the old age pension.

But amid House talk of an approaching election, he said the government intends to introduce its budget legislation "if there is time."

Mr. St. Laurent was replying to Opposition questions after he had announced a list of measures which the government may or may not attempt to have passed this session.

The list did not include pension legislation and Stanley Knowles, CCF whip, asked whether that door had been closed.

Defence Minister Campney indicated he has information that the United States plans to amend its statutes so that it can supply atomic weapons to its allies.

Under the U.S. McMahon Act, the U.S. government now is prohibited from putting atomic weapons in the hands of its allies.

Colin Cameron (CCF-Nanaimo), referred to the Washington announcement that the U.S. Air Defence Command is being equipped with atomic rockets for its jet interceptors. He asked if Canada will have access to the new weapons.

Mr. Campney replied that "for the time being at least" the Canadian defence department will not have access to these weapons.

A Liberal and a Progressive Conservative joined forces in the Senate Thursday in criticizing the Canada Council, the proposed new body to foster Canadian culture.

Senator Arthur Roebuck (L. Ontario) said that while he won't vote against legislation establishing the council he isn't happy about it. The $100,000,000 fund it would administer should be under the scrutiny of parliament not handed out by irresponsible appointees.

Senator Ralph Horner (PC, Saskatchewan) said he is completely against the council at that would be consequent upon manities and social sciences the budget," he added without elaborating, "they can't be purchased with money," he said.

The prime minister replied that his announcement had nothing to do with a door to old age pension matters. "That would be something

The U.N. at Stake

WISELY OR UNWISELY President Eisenhower has thrown the whole moral power of the United States against Israel's continued occupation of any Egyptian territory.

This pressure from the world's most powerful state—backed by many other states throughout the world—will be difficult if not impossible for Israel to resist.

But the immediate effect of the President's policy is to split the Western Alliance, since nations like Britain, France and Canada are not prepared to coerce Israel, at least until it is given real guarantees of its safety, which it deserves. Thus while the Arab world and its friends in Asia and Africa are preparing to demand sanctions against Israel, presumably with American support, a new world-crisis of first magnitude is rapidly blowing up.

If it defies the mandate of the United Nations Israel may be confronted with sanctions, even though such states as Canada would oppose them. Even if the economic sanctions did not work completely, as Canada expects, Israel's political isolation would soon become intolerable.

Mr. Eisenhower's speech this week represents not merely a moral lecture but a grave decision of American foreign policy.

The President expresses sympathy for Israel's dilemma, he notes the provocation which led to its attack on Egypt, he refuses to place Israel in the same category as Russia as an aggressor.

Nevertheless, he says Israel was guilty of aggression, that it has refused to comply with the orders of the United Nations, as Britain and France loyally complied in the Suez, and he says that this defiance cannot be tolerated. For in his opinion the whole future of the United Nations may well depend on its authority in this crisis.

More important, perhaps, than his attitude toward Israel is the President's attitude toward the United Nations. By many recent acts and finally by his latest speech, the President has based American foreign policy fully on the United Nations because he regards it, for all its disabilities, as the world's best hope for peace.

Therefore, he refuses to give Israel any direct guarantees from the United States, beyond the promise to work for justice in the United Nations.

Naturally, Israel regards that promise as inadequate, it demands some assurances from Egypt but has received none. Opposition parties in Israel today are even more adamant against withdrawal than Prime Minister Ben Gurion. If Israel is compelled to withdraw with no protection beyond the mandate of the United Nations, the question is whether Egypt will take advantage of the retreat to discriminate against Israel in the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

On this point Mr. Eisenhower gives Egypt a polite but sharp warning. He reminds Mr. Nasser that Egypt already has agreed to six principles governing the operation of the Canal, one of which says there must be no discrimination as between the ships of the various nations and that the canal must be free of Egyptian politics.

It seems clear that the United States, having rebuked Israel, is prepared to discipline Egypt if necessary but only through the United Nations. That is the sticking point with Israel. In short, can it rely on the United Nations where the African-Asian bloc has managed to grasp an unofficial but effective veto?

The answer to that question, as intimated by Mr. Eisenhower, is that if the United Nations cannot enforce justice on Egypt then it may lose its power everywhere and collapse as an instrument of peace.

It is being said far too glibly these days that the United Nations in fact has no power, is riddled with national politics and is only a debating society. Yet Russia has not dared to defy the United Nations outside its own unquestioned zone of power (including Hungary) and only a few weeks ago Britain and France abandoned a military adventure because the United Nations ordered them out of Egypt.

The fact, of course, is that the United Nations can never have any more power than its member nations are prepared to give it. But recently, as never before, the United States has invested its power in the United Nations. To defy the United Nations is to defy not a debating society in New York but the world's most powerful nation and its allies.

For this reason it is to be hoped that the secret diplomacy now at work behind Mr. Eisenhower's latest warning will persuade Israel to accept some kind of compromise short of another explosion in the Middle East.

Mr. Edgelow's Blind Eye

ALD. GEOFFREY EDGELOW has peeked through a crack in the fence to look at the school situation. A crack in the fence provides a very limited view. But from it Ald. Edgelow has reached conclusions which disturb him.

He says that Victoria is being asked, in the school building referendum, to finance more than 50 per cent of the municipal half-share of the $4,470,000 total for needed schools in Greater Victoria.

The city, he says, will receive only 11.81 per cent of the value in buildings constructed from this sum.

As far as his vision permits him to see, Ald. Edgelow is reporting facts. But he is looking through a very narrow crack.

The forthcoming referendum is only part of the Greater Victoria school building program which began in 1947 and will probably continue long after Ald. Edgelow has left the council.

In the earlier phases of the program Victoria city did very well.

Of the $5,489,862 required for Greater Victoria schools in the first phase, $2,842,941, or 51.79 per cent, was used for new buildings in the city itself.

In the second step Victoria required and received $1,226,562, or 39.86 per cent of the $3,077,281 voted by the taxpayers of the school district.

Hence, in the earlier stages, the city received the lion's share of monies approved for new buildings.

No question was raised over this allocation of funds for the simple reason that schools were being put up where the need was greatest—big schools such as S. J. Willis and Central Junior High as well as smaller buildings, including James Bay and major additions to Victoria High, F. T. Fairley Tech, George Jay, Oaklands and Margaret Jenkins.

Mr. Edgelow's restricted vision apparently prevents him from seeing the over-all picture—which takes in the school needs of the entire community—a community known as School District No. 61.

The Greater Victoria School Board is the most significant joint operation in this area. It is able to function efficiently because it has been relieved of parochial interest to an impressive degree.

Under its policies the interests of Greater Victoria's children are served regardless of municipal boundaries. Some from the adjoining municipalities attend classes within the city itself. Some from city homes go to schools across municipal boundaries.

If Mr. Edgelow has studied the figures which the board has presented to him, he must know that to date the city proper has received a greater share of funds than has any other municipality.

Is he saying to neighboring administrations: "We've got ours. You can whistle"? Or is he attempting to raise obstacles to the effective operation of a good system in this school district?

TODAY MARKS THE CENTENARY of Lord Robert Baden-Powell's birth, an event of first importance in the field of youth training.

The young Londoner who turned early to a successful military career had already achieved distinction before he devoted his talents to the origination of the organization of the Boy Scouts. Today the movement he created covers a large section of the world and wins universal approval wherever industry, self-reliance and the principle of liberty are admired.

Indeed, it is a tribute to the spirit of the Boy Scout organization that it has fallen into disfavor only in those lands where dictators have chosen to fashion the malleable stuff of youth into forms for their own narrow purposes.

In this age, the Baden-Powell vision shines more clearly than ever. It is needed as an example of the training which inspires youth to self-discipline and the ideals of service.

As Boy Scouts the world over aspire to the goals the founder set, they honor the centennial of Baden-Powell's birth.

School Bond Issue

Regardless of the merits of the proposed school bond issue, any group of persons who deliberately flout the recently expressed opinion of the people by incurring the expense of a referendum at this time, are not, in my opinion, fit to be entrusted with the disbursement of $5,600,000 or any part.

The excuse that many people in favor of the issue did not vote recently reflects immature thinking. What about those who were opposed to the project and for various reasons did not vote? The writer is one of the latter.

It would be well to remember also that under prevailing conditions the cost of borrowing the funds will be prohibitive, all of which the taxpayers will have to foot.

It is high time this reckless spending of taxpayers' money by organized groups be stopped.

Man Behind the Bofors

When Canadian and allied soldiers landed at Dieppe they were greeted by the murderous fire of German guns, some of them Swedish Bofors. Likewise these Bofors guns clawed Canadian and allied fliers out of the sky and many a cross marks a Canadian grave in Europe. Now it is proposed that the man who profited from the sale of these guns be offered one-tenth of our Canadian province. I cry shame on any person of our Provincial Government who countenances such a proposal.

With such people in Ottawa we shall probably see Krupp take over the profits of Canadian effort and blood, elsewhere in Canada.

It would seem that "progress not politics" has been changed to Power and Profits with a new axe (1) to grind.

LEST WE FORGET

Keep Playing Fields

Falling to secure the proposed Pandora Avenue site for a new fire hall, Victoria's fire wardens appear to have become desperate when they seek to acquire an integral part of the Central Junior High School grounds now in course of development for playing fields.

Everyone acquainted with the facts knows that open recreational areas are woefully inadequate throughout Greater Victoria. Adequate playing fields add a valuable contribution to children's education and their retention is absolutely essential.

A REPORT FROM INSIDE THE KREMLIN

Mr. K. Wants Western Relations Closer and Armies Farther

MOSCOW: Nikita S. Khrushchev in effect proposes that the United States adopt a "Fortress America" policy as the main item in a program for relaxing world tensions. "Soviet troops," he told me, "would be withdrawn to the national territory of the Soviet Union from all the countries in Europe where they are now stationed in accordance with existing treaties and agreements. Meanwhile, Western European countries would withdraw their troops stationed in the territories of other Western European countries. The United States would also withdraw its troops to American territory from Europe and Asia, and along with that would go the liquidation of all foreign military bases."

Alsop

This was the most concrete and significant proposal put forward by this remarkable man in an absorbingly interesting interview of two hours. Two other points stood out in Mr. Khrushchev's extensive discussion of foreign relations in general and Soviet-American relations in particular.

On the one hand, the Soviet leadership is anxious for the resumption of what Mr. Khrushchev called "normal diplomatic relations as distinguished from the only formally normal relations we now enjoy."

This normalization, in Mr. Khrushchev's definition, would include both inter-governmental meetings at the summit and the widest possible extension of trade and cultural relations between the two halves of the world.

Also Great

"We particularly want to normalize our relations with the United States," he said at one point, "because your country is a true great power, and we think our country also fits that category."

On the other hand, the suggestion that the Soviet Union might pull out its garrisons in Central Europe in exchange for American adoption of a policy of strictly continental defence constituted Mr. Khrushchev's only offer of a Soviet concession on any of the many issues that now divide the world.

In the currently vital case of the Middle East, he even indicated active Soviet support for the Middle Eastern oil resources which produce the real life blood of the second and third Western partners, Britain and France.

"The peoples of the Middle East must be permitted to develop as they choose, and must make their own use of the natural wealth of their countries," he said. "At the same time, we realize that Britain and France need Middle Eastern oil. But we think the oil should be obtained by normal commercial transactions."

Mr. Khrushchev received me in the First Secretary's big office in the rather forbidding stone building that houses some of the Communist party secretariat. Except for its size, the room was unremarkable, having no distinctive decoration.

At first glance, the man himself also seems unremarkable. But in conversation one soon notices that the rather plain face expresses a much deeper and more penetrating intelligence than appears in the stock photographs of Mr. Khrushchev being jolly.

He spoke authoritatively and listened attentively, but during the translations into English he would fiddle with an ornate paper cutter or an ear of hybrid corn enclosed in plastic, as though he were impatient to get on to the next topic.

Mr. Khrushchev set the theme for the discussion of foreign relations with his opening statement that we "all live on one planet and must find the way to live together in conditions of peaceful co-existence."

Come to Stay

The first step, he asserted, was for the Western leaders to reconcile themselves to the existence of the Socialist countries—"to accept this, as a believer would say, as something given by God." After that, he added, should come the "normalization" of diplomatic and other relations.

As examples of recent "abnormalities" he cited the State Department's interference with a training contract made by the Soviet Department of Agriculture with a Mid-Western hybrid corn producing company, and also the State Department's refusal of transit visas requested by the Russian Olympic athletes returning from Australia.

"These incidents," he said, "were, of course, mere pinpricks, but they were pinpricks given on purpose to prevent a serious approach to the more important problems standing between the two countries."

"Contacts on the highest level would be the most helpful," he added. "I want to express myself rather carefully, in order not to mislead American public opinion into thinking the Soviet Union is over-eager for such contacts. Yet we do believe they would be useful, indeed essential if we want to build up normal relationships. One cannot hope to transmit one's thoughts by magic. One cannot hope to impress one's ideas on the leaders of another country by remote control."

NEXT WE SEE ...

By B. A. TOBIN

Outside Looking In

APPROACH of the Centennial Year has brought out a good many proposals for ways in which the provincial birthday can be commemorated. Hospitals, arenas, auditoriums and such have been suggested. But among the most popular ideas are plans to put things on view—animals, birds, fish, relics, even people.

Tobin

Naturally, the centennial will be used by many people as an occasion for advancing their own ideas of what a city needs—and this city could do with a good many things it hasn't got. Lots of the proposals haven't much centennial significance about them. For instance, a hospital wing is badly needed, but it should be built on its own worthy merits and not as a mark of our joy in having achieved 100 years of provincial life.

The museum suggestions seem more in keeping with the theme of the anniversary. But one of the most pressing needs in this regard, it seems to me, is to rehabilitate the fine museum we already have, and give it a building in which the wealth of Indian lore can be properly displayed. Storage cupboards and packing cases aren't the best medium for exhibition of such things.

Quite Zootable

The aquarium idea isn't a bad one either. It's a funny thing: this town is dead against zoos of any kind, and with good reason, but I think it would go for an aquarium.

It raises an interesting point as to how far down the social scale of living creatures you have to go before you avoid cruelty through captivity.

A lion in a box is an affront to any decent person. An eagle in a cage is an insult to all creation. But a fish in a tank—is that equally callous? Is a guppy in a bowl a sign of human sadism? Actually, any living creature out of its natural environment loses most of its effectiveness as a specimen. A tiger dozing bleakly in a corner of a cage, like a heap of soiled silken rags, bears no resemblance to the sinuous streak of graceful power it is in the jungle.

Any "student" peering in through the bars gets no impression of what a tiger is and should be, he sees only the crushed shell of what the tiger used to be. In that light, a caged zoo is not educational. A movie would provide a ten times better idea of what the animal is really like.

A wild animal in captivity just isn't the same object as a wild animal in its natural habitat. Its normal freedom makes it what it is; freedom is the main ingredient and if you take it away you've destroyed the specimen.

The human animal is much the same.

Tanks, You're Welcome

Life without freedom is like a meal without salt, a sunrise without color, a can-can without black garters. It can exist but it loses its sparkle and spice.

But does this apply to fish? If it applies to a big fish in a little tank, does it also apply to a little fish in a big tank? Where do you draw the line between the animals that care, and those that are too low in consciousness to mind being cooped up?

A bird that can't stretch its wings in flight is probably headed for insanity at an early date. I have startled more than one keeper of a loved canary by suggesting that its trills and arpeggios may be the maniacal screams of a creature driven mad by close confinement.

But fish don't talk for publication. Seals seem to love an enclosed pool where they can be the recipients of public acclaim, peanuts and empty cigarette cartons. Does a fish in a tank feel it's never had it so good?

Come to think of it, do some people?

DENNIS THE MENACE

By JOSEPH ALSOP

ally with a warning that the "peoples of Europe will not tolerate their being guinea pigs in the hands of others" and will instead insist on the removal of United States bases from their territories. Therefore, he argued, the United States would be wise to begin at once to seek a different way out.

Thence he passed on to the Middle East, which he described as a situation "both complicated and dangerous, where the smoke of battle has not settled."

For these reasons, he declared, an agreement among the great powers was needed that would serve the twin purposes already noted, of a guarantee of free self-development for the Middle Eastern people, plus a guarantee that they could do what they chose with their oil resources.

Mr. Khrushchev further denied that there was any contradiction between suggesting inter-governmental negotiations on the Middle East one day, and then indicting the Middle Eastern policy of the United States in the United Nations the next day.

Question Raised

"We wanted to call things by their proper names," he said.

With an obvious reference to the Eisenhower doctrine, he went on, "The United States has repeatedly infringed on this country's frontiers and interfered in the affairs of other countries, and, therefore, we thought the question should be raised."

Finally, Mr. Khrushchev was asked the meaning of the seemingly sudden replacement of former Foreign Minister Dmitri T. Shepilov by Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

He answered that the change was made only "in order to make the best use of the personnel available; our policy had already been set forth in the report to the Supreme Soviet by comrade Shepilov, and no change of policy is implied."

Anyway, Mr. Khrushchev added, Soviet foreign policy was made collectively by the Presidium, and the Foreign Minister's task was "only to execute the policy already made."

Then, suddenly giving vent to a pleased chuckle, he concluded: "Even our glum comrade Gromyko can also smile very nicely if his partners in negotiation are smiling, too."

So ended this discussion of foreign affairs. It left an impression of a strong, clear, practical intellect, studying foreign relations with considerable astuteness, seeing particularly the important opportunities that this troubled world offers to the Kremlin's policy-makers, but viewing the whole, always and in all places, with the strong refraction of Soviet spectacles.

The Sea Giveth

WITH gentle irreverence, we say, out our way. "The sea giveth and the sea taketh away. Blessed is the sea."

When you've lived on the waterfront long enough to have barnacles where your disposition should be, you understand these things.

To you on the tide come treasures in wood, sometimes even lumber, tangles of help to enrich your garden soil, occasionally a fishing plug detached from a line too close to bottom.

From the marine delivery you glean the logs you want, the scantlings, planks. With these you build your boat slip, your cribbing for concrete forms, and sometimes your buttressed retaining walls.

So the sea giveth, and to it your render the tribute of your labor.

AGE AND DECAY

The years pass. The logs and timbers silver in sun and rain and grow old. Your concrete loses its strength, even as the aging builder.

The storms rise. Waves pound on your works. The clutching fingers of backwash wrench supports away, erode masonry, catch and fling your construction back to its earlier element. The tide which bore it from the boundless deep turns again home.

The sea taketh away.

A man returns to his labors on the waterfront, working with a son whose age matches that of the father when he helped his senior. They stoop to build again with worn-out tools. They have no hope of victory in their war against the sea. Yet to them comes some small sense of achievement, some satisfaction in creating again the structures which have fallen in decay and in the rage of gales.

There is a pathetic pride in such builders, a touch of the primitive more than the pioneer, in an age of machines. They are out of time with men of the mid-century.

YOUR HEALTH

Cholesterol and Heart Disease

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

At a recent meeting of the American Heart Association, there was much discussion as to the relation between cholesterol and other fat-like substances in the blood and the production of ulceration of the arteries with heart attacks. The scientists studied the amounts of cholesterol and certain lipoproteins (lipid means fat) in the blood of nearly 2,000 apparently normal men and women, and nearly 300 persons who had definite coronary heart disease. In the cases of 273 men who had survived a heart attack, the average levels of cholesterol and lipoprotein in the blood were higher than in normal men.

Unfortunately, the measurements vary so markedly in different persons that their value as indicators of future trouble with the heart is not always definite. The blood fats were found to be present in larger amounts in stout persons of both sexes.

At a recent medical meeting, some of the experts suggested that instead of hunting for more "tranquilizing" drugs for people, what we need today is a good medicine which will put a fighting spirit into people—a spirit that will help the mentally sick to conquer their fears, and to get up and face the world. Many schizophrenic persons greatly need a drug that will help them to conquer their great shyness, their inferiority complex, and their fear of touching people or being touched by them.

RADIO-COBALT AND CANCER

At a recent meeting, Dr. H. E. Johns, of the Ontario Cancer Institute, said that he thought that within three years, rays derived from radio-active cobalt will replace the usual 200,000-volt X-ray machines in the treatment of cancer. Dr. Johns said that several patients whose cancer was too far advanced for treatment with the ordinary radiotherapy received substantial benefit from irradiation with the cobalt bomb. We speak of a cobalt "bomb" because this radium-like substance has to be Today's man of accomplishment would survey the scene, bring in his heavy equipment, excavate to bedrock, pour his concrete and re-inforce it with steel. He would stand back knowing his structures were strong—and have no forethought for the future rusting of his steel, the denaturing of his cement or the infinite and inexorable power of moving water.

So the old-timer on the waterfront reverts to the simple processes of a day gone by. He makes his quest, eyes down, to find creosoted logs on the beach—the product which the sea still giveth, on occasion.

PRINCIPLE OF THE LEVER

He magnifies his feeble muscles with the age-old principle of the lever, works the logs from their imbedded couch in the sand, rolls them to the water and pilots them slowly to his site.

There, with a winch whose cable has rotted in the weather, he starts the hazardous lift which will place the heavy stringers in place. It is an exacting job, a task for pry and judgment more than strength, easing the labor of a hauling line too weak for the work assigned it.

It is slow and patient toil, a time to use the power of the water, lifting a log's sluggish weight, a time for quick jockeying with a short "scotch"; for the steady pull on the long, heavy lever.

Progress is by inches—two gained ahead, one lost by slip-back. So, perhaps, men worked at the tasks of manual labor when the pyramids were built, or as they still work, with the aid of oxen, in backward lands.

A loader, manipulating the handles of a big company's expensive "cherry picker" to swing great trees onto a truck, would laugh at the waste of time and energy. He would feel some pity for a man and a boy struggling at tasks that have no place in this day of the machine.

And he would miss entirely the quiet satisfaction of the two, gratified by the simple accomplishment of placing stringer logs, logging from nothing but what the sea giveth.

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

kept in a big thick-walled container which will protect the persons around it from rays spreading out in every direction. The patient gets his dosage of rays through a little hole in one side of the bomb. This hole is pointed at his cancer.

At a recent meeting, Dr. E. E. Menefee, Jr., of Duke University Medical School, said that victims of emphysema and chronic bronchitis (and he might have added asthma) have to choose between breathing and smoking! That will be a tough decision for many.

In cases of emphysema, some of the thousands of tiny air-sacs which make up the lungs rupture, and run together into larger cavities which are much less efficient for breathing purposes. That is why there is no good cure for emphysema. Irreparable damage has been done to the lungs and medicine will not build back the injured tissues. Cigarette smoking injures the bronchi or tubes that carry air into the lungs.

HOPE FOR THE ARTHRITIC

I see that two new drugs for arthritis have been announced at the recent meeting of the American Rheumatism Association. One of them, which resembles cortisone, is said to lack most of the bad effects of that drug. So far it has been tried only on animals. Another new hormone, also seems to have no serious side effects. It has been tried on man, and all the arthritic patients thus far treated with it have responded well. However, not enough time has elapsed for us to know how safe and how useful these drugs are going to be. It is mighty hopeful, however, to hear these reports that have just come in.

NEW TRANQUILIZERS

The new tranquilizer has been found. It is said to be particularly helpful in quieting vomiting, such as the vomiting of pregnancy, also that of gastric and intestinal disorders due to a virus. It can make persons more comfortable after an operation, or after a heavy X-ray treatment.

Another new drug of a tranquilizer type is said to be particularly good for the lowering of blood pressure. We hope that when these drugs are fully tested they will prove to be as good as they are now said to be.

SYNOPSIS—An extensive low pressure area which has been lying half way between Hawaii and Vancouver for the past few days is moving slowly northward. This disturbance is causing cloud over the southern districts of the province and in consequence minimum temperatures were much higher than Thursday night. Below zero temperatures occurred again in the northern interior.

This storm will give gradually thickening cloud and occasional light snow along the lower coast and the southern valleys. Precipitation will be more frequent on Saturday and there is a possibility that it will change to rain along the coast late Saturday.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime

A VENTURE CLASSIC

Liberals Too Prone to Follow U.S. Lead, Pearkes Charges

ESPANOLA, Ont. (CP) — Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, believes the Conservatives and Liberals are not radically opposed but "we have our differences."

The Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for the riding of Esquimalt-Saanich, speaking at a nomination meeting here, outlined some of the differences.

"We believe in closer ties with the Commonwealth than do the Liberals. We do not have some-one stand up and refer to supermen, coupling British and Russian leaders."

The Conservatives want Canada to "stand on her own feet" rather than return to the status of a colony. But the Liberals go to the other extreme and are too prone to follow the leaders of the United States.

"We believe in a democracy, and that the best type of democratic government is a two-party system," Gen. Pearkes said. "We see Canada drifting away from the two-party system because the Liberals have been in power too long."

Pilot Killed As Jet Crashes Near School

HERTFORD, N.C. (AP) — A U.S. Navy jet fighter whizzed past a crowded high school building minutes before the morning recess Thursday and crashed into an adjacent garage, killing one workman.

The body of the pilot was found hours later in a field some distance from the crash scene. Coast guardsmen said he apparently did not bail out as there was no sign of ejection equipment or a parachute.

U.K. EXAMINER OFFERS ACADEMIC OPINION

Neglogable Knolege of Speling By Persones Who Right Like This

LONDON (CP) — Is Britain's welfare state creating a nation of bad spellers?

Perhaps, says The Daily Telegraph, adding that every now and then some "devastating incident" reveals the imperfections of the welfare state.

As an example, it quotes a letter from an examiner complaining of the "neglogable knolege" of spelling shown by candidates for university scholarships.

The examiner, Sir Reginald Watson - Jones, gives a sample sentence composed of words misspelled by 16- and 17-year-old boys from British grammar and secondary schools:

SHAWKING SPELING

"Shurley my genuine indigestion is extreem in wellfore Britain for obviose variose reasonale and not neglogable knolege and acedemic oppinion of the extreem conseqences of impossibly benefiting the ammount of priviledge occasionally offered domatically to foreigen professors in these geographocal boundris at assemblages of persones who right like this."

Sir Reginald says he could go on with beauties like olimpic, comences, difine, vegetarian and glimps, but "I should forget how to spell myself."

An explanation, he suggests, may be that modern youngsters lack classical education and spend too much time watching television. The Daily Telegraph suggests blame should be shared by the students and their elders, both parents and teachers.

Beaverbrook Hits Trade Plan

LONDON (Reuters) — A booklet attacking plans for British participation in a European free trade group and calling for a general election on the issue was published Thursday by Lord Beaverbrook's Newspapers Ltd.

The booklet said "the life of every man, woman and child in this island will be affected for the worse if the government carries out its intention of linking Britain's economy with Europe."

It said Britain should look toward the Commonwealth and Empire, which has the greatest resources in the world and which offers the world's greatest market with 640,000,000 customers.

It contended that "before this far-reaching and irrevocable change in Britain's trading policy is taken the public should be consulted" by a general election.

More Pre-Prepared Food Foreseen by Meat-Packer

Housewife Will Want Shorter Hours Natural Resources Parley Informed

The new leisure due for B.C. in years to come, in the form of the shorter work week and higher wages, will force major changes in the meat industry, according to I. M. McConnan, manager of the Vancouver branch of Burns & Co.

"Preparation of food in the home must be made easier and quicker," he said at the B.C. Natural Resources Conference Thursday. "Is it not reasonable to assume that the housewife will be looking for shorter hours?"

Speaking as one of a panel of agriculturalists discussing processing and utilization of commodities, he said the meat industry makes available pre-cooked hams ready for the table, cold meat sliced for sandwiches or cold meals, steaks and chops ready for the frying pan, and many other items all ready for quick preparation at home. Meat pies are ready for a warm-up in the oven.

"Maybe you and I don't think too kindly of this, but suppose we compare our current methods with what our mothers used to have to contend with 20 years ago?" he said.

4,200 Miles of Wieners

"There is every reason to believe that in the next generation we will find a greater husband-wife working combination which, if true, means a definite necessity for quickly prepared meals," Mr. McConnan said.

Packaging, he said, has increased meat sales, and even the lowly wiener has benefited.

"There were 4,200 miles of wieners eaten in B.C. last year," he said.

The PGE Railway will contribute to meat packing by making grain more readily available to the producer, which in turn will induce feeding of greater numbers of livestock within the province.

L. A. Atkinson, assistant general manager of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association, showed no fear of a trend of residential construction on good milk-producing land, and increasing demand for milk.

"It is my considered opinion that future supplies will come from the remaining good dairy land by increased production of milk per acre, even to the point of importing part or all of the feed for heavy concentrations of cows on small areas of land, as is now done in California," he said.

Fresh milk will continue to dominate the B.C. market for some time, he said.

NOT PERFECT YET

"Efforts toward changes and improvements in concentrated milk have all been directed toward a product which resembles milk in its original fresh fluid form," he said. "Complete success in this regard has not been achieved, and in my opinion it will be a long time before we have some type of manufactured milk which will answer all of the requirements of fresh fluid milk."

There are 25,000 people gainfully employed on the 1,000,000 acres of agricultural land in the province, J. S. Allen, of the agriculture department extension service, told the conference. Of this number, 7,000 are hired help.

Gross income in 1955 was $120,000,000, and net income was estimated at $35,000,000. This requires the "relatively large" capital investment of $408,000,000, he said.

Dairying ranks first in the list of agricultural commodities as far as dollar value is concerned, he said, with about 30 per cent of the total. In order behind it are poultry, beef, vegefish at all depths, and finding and studying potentially valuable species.

SPORT FISHING COSTLY

Dr. Peter Larkin, director of the UBC fisheries institute, said that one of every four men in B.C. is a sport fisherman, and that the cost of both preparing and catching his fish is about $6.50 each.

"We spend money improving sport fishing to bring a greater measure of pleasure and contentment to the public at large," he said. "The value of a park can only be measured by what it would cost to make it if it wasn't there. Sport fishing has the same kind of value. A part of our way of living is its use as a resource."

Fisheries resources of the province are fully utilized, E. L. Harrison, vice-chairman of the Fisheries Association of B.C., assured the conference.

"No part of our catch is wasted. In fisheries utilization we are practicing sound conservation which will assuredly result in increased production and continuing growth of the resource," he said.

AND STILL NO HORSES

EL PASO, Tex. — Back in 1928 a young man enlisted in the army. He wanted assignment in the 7th Cavalry Division at Fort Bliss, Tex., so he could be around horses.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, Feb. 21st.—Be good to yourself! Take time out occasionally from the turmoil of the day's business. Enjoy a cup of refreshing New INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE and relax for a few moments. I've found that the most charming, and the most talented people are usually those who enjoy the good things of life. So let's have a cup—now! See the rich coffee color and the full-bodied richness of 100% real coffee. It's truly delicious.

You'll Be Grateful For This Tip. I'm certain! Order some of the new McCormick's Club Crackers. Inside every box you'll find a booklet, "Hostess Hint"—a collection of unusual ideas for mixing spreads that will win you fame as a hostess. For instance . . . "Boston Brownies," a deliciously different canape that makes a perfect party treat. "Tuna Special" is another. Everybody will like this one. Altogether nine wonderful and delicious recipes that show you how to make party preparations easy—with Club Crackers. McCormick's Club Crackers are becoming so popular! I know your guests will love them!

I Love Cooking . . . and can honestly claim to be a good cook. That's why I feel justified in telling you, with enthusiasm, how completely delicious you'll find Lipton's soups . . . especially the GREEN PEA SOUP. And it's so simple. You just add the contents of the Lipton package to cold water, bring to a boil, let simmer for a few minutes, and serve. Mmmmm, that velvety-smooth purée of peas with spicy, "smoky" flavour really hits the spot. Try it soon! Right now you can get, with an empty package from any Lipton Soup—Spice Thermometer and Baster set which usually costs $3.00—for only $1.00! Check at your food store on this offer.

There's No Mystery . . . about soft, pretty hands. It just requires the easy, everyday care of Campana's ITALIAN BALM—rubbed briskly into your hands after every exposure to wind, work, weather. Only takes a moment when you use the handy household size, with the new dispenser . . . for a quick thumb-pressure release just the right amount to be absorbed quickly into your skin. Both for only 60c. It's important that the children learn this hand-care, too, for chapped hands can be really painful. Hope you will take my advice—and get Italian Balm today!

A Flash Of Color . . . a whir of wings . . . a cheery chirrup, and our Budgie, Sir Isaac, is on my shoulder nibbling affectionately at my cheek. He loves his little perch with a mirror hung in front and two bells to ring . . . and he loves his "Basic Five"—by Brock's, of course—the five elements in Brock's Natural Feeding Diet . . . special by his BROCK'S BUDGIE TREAT! Keeps Budgies in tip-top health!

Mother Love . . . Shows itself in many ways. Some of it poetic and sentimental . . . and some of it, very practical. As, for instance, serving RED RIVER CEREAL for cheery, nourishing breakfast. The flavor's so delicate and pleasant, with its blending of three fine grains. Red River is so nourishing, too. Cooks in a few minutes, and costs only two cents a serving. The best of Red River, though, is that it is ideal for every type of Canadian—producing energy needs for heavy workers; guarding regularity for sedentary workers, and older people. And wonderful for youngsters!

Making Someone Very Happy . . . that's the essence of Christmas giving. But how happy are you when the bills for the gifts you give start rolling in? Well, you don't have to look too far for the reason. It just requires a little planning—planning ahead, I mean. Why not do as John and I did last year. Start a Yuletide Savings Account at your BANK OF MONTREAL branch! Keep it apart from any other account and add to it each week or month, whichever suits you best. By saving regularly at "My Bank" Christmas shopping next December will be all the fun and happiness it should be for you and your friends.

Good News For Your Budget! Your grocer now has BLUE BONNET MARGARINE at an extra special low price. This is the same high quality, all-vegetable Blue Bonnet you've always enjoyed, but it's at a bigger bargain than ever. But take my advice and hurry—you can make extra savings only while the supply of special packages lasts. The sunny-sweet flavor of Blue Bonnet makes it so good when spread on bread or toast, or used as-top hot vegetables. It's marvelous for sauces, baking, and pan-frying, too. Get several pounds of the quality all-vegetable margarine—Blue Bonnet—while you make those extra big savings!

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

It has been a long, quiet winter for many reasons, one of which was that Deacon Jake Proctor hasn't been around to liven up the scene.

But the sun was shining yesterday and we were talking to the Deacon. It was relieving to discover that he hasn't forgotten how, over the long, silent winter.

For instance, it seems that Jake has reached a crossroads in his lacrosse career.

One fork leads to New Westminster and the other to the little room where referees don their striped shirts.

The way it stands now, Jake is a boxa bachelor, having divorced himself from the nagging of the Vancouver Pilseners, whom he coached last season.

The Pils last year were an amalgamation of Jake's Indians and Johnny Cavalin's Vancouver squad.

When the teams amalgamated and Cavalin dropped out, Jake became head man.

But a month ago, the Indian faction dropped out and it was reported that youthful Jack McKinnon was to become the new coach.

So yesterday, Jake was saying, "I resigned long before they had their bust-up because I knew it was coming and I didn't want any part of it."

"New Westminster has asked me to coach and if they get organized, I'd like to take a crack at it back there. But if they don't get moving pretty soon, I'm going to file an application to be a referee this year."

Jake sees bright possibilities for New Westminster this year, if the proper promotion steps are taken.

JAKE PROCTOR

Jake Has News for McKinnon

"If I coach over there, I think we could have a good year. Those kids are a year older now and I know I could get all the best guys from Vancouver to come over with me."

"Stan Joseph would come with me to play goal and I know that not many of the old Vancouver bunch are going to stick around to play for McKinnon. He never was much of a player so why should guys who know twice as much as him have to listen to him? Besides, he has his team picked already—all juniors. He figures that a junior team can step up and win a Canadian championship."

"Brother, have I got news for him."

"And how about the alternative?"

"Well, if I don't coach, I guess I'll try refereeing. Hell, I can't be any worse than the guys who have been refereeing the past few years."

"Those referees make about $500 a season and that's $100 more than I ever made."

"Jake has a few ideas on refereeing, having made a careful, if sometimes baleful, study of a long series of game officials."

"This Natterin' Has Got to Stop"

"If I referee, I will just about abolish the free throw. It's always seemed weird to me that a guy can be on his way in to shoot on goal, he gets charged from behind and all the referee does is stop the play and give the same guy the ball. Way I see it, if the guy can stay on his feet, there should be a delayed penalty call, like in hockey. If he goes in and scores, no penalty. But if he doesn't score, the guy who charged him gets two minutes."

"Another thing I wouldn't stand for is all this yackin' and natterin'. Whitey Severson was bad for it and so was Harry Wipper. But if I ref, the guys will ask a question, I'll give them an answer and if that doesn't satisfy them, they can sit in the penalty box for 10 minutes and think it over."

"No sir, this natterin' has got to stop. Believe me, I know what I'm talking about. I used to be one of the worst in the league and if I ref, I'll be out to clean up all this yackin'."

Home-Town Quartets Lead Alberni 'Spiel

Port Alberni rinks were leading play for the Mackenzie Trophy, the way as play in the fifth annual besting Duncan's Ed Valleau, 8-7, Alberni Valley Curling Club bon- and trimming Ed Davis of Port Alberni, 11-4.

Bob McIntosh of Victoria lost to Davis, 9-7, and Jim Tang of Victoria was edged, 7-6, by Port Alberni's F. Hunt.

Two Victoria rinks were ousted from the host club. Other rinks boasting unbeaten records were those skipped by Bob Fuller of Nanaimo and Victoria's Tony Gutoski.

Gutoski won twice Thursday in ell, 13-12.

Can't Tell Cougars Without Program

A program will be a handy guide and a wise investment at tonight's Victoria Cougar-Calgary Stampeder hockey game.

Without one you may wonder who is where on the Victoria club.

Coach Colin Kilburn announced Thursday night that he was initiating a wholesale shuffle among his forward line combinations in an effort to reach maximum scoring efficiency for tonight's game and the all-important two-game series with Vancouver Canucks Monday and Tuesday nights.

First of all, the Kilburn-Doug Anderson-Doug Macauley line, best unit on the team last year, will be broken up tonight. Macauley will drop back to the second line and utility man Don Chiupka will move up to right wing with Kilburn and Anderson.

Macauley will move to the right side with centre Ray Powell and Wayne Brown. On the third line, rookie right-winger Harry Leach will work for the first time with centre Gordie Haworth and left-winger Bruce Carmichael.

SEEKS MORE PUNCH

Kilburn explained the moves as follows:

"First of all, our line hasn't been hitting, so with Chiupka digging up the puck for us, we may start rolling. On the second line, Powell should be able to feed Macauley some scoring passes and on the third line, Leach can dig up the puck for Haworth and Carmichael, both of whom can score when they get that puck."

Kilburn also indicated he was contemplating using just three full-time defencemen and a fourth rearguard as a utility player. He said that the defence played its best hockey of the season when injuries cut their ranks to three players.

Three points out of the last Western Hockey League playoff position, Cougars can get closer tonight with a victory. Third-place Canucks are playing Brandon Regals tonight, warming up for the big two-game series with Cougars Monday and Tuesday.

This will be the last scheduled meeting of the season for the Cougars and Stamps, the Victoria club having blanked Calgary in the other two games at Memorial Arena.

Tonight has been designated "Lions Club Night," with the service club's charities receiving all proceeds over expenses.

WHEN BOXERS HEAR BELLS THAT'S BEGINNING OF END

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Middleweight Henry Bronko of Detroit may ring the bell against Jimmie Guy here Monday night, and from Guy's standpoint that's the trouble.

Seems Bronko has a penchant for wearing bells on his shoes while fighting. He's slated to meet Guy in a preliminary bout Monday night on the Charley Joseph-Willie Vaughn card.

"It's a good luck charm I picked up out west," said Bronko. "The bells give rhythm to my punches and tell me when I'm really in action or standing flat-footed. When the bells quit ringing, I get going."

But Richie Dering, manager of the Detroit-born Guy, wants no part of the bell ringing.

"It ain't right," said Dering. "My fighter might get confused and stop in the middle of the bout, thinking it's the end. If those things don't come off, the bout don't come off."

Carmen's the Boy Say Ring Experts

Basilio 3-1 To Defeat Saxton

CLEVELAND (UP) —

Carmen Basilio, the hatch-faced welterweight champion, hopes to chop down

ex-champ Johnny Saxton

tonight in their title "rubber match" at the Cleveland

Arena so that he can try next for the middleweight crown.

The betting is 3-1 that raw boned Carmen from Chittenango, N.Y., will achieve his second victory over streamlined

Saxton of New York in their third encounter before a possible sell-out crowd of 12,700.

Carmen's recently tender right hand has not discouraged his supporters.

In fact, the wagering is 7-5 that 26-year-old Saxton does not last the scheduled 15 rounds of the nationally televised and broadcast battle.

RICH GATE

A five week's postponement

because the champion bruised

helped the gate, expected now to range between $130,000 and $150,000. That would be the largest in Cleveland since the

Max Schmeling-Young Stribling

heavyweight title fight, July 3,

1931. Since then the top has

$87,000 drawn by Sugar Ray

Robinson and Artie Levine in 1946.

Co-manager Joe Netro said today, "I hope Carmen finishes his series decisively tonight with Saxton, so he can shoot for the middleweight title. At 29, it has become a real chore for Carmen to pare down to the 147-pound limit. He would be stronger as a middleweight, around 154 pounds. Of course, whether he could go right after the 160-pound crown would depend on the wishes of the pro-motors."

In their two previous bouts,

Saxton recaptured the title on a unanimous but disputed decision over Basilio at Chicago

Stadium last March 14, but Carmen won it back from Johnny on a ninth-round TKO at Syracuse, N.Y., Sept. 12.

Saxton, who originally won the championship from Kid

Gavilan and lost it to Tony

Demarco, has the chance to right to become the first to win the welterweight three times.

GOOD HOOKERS

Both are excellent left hook-ers, but fiery Carmen was the aggressor in every round of both previous bouts. Both are accurate and explosive with their rights. However, Basilio is believed the harder hitter;

and he's certainly the more rugged. Carmen never was stopped in his 68 fights. He knocked out 23 men while winning 49 bouts, losing 12 and drawing in seven.

Saxton, who does less bobbing and weaving than the

DETROIT CLUTCHES LEAD

Skinny Glenn Fattens Wings

By The Canadian Press

Glenn Hall, a skinny, young goaltender from Humboldt, Sask., may prove the deciding factor if Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings meet for the Stanley Cup.

Hall is a laconic 25-year-old who approaches his tasks with much less dash and flair than Jacques Plante, his peripatetic counterpart in the Canadiens' nets, but in the last few weeks, he's been doing a better job of net-minding.

Thursday night, when the two teams met in Montreal, he stopped exactly twice as many shots as Plante and the Wings came away with a 3-1 tie that kept them eight points ahead of Montreal.

Hall kept a slight lead on Plante, his only rival for the Vezina Trophy for the top goaltender, and the $1,000 that goes with it, and by keeping the great Jean Beliveau off the score sheet he made Gordie Howe's or Ted Lindsay's chances of winning the scoring championship a little better.

Lindsay scores twice. Those two stalwarts went to work with a will and produced all of Detroit's goals—two for Lindsay and one for Howe. It was Howe's 37th of the season and he collected two assists to go with it, to seven points ahead of Beliveau. Lindsay had an assist with his pair of goals to stay two points behind his linemate.

A pair of Montrealers also divided the scoring for the Habits. It was Richard night with Maurice Rocket getting one—his 25th—and brother Henri, the other two—his 14th and 15th.

A crowd of 14,011 fans saw Montreal take a 1-0 and 2-1 lead in the first and second periods.

Canadiens had most of the edge in territorial play as Hall made 20 saves to Plante's 15, but they couldn't hold their leads or crack Hall when they had to.

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

In a year that has produced several dull smears on the overall outdoor picture, it has been heartening to see a few brush strokes that have brightened the outlook for at least one outdoor group.

Our growing fraternity of boat owners, plagued by a lack of convenient all-weather mooring sites and facilities to launch trailer-borne craft, has received a couple of good breaks in the past few months and now their biggest dream seems within the realms of possibility.

First good news was the survey conducted by the parks and recreation division of the Department of Lands and Forests, which heralded a probable start on a system of marine parks along the lines of the popular roadside 'campsites for motorists.

Then came the announcement that five more small boat launching ramps would be available within easy range of Victoria boatmen. Due to be in operation this year are public launching sites at Ogden Point, Patricia Bay, Brentwood and Sandy Beach south of Mill Bay and a private one at Van Isle Marina in Tsehum (Shoal) Harbor. Currently available are launching facilities at Esquimalt and Oak Bay.

Oak Bay Breakwater Biggest Project

Other launching sites are also under consideration. The energetic Victoria Outboard Association is hoping to obtain additional ramps at Otter Point and Cowichan Bay. The Otter Point project may be completed in time for the September run of coho salmon but there will probably be difficulty in finding a suitable site at Cowichan Bay.

However, the biggest 1957 project of the outboard club, and one that should interest every local pleasure-boat owner, is that of sponsoring a breakwater at Oak Bay as a Centennial project for Greater Victoria.

Plans for constructing a breakwater from Turkey Head beside the Oak Bay Boat House to Mary-Tod Island are not new. In fact, they may be considered a casualty of two wars.

They were well advanced before being shelved at the outbreak of the First World War and had again reached a favorable stage when the latest world conflict chased them back into mothballs.

It is significant that the breakwater idea has stood the test of time and has actually gained in favor over the years. If an all-weather haven for small boats was considered desirable more than 40 years ago, it should be close to a necessity now with the numbers of pleasure boats multiplied many times.

Mooring Facilities Taxed to Capacity

Lack of mooring space around Victoria makes it necessary for hundreds of boat owners to keep their craft in the vicinity of Sidney, where facilities are already taxed to capacity. Many are forced to haul their boats out of the water during the winter.

The proposed breakwater would ease these conditions and also provide a safe shelter for boats unable to pass through Trial Island waters in rough weather. It would also play a part in attracting a greater portion of the growing fleet of marine tourists, who are inclined to bypass Victoria because of its present mooring facilities.

It is doubtful if there is a better location for establishment of a boat haven. Oak Bay is close enough to the city to suit both tourists and resident boat-owners. There is little to be said against it and much in its favor, including the fact that a breakwater would open up a new picnic area on Mary-Tod Island.

The Victoria Outboard Club is circulating a petition, hoping to get 10,000 names as backing for the plan, which has been endorsed by Oak Bay Council.

Eventually we must have a haven for small boats. Why not a start on it now?

Crofton still appears the best Lower-Island bet for salt-water anglers but Saanich Inlet could pick up any day. There have been good numbers of grise showing at the Inlet but results this week have been spotty.

On the steelhead front, most Island rivers are low and the fish have been hard to foot. However, most of the rivers are harboring steelies and some anglers are finding ways to bring back fish.

Best showing of brant this season was reported from Miracle Beach. Appearance of a flock of approximately 500 birds at Miracle Beach might mean the first real wave of migrating brant is on its way.

Aragon Dumbfounded By Fix Conviction

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Talkative Art Aragon, the so-called "Golden Boy" of California boxing, was convicted Thursday by a superior court jury of conspiring to offer another fighter $500 to throw a fight.

A jury of six men and six women which had started deliberations last Tuesday, returned the verdict.

"I didn't expect this," Aragon said weakly. "I am dumbfounded." By its verdict, the jury accepted the story of Polish refugee boxer Dick Goldstein of Seattle that Aragon, former third-ranking welterweight, paid him to "take a dive" in the fourth round of their scheduled bout in San Antonio, Tex., last Dec. 18. The bout was called off at the last minute because of Aragon's illness.

Aragon faces a possible sentence of up to five years in prison, a $5,000 fine, or both. His attorney, Paul Caruso, immediately made an oral motion for a new trial and superior judge Herbert V. Walker ordered a hearing on the motion for March 14 and set sentencing for March 21.

Aragon had been one of the greatest drawing cards in western boxing history and was credited with having earned nearly $1,000,000 in purses. The conviction, if upheld, could mean the end of Aragon's ring career during which he reached the peak of being a challenger for the lightweight title as well as a top-ranking welterweight.

Deputy district attorney William L. Riza, who successfully prosecuted the case, said he believed "inconsistencies" in Aragon's testimony were responsible for the verdict.

Called Up by Vancouver Canucks
Canucks, Don Ashbee, playing coach of intermediate Naino Clippers, will be in action for the Western Hockey League club against Brandon Regals tonight. He played briefly with Canucks at start of 1954-55 season before returning to amateur ranks and can play three games in WHL without losing amateur status.

Tropical May Lose License

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Florida State Racing Commission, citing eight alleged violations of laws or regulations, has ordered Tropical Park, Inc., to show cause why its license to conduct pari-mutuel betting should not be revoked.

Saul Silberman, president of the race track, was served notice Thursday that a hearing would be held Monday. The commission said sufficient evidence had been presented which, if true, would warrant revocation of Tropical's permit.

The commission's charges against Tropical for the 1956-57 season were made in these allegations:

1. That Tropical employed Maurice J. Hirschstein, "who knowingly associated regularly during the said period with persons commonly known as bookmakers or criminals" in violation of Florida law.

2. That Tropical employed Hirschstein during the meeting without requiring him to secure occupational license and pay the tax as required by law.

3. That Hirschstein was not required to furnish the racing commission with a copy of his fingerprints and photographs.

4. That Silberman, while president of the corporation holding a racing permit in Florida, "knowingly associated during the 1956-57 race meeting at Tropical Park with persons commonly known as bookmakers or criminals."

5. That Silberman, "unlawfully and without authority, did make large bets or wagers with the mutual department at Tropical Park during the racing meeting without depositing any money for such bets with the mutual department, but did make such bets on credit, contrary to Florida law."

6. That Tropical Park, through Silberman, knowingly permitted the telephone to be used in violation of the rules in giving out racing information from Tropical Park.

Dramatic Last-Rock Finish Gives Ontario Championship

Sudden-Death Playoff Needed In Dominion High School 'Spiel

WINNIPEG (CP)—A dramatic, last-rock, take-out-and-stick shot by 17-year-old skip Ian Johnston gave Ontario an 8-7 victory over Northern Ontario early today in a sudden-death playoff for the Dominion high school curling championship.

After a see-saw battle for eight ends in which each rink scored seven points, Johnston deliberately blanked the ninth end to give him last rock coming home. The gamble paid off but Johnston could well have been the goat as Carl Konefal's Port Arthur foursome curled beautifully on the 10th and final end.

The northerners got shot stone on the 12-foot ring and almost had perfect protection on Konefal's guard from his last shot. All that was left was a narrow pot from an out-turn shot. But that was enough for Johnston, who drew through cleanly with good sweeping from his mates—and hit dead on and stuck.

HARD LOSS

It was a heart-breaking loss for Northern Ontario, losers in a similar playoff last year to Saskatchewan on a cold-draw by skip Bob Hawkins of Regina on his final rock.

The playoff between the two Ontario rinks was forced Thursday night when Konefal suffered his second defeat of the regular nine rounds by a 11-8 count to British Columbia. Johnston, beaten Thursday morning by New Brunswick, moved back into a first-place tie by downing Nova Scotia 6-3 on the final draw.

Johnston received solid support from his third, Mike Jackson, 18; second Dave Robinson, 18, and lead Peter Galsworthy, 17. All four made miscues, but also came up with some brilliant shots.

The rink was presented with the Sifton Trophy and rose bowls by the donor, Victor Sifton, publisher of The Winnipeg Free Press.

SECOND TRIP EAST

It was Ontario's second title since the championship started in 1948. Oshawa's Bob Walker won the event for Ontario at Saskatoon in 1953. Saskatchewan has won the competition seven times and Manitoba once.

On the final round B.C.'s Bob Nesbitt connected for two big ends—a five on the fourth and a four on the sixth—to gain his margin of victory over Konefal, and his fourth win of the championship.

Big League Ball in L.A. By 1960?

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Los Angeles will have major league baseball "no later than 1960." So says Brooklyn Dodgers president Walter F. O'Malley, one of baseball's better poker players currently dueling with the New York civic officialdom.

The pot: A new stadium in Flat-bush for the National League champions.

O'Malley predicted big league ball, not necessarily Dodgers variety, for Los Angeles after Thursday's announcement of Brooklyn's purchase from Chicago Cubs of the Los Angeles ball park and franchise in the Pacific Coast League.

O'Malley said the Dodgers plan to operate the Los Angeles team in the PCL for the present.

The complicated deal whereby the Dodgers kicked wide the door to westward expansion of major league baseball worked this way: Brooklyn bought the Los Angeles ball park and franchise.

The Cubs received the Dodgers' Fort Worth franchise in the Texas League, but not the park or real estate.

Dodgers will end their limited working agreement with Portland in the PCL, and Chicago may assume that agreement, said Cub president Philip K. Wrigley.

O'Malley recently said he would wait just six months to see whether the Dodgers were going to get a new stadium in Brooklyn, "then I will have to make other arrangements."

Is he bluffing? O'Malley says no.

Net Debt Cut $11 Million Guarantees Up $85 Million

Interest on Direct Debt Cut $2 Million

During the last 12 months British Columbia's direct provincial net debt has been reduced by $11,748,238, but in the same period the government's debt guarantees—classified as contingent liabilities—have jumped by $85,000,000.

This was disclosed by Premier Bennett in his budget speech today and reflects the operation of the long range debt policy which he adopted when he took over the administration nearly five years ago. Under this policy the government does not make any direct borrowings for capital works. It pays for highways, buildings and such jobs out of revenue, then gives debt guarantees for the borrowings made by school boards, the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, toll bridges and roads, and the B.C. Power Commission projects.

$76 Million Cut Since Feb. 1952

The premier announced that the net direct debt as at Dec. 31 was $114,189,579. He said this was not only $11,748,238 less than a year ago, but represented a total reduction of $76,902,260 since February of 1952. This makes the per capita direct debt $81.65 for each of the 1,398,464 people in B.C. The gross debt is $202,633,699. Against this is $28,903,970 owed by the power commission and $59,540,150 in sinking funds. Deducting these amounts gives the net debt figure. He pointed out that the per capita net debt of $81.65 is barely half the $160 figure it was in 1952. As a result of the steady cut in direct debt the annual interest charges will be reduced by $2,236,152 next year.

Entire Debt Paid Off by 1962

The premier reiterated a claim that under his debt retirement policy the entire direct debt will be paid off by 1962. During the coming year a total of $49,367,000 will be paid off.

While this steady reduction of the direct debt has been taking place, the guaranteed debt has been jumping at a phenomenal rate, the budget speech showed. The guaranteed school debt jumped from $51,041,000 to $60,024,000 during the year.

Loans for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway have soared from $13,000,000 to $40,155,932.

UBC Aid Petition Ignored by Premier

The intensive campaign to get more provincial government grants for expansion at the University of British Columbia failed to budge Premier Bennett.

In his budget speech today, he made it clear no extra financial aid is planned this year.

The university will receive $1,000,000, as previously announced, for new buildings. This is part of the $10,000,000 the government has promised the university over 10 years.

Students earlier this year circulated a petition and gathered 45,000 names supporting increased grants to relieve overcrowding at the university.

FIRST TIME IN 12 YEARS' OPERATION

Power Commission Output Exceeds 1 Billion Hours

Electricity production by the B.C. Power Commission during 1955-56 exceeded the one billion hours mark for the first time since the government agency was established 12 years ago.

This was reported today in Premier Bennett's budget speech which also noted the commission's output is increasing 16 per cent annually—double the national average.

Total borrowings of the BC PC at the end of 1956 were $118,481,369, but completion of undertakings already approved for construction will push this figure to over $160,000,000. The commission can borrow up to $170,000,000.

As to the commission's part in future projects, the premier only said:

"Long-term future needs are being anticipated by surveys and investigations of potential sources of energy, and related planning is already in process to ensure that the increase in energy requirements may be met in a timely manner."

Old Age Pension Increase Up to Ottawa, Says Bennett

There will be no increase in the $20 monthly bonus paid by the B.C. government to old-age pensioners, Premier Bennett revealed in his budget speech today.

Pensioners now receive $40 a month from the federal government and $20 from B.C.

Both CCF and Social Credit members in the legislature have urged that the provincial bonus pensioners.

be increased from $20 to $30, making a total of $70 monthly. Obviously anticipating criticism, the Premier said:

"It is up to Ottawa to increase the pension. B.C. already pays the highest pension of any province in Canada."

He added that he would continue to press Ottawa for "more generous assistance" to old-age pensioners.

PICTURE OF B.C. DEBT REVEALED BY BUDGET

	Dec. 31 1955	Dec. 31 1956
Gross debt (direct)	$214,487,297	$202,633,699

Tax Rental Pact Extended 5 Years

Bennett Quashes CCF Predictions B.C. to Levy on Personal Incomes

The spectre of a possible return to dual income and corporation taxes in British Columbia was promptly dissolved by Premier Bennett in his budget speech today when he announced B.C. will sign another five-year agreement with Ottawa on rental of its rights to these taxes.

He disclosed, however, that as a result of negotiations extending over months last year, B.C. secured several concessions which will give it $47,055,000 more during the five-year life of the new agreement than it would otherwise have got.

In the coming year the province will get $39,370,537 from Ottawa through the pact, as against $32,621,000 in the year just finishing. The present agreement expires March 31.

He said "protracted negotiations" led to the understanding that the federal government would implement its original proposals regarding social security, health programs and economic development.

"During the past two years much time was applied to studies and negotiations related to the terms of a revised and acceptable tax-rental agreement to follow the current one which terminates March 31," the premier said.

Better Conditions

He added that the favorable economic climate prevailing since 1946 has prompted many to speculate on the wisdom or value of postwar tax-rental agreements.

Throughout all its negotiations since 1945, the B.C. government has maintained:

1. That the British North America Act gives the province at least equal rights of taxation as it does to the federal government.

2. That the national and provincial governments should respect each other's right of taxation and refrain from encroachment on the rights of either.

3. That B.C., either by direct action or through a tax-rental agreement, should enjoy a yield equal to that which would accrue by the reimposition of provincial rates identical to those in force in 1941.

4. That the federal law respecting taxation of incomes or estates be applied uniformly to prevent double taxation, and that a uniform and equitable portion of the tax levy be recognized as the provincial share.

5. That failing the joint cultivation of tax fields on a level enabling the full discharge of responsibilities, there should be joint participation by Ottawa in all essential provincial projects relating to development, protection, conservation and regeneration of natural resources.

6-Point Program

As part of this joint participation, the premier mentioned:

1. All-weather roads, basic communication and transport essential to the development of the province.

2. Protection and regeneration of forests.

3. The federal law respecting taxation of incomes or estates be applied uniformly to prevent double taxation, and that a uniform and equitable portion of the tax levy be recognized as the provincial share.

$28 Tax Refund Will Benefit About 267,000

No Home Owner Wholly Exempt

About 267,500 home owners in British Columbia will benefit from the provincial government's new policy of a $28 grant toward municipal taxes.

Premier Bennett gave this figure in his budget speech today.

He said 116,000 of these will be in cities, 68,000 in district municipalities, 12,000 in villages and the other 71,500 in unorganized territories who pay their land taxes direct to the province.

The premier did not describe exactly how the $28 will be paid to homeowners, but said the details will be unfolded when specific legislation is presented to the House.

However, in cases where a person's total land tax is $28 or less, he will still have to pay a minimum of $1 land taxes.

The program will give land tax relief amounting to $7,490,000, he said. Of this amount, $5.5 million will be for homeowners in the cities, districts and villages, and the other $2 million in unorganized territory.

MOST EFFECTIVE

The premier said the government had decided on this form of tax aid for homeowners as the most effective way to help them.

He pointed out that if grants were made in lump sums to municipal governments they would have the effect of lowering the over-all tax rates. But commercial and industrial property owners would also benefit, and they can already write off part of their land taxes against income taxes.

Homeowners, however, cannot write off their municipal taxes on income tax, so the direct grant to them is the simplest and most realistic means of relief.

Need Seen For Cautious Use of Money

Although prospects generally appear favorable, Premier Bennett had words of warning in his budget speech today.

He said the province must be cautious in the use of its cash resources, and he gave two main reasons:

The new "tight money" policies of the federal government; and the unsettled international situation.

SLOWDOWN

Because of the "tight money" a slowdown was beginning to show already in housing; also in capital goods production and industrial plant expansion.

And because of the international upheaval, concern over export market potentials was increasing.

Rising interest rates, he said, could mean the shelving or cancellation of industrial projects which, under normal conditions, would be balanced by capital undertakings on the part of the provincial or municipal governments.

BACKLOG

There was a great backlog of work the various governments could undertake to replace obsolete or increase inadequate services which would maintain buoyancy in the economy of the province.

But the "tight money" policy was making it difficult to plan or carry out any such work.

Fortunately, the provincial government had cash reserves to take away some of the pinch federal policies were causing in borrowing, and the premier mentioned three agencies as possible beneficiaries: the power commission, PGE, and the Toll Highways and Bridges Authority.

Mental Hospitals To Cost $9.8 Million

Cost of operating mental hospitals in B.C. this year will be an estimated $9,888,856, according to Premier Bennett's budget speech today.

This is a $2,000,000 increase over 1956.

BUT MONEY WILL STILL BE SPENT

Big Expenditures Dropped From Budget

Premier Bennett's finance department adopted a new system of presenting the provincial accounts in the budget submitted to the legislature today and the change left observers in a quandary to explain just how much the budget is actually going to jump.

For some years it has been customary to earmark 3 cents of the 10-cent-per-gallon gasoline tax for the specific purpose of hard surfacing roads. But money from this source was al-

MONEY FLOWS TO TREASURY AT TOP SPEED

Revenues from provincial taxes and other general sources are rolling into the B.C. treasury at an all-time record rate, the budget speech showed today.

Premier Bennett said that in the nine months ending December 31 the treasury had taken in $193,838,120. This was an increase of $31,972,173 over the comparable period of 1955, a jump of almost 20%.

However, expenditures have kept pace and for the nine-month period the surplus of revenue was only $905,000, compared to $42 million the previous year.

New Recreation Portfolio to Get $1,965,000 Start

B.C.'s new cabinet portfolio, the Department of Recreation and Conservation, will spend an estimated $1,965,280 during 1957-58, Premier Bennett today revealed in the budget speech.

The portfolio will have under its jurisdiction the game branch, formerly under the attorney-general; the B.C. Travel Bureau, formerly under the department of trade and industry; provincial parks, formerly under the lands and forests branch, and the department of fisheries, formerly a separate portfolio.

No minister has been named for the new department.

The former department of trade and industry, run by Earle Westwood of Nanaimo, has been reconstituted as the department of industrial development, trade and commerce.

Its budget this year will be $727,449.

This department will include agent-general W. A. McAdam's office in London—formerly under the wing of the finance department.

$355,000 to Keep Prisoners at Camps

B.C. this year will spend an estimated $355,000 to keep prisoners at forest camps.

The attorney-general's department has reported great success in this program, which sees inmates of the Young Offenders' Unit at Oakalla Prison go out to forestry camps in the summer.

This is a $2,000,000 increase over 1956.

Throne Speech Gets Liberal MLA's Vote

The only Liberal in the legislature Wednesday afternoon, Victoria's George Gregory, caused a slight stir when he voted with the Social government on the adoption of the Throne Speech.

"You'd never have made it without him," quipped CCF leader Robert Strachan to Premier W. A. Bennett across the floor.

"I," said Mr. Gregory by way of explanation, "am as courteous to the lieutenant-governor as I am to the premier."

Debate on the speech was wound up by Bert Price (SC, Vancouver-Burrard) who approved of everything it said but who had one or two suggestions for the government.

Noting the growing toll of highway accidents he said one sure remedy would be governors on all automobiles.

TO COME IN TIME

"It can't be done in a hurry," he said. "It would be an international affair but perhaps when enough people have been killed or mutilated it will have to be done."

The Burrard member said he had received 150 letters suggesting cooperative apartment owners should receive the proposed $28 refund on property taxes. He said the government would do well to give the suggestions some consideration.

While on the subject of taxes in general he asked the government to make the position on assessments clear.

"Some municipalities," he added, "will try to excuse high taxes by throwing the blame on the provincial government."

AID FOR APPRENTICES

Among other things, not in the Throne Speech, that Mr. Price was all for were:

Subsidization of trade apprentices nearer the level of subsidies for university students, which he figured as around $4,000.

A government prohibition on trading stamps. Municipalities had the right to this prohibition, he explained, but a city like Vancouver might take such a step only to find the stamps were allowed in its vast suburbs.

Control by the province of shopping hours, with the same reasoning as that applied to trading stamps. It was useless for a city to set a limit of shopping hours while contiguous suburbs allowed stores to stay open as long as they wished.

Full government control of rainmaking, a suggestion that brought an Opposition gibe:

"The government's all wet half the time, anyway."

And a Sacred riposte.

"And the Opposition's dry and windy."

Mr. Price asked the government to look into and do something about the "wide price spreads between fruit and meat at the producers' and consumers' levels."

"No one understands," he said, "why the farmer gets a few cents for a box of apples when the retail stores ask $4 to $5 for them. Or why the public has to pay 60 to 90 cents a pound for meat while the producer gets 14c or 16c, and can't make a decent living."

The Burrard member had some advice for the yet-to-be-appointed minister of recreation and conservation.

He urged the creation of more game preserves to create a situation in which people could drive along the highways, or roads through the woods and see, occasionally, a bit of B.C.'s wonderful wildlife.

He urged the new minister to consider all phases of recreation and do what was possible to enhance and uplift it.

As subjects he suggested music—"the hit parades are being pushed down our youngsters' throats"—beer parlors—"people go there for recreation because they have no place else to go and must have somewhere to talk with their friends"—and the resurrection of something like the old Pro-Rec organization.

Then, with adoption of the Throne Speech by a vote of 38 to 12, the premier moved the House resolve itself into a committee of the whole to vote supplies preparatory to presentation of his budget speech today.

The profit was before deducting depreciation allowances and capital interest charges.

The premier said the railway is in a position to provide for liquidating the borrowings that have been guaranteed by the province to construct extensions of the line.

All shares in the PGE are owned by the government.

When completed, the line will be 729 miles long.

Traffic over the line showed a big increase last year.

Up to the end of November, traffic increased 45.4 per cent over the volume for the same period in 1955, and was 82.9 per cent greater than for 1954.

PGE Profit $1,796,000 During 1956

The B.C.-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway, which will run from Vancouver to Dawson Creek and Fort St. John by the spring of 1958, had an operating profit of $1,796,728 in 1956.

Premier Bennett, in his budget speech today, said it is the third consecutive year the line has recorded an operating surplus.

The profit was before deducting depreciation allowances and capital interest charges.

2% Levy on Insurance Premium Receipts Taken Over by B.C.

Imposition of taxes on the premium income of insurance corporations and broadening of taxation on natural resources will increase the 1957-58 revenue by $4,100,000, Premier Bennett stated in his budget speech.

He recalled that before the 1942 tax-rental agreement, the premium income of insurance corporations was subject to a provincial tax of 2 1/2 per cent on life insurance and 2 1/4 per cent on other insurance premiums.

When provincial levies were suspended, the federal government then imposed a uniform 2 per cent tax rate on the premium income of all Canadian companies.

After the 1942 agreement, the provinces which either renewed or entered into tax-rental agreements were barred from re-imposing this kind of tax.

Provinces which did not rent their tax field were free to re-impose it. If they did, the federal government allowed the tax payment as an operating expense in determining the income tax payable by a corporation.

"The federal levy is now repealed," the premier said, "and as from Jan. 1 last a provincial tax on insurance premiums will no longer be deemed to be a corporation tax."

"A provincial tax, therefore, will not disturb or impair equalization, stabilization or rental payments under a tax-rental agreement."

"By recommending a provincial 2 per cent tax on the premium income of insurance companies, neither a new nor increased burden is proposed," the premier said.

"Rather it is a diversion of revenue from the federal to the provincial treasury."

The changes in taxation on logging and mining development are technical in nature, but will result in slightly increased returns to the treasury.

Canada Plans To Modify U.K. Loan Payment

OTTAWA (C) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Thursday the Canadian government "may possibly" bring in a bill this session to modify the United Kingdom Financial Agreement Act of 1946 under which Britain obtained a huge loan from Canada.

Britain has asked for a waiver on its 1956 interest payment of $22,200,000 and has made a similar request to the United States on a parallel American loan.

Mr. St. Laurent told the Commons negotiations are progressing on the British request and as soon as they have been completed Finance Minister Harris will be making an announcement.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver Quadra), asked whether the amending legislation Mr. St. Laurent forecast has to do with the waiver of interest.

The prime minister replied that it feels "with the problem arising out of the request that has been submitted for the waiver of interest, and it would involve some modification of the original agreement."

Entry of Sixth Province Key To National Health Plan—Martin

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Hon. Paul Martin, minister of national health and welfare, expressed the belief in an interview here today that final accord with Ontario over the federal-provincial-national hospitalization scheme would be reached before the end of the present session of the Ontario legislature.

"The important thing we now have to do is get a sixth province to enter the scheme," Mr. Martin told The Victoria Times.

He disclosed that he had been in touch this week again with Hon. Robert W. Bend, minister of health and welfare in Manitoba.

Mr. Martin said he had been in communication Tuesday and on Wednesday with representa-

Socred Cites Hutchison On Inflation

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Bruce Hutchison, editor of The Times, was commended in the Commons today by John Blackmore, Social Credit member for Lethbridge, for a recent article on inflation.

"Even Bruce Hutchison knows today that money can be created. In an article in Maclean's magazine of March 2 he shows a considerable amount of intelligence and enlightenment on that matter. Surely that knowledge should be able to get to the parliamentary assistant to the minister of finance," Mr. Blackmore said.

The Social Credit speaker during discussion of the Canadian Farm Loan Act. The measure to increase the authorized capital of the farm loan board from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000.

"One of the main things that the minister of finance (Hon. Walter Harris) and his parliamentary assistant (William Benedickson, MP for Kenora-Rainy River) overlook is the fact that money can be created in Canada today and is created by the Bank of Canada," said Mr. Blackmore.

136-Year Life Of Brockville Paper Ends

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Ontario's oldest weekly newspaper, The Brockville Recorder, went to press for the last time today, a victim of rising costs and dwindling circulation.

The Recorder, published by the daily Brockville Recorder and Times, is 136 years old, a newspaper which swallowed up or outlasted seven rivals during its history.

It had about 300 readers, not many more than when it was established in 1821 by an itinerant printer as a four-page sheet devoted to championing democratic government against the influence of the governing group in Upper Canada, known as the Family Compact.

Traffic Plan Study Set

The Faustman traffic and parking report will come under study by Victoria council public works committee at a special meeting Monday night.

Chairman, Ald. M. H. Mooney says something should be done about implementing recommendations made by California traffic expert D. Jackson Faustman.

His survey, contracted for by council for $3,000, resulted in a new roundabout plan for Douglas and Hillside which includes one-way streets for a distance on Douglas and Government.

That might be a more opportune time for the government to announce a continuation of the present 5 per cent rate on the wheat loans. These loans are made by banks and partially guaranteed by the government.

Under the current scramble for money, bank lending rates are high and the government might find it difficult to persuade them to have the 5 per cent charge continued.

The Bank of Canada rate rose to a record 4.06 per cent Thursday, reflecting a continuing shortage of funds in the financial markets.

The credit curbs and other economic factors have had some impact on Canadian home building which sagged sharply in January. Central Mortgage & Housing figures show that National Housing Act loans dropped to 251 in January from 1,245 a year ago.

The over-all capital expansion of the country is expected to increase during 1957, but the rate of expansion is expected to drop sharply from the 1956 peak to about 8 per cent from 24 per cent in 1956.

WOULD RAISE CEILING
Federal legislation on wheat loans is designed to provide cash for Prairie farmers holding large quantities of wheat on their farms—more than the market can handle.

The current maximum on individual loans is $1,500 on which a farmer must put up $3,000 worth of wheat as security. Informants said the plan is to raise the ceiling on individual loans by about $1,000.

However, the over-all loans ceiling of $50,000,000 is not likely to be increased. Officials say it is more than sufficient to meet current needs.

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Two bombs exploded here Thursday night. One went off in a movie theatre wasproom in the swank Vedado neighborhood, wounding one person. The other wounded two persons in a commercial district.

Asked if Premier Frost was agreeable to setting an earlier operative date than Jan. 1, 1959, Mr. Martin said he was hopeful that the operative date could be moved forward. However, that was up to the provincial governments concerned. It was their decision.

But Miss Ayako Taimaki, 39, wants to know:

"Why has honorable female behavior reached such a disgusting low at our honorable bathhouse?"

In a letter to a Tokyo newspaper Shinbun, she objected to too much laughter and loud singing in the bathhouse, especially of bawdy male songs audible over the wall. She added:

"Some ladies literally tear off their honorable kimonos, and dash for the honorable bathtub, waving their hands like a bunch of primary school children on picnic."

"Some stand without their panties in front of the mirror to admire themselves."

Mrs. Kiyoko Kosuge, 35, disagreed in an answering letter:

"Let those who want to, stand without their panties and admire themselves—they probably can't afford a large mirror at home like those in the bathtub."

"After all, it is a feminine privilege to admire one's own figure."

CULTURAL LAG

Social Science Key to Future Resources Study

Natural resources are not important for themselves, but only as they provide the environment and the sustenance for human beings, Dr. J. L. Fisher, Washington, D.C., said Thursday night at a banquet for delegates to the B.C. Natural Resources conference.

"The pace of technological development does not seem to slacken," he said, "and new technical frontiers are opening before us. But the ancient problem of cultural lag remains with us. Technical progress only intensifies it."

Better guiding policies in government, business and education are required if economic, political, legal and administrative institutions and processes are to meet the tests now being placed upon them, he said.

"Social science, still in its childhood, offers the best avenue to an understanding of alternatives of policy and their implication, not only for resources, but also for the wellbeing of people," he said.

He credited the "restless, energetic and open-minded" characteristics of Canadian and American industry with producing in the two countries the highest standards of living in the world.

"There is an eagerness to grasp new insights of science, and to put technological innovations to wide use," he said.

Dr. Fisher is associate director of Resources for the Future, Inc., a non-profit organization backed by the Ford Foundation.

Business Tax for City Recommended by Probers

Implementation of a business tax in Victoria will be recommended to city council Thursday.

A special committee headed by Ald. Austin J. Curtis has asked C. C. Wyatt, city manager, to bring in a formula on which payment would be based.

Chamber Delegates Urge Caution

A chamber of commerce delegation stated the chamber is not opposed to business tax but felt the businessmen affected should have representation on the planning committee. It said the city should go slowly.

The chamber representatives, secretary Arnold Webb, B.C. Forest Products executive Herbert Barnes and Bank of Commerce branch manager E. C. Brown, felt the chamber should sit in on studies of the new tax basis, the amount to be raised by the new tax and the future nature of the trade licence.

ager, to bring in a formula on which payment would be based.

At a meeting Thursday, Mr. Wyatt indicated he would suggest the tax be arrived at by applying the annual mill rate to a set percentage of property assessments.

City manager Wyatt said if 20 per cent of business property assessments were taxed according to the current millrate, annual income to the city would be $350,000 or $268,000 if 15 per cent of the assessment was used.

"I'd hate to see some of the bills some businesses in the city are going to get," said Ald. E.

City manager Wyatt said if 20 per cent of business property assessments were taxed according to the current millrate, annual income to the city would be $350,000 or $268,000 if 15 per cent of the assessment was used.

"I'd hate to see some of the bills some businesses in the city are going to get," said Ald. E.

D. McEwen, while agreeing, "Business tax is fairest."

City assessor Alfred Joyce felt the tax should be based on estimated rental values. He said the assessment on a new bank might be $360,000 and on an old one, $100,000.

Under Mr. Wyatt's scheme they would pay vastly different business tax. People wouldn't build new stores.

Mr. Wyatt argued no one builds new business premises unless they are sure by so doing they will make greater profits. He said Mr. Joyce's argument would apply as well to property tax, but new construction goes ahead regardless of the fact new buildings have a higher assessed value and result in more taxes being paid.

THE GENERAL ELECTRIC AUTOMATIC FILTER-FLO WASHER WITH ALL OTHER MAKES!

THE WORLD'S MOST MODERN AUTOMATIC WASHER

Only clean water can wash clothes clean. Filter-Flo by General Electric actually cleans the water as it cleans your clothes. Lint, sand, soap and scum are constantly being filtered away while your clothes are being washed. Don't wash dirt into your clothes—wash dirt out with G-E's modern Filter-Flo Washer.

This great advance in automatic washers is yet another example of General Electric's constant efforts to bring you tomorrow's engineering today. Every day, extensive research is going on in the G-E laboratories; research that creates the best possible product at the lowest possible cost for you. That's why, when you buy any G-E Automatic Washer you know you're buying the finest—the most modern—the greatest value for your money.

G-E FILTER-FLO WASHER ACTION

1. Mighty Activator action removes the dirt from clothes. 2. Filter-Flo removes the dirt from the wash water. Lint, soap and scum are carried out of the washbasket as water continuously overflows into outer tub. 3. Sand and silt are forced out at bottom of washbasket. 4. Pump continuously circulates water up and through filter. 5. Cleansed, sudsy water flows back into washbasket.

G-E CONTROL DIAL

Simply dial the required washing cycle for all types of fabrics. Both normal and short cycles are on the one dial. Choose from one to fifteen minutes for normal wash—one to four minutes for delicate fabrics.

G-E CONTROL PANEL

Allows you to give fabrics the exact amount of washing action needed. Gives the correct spin speed—temperature hot or cold rinse. And the G-E Suds Return Control allows you to save hot, sudsy water and re-use it again.

Feb. 28 Deadline For Centennial Project Proposals

Greater Victoria Centennial Committee Thursday set a February 28 deadline for suggestions from the public for a 1958 government grant project. The committee will begin screening the dozens of proposals now on hand at its next meeting March 7.

There were indications at the meeting that the four municipalities are not yet agreed on the pooling of the 60 per cent per capita grant for a common project.

The committee was set up to decide on expenditure of the 40-cent per capita celebration grant.

SAANICH BALKS

Reeve Arthur Ash and Coun. Leslie Passmore told the meeting Saanich Council is not yet certain it will join any other municipality in the expenditure of the grant.

If the municipalities work together they will have to raise $75,000 in order to receive a similar amount from the senior government.

Saanich reluctance to engage in any "non-essential" project, as outlined in objections to a joint city hall Tuesday, expressed by Coun. Passmore, could become the stumbling block which would kill the united effort.

The committee heard A. E. Carlson ask for an Indian museum to be constructed on the B.C. government parking lot as the first wing of a new provincial museum.

Hockey coach Colin Kilburn, Arthur H. Cox and amateur sports promoter Douglas Fletcher appeared with a brief for an addition to Memorial Arena, estimated to cost $100,000.

Major George Nicholson asked moving and enlargement of Thunderbird Park in the vicinity of the world's tallest totem pole at Beacon Hill.

Victoria Labor Council representatives Bruce Lowther and James Moffat supported an auditorium. They gave notice the labor council wants to hold a Labor Day parade in 1958.

Victoria parks administrator Herbert Warren spoke in support of an $18,000 historic rose garden to be built, he suggested, south of the Heywood Avenue football field.

A big museum development suggested by architects Clack, Clayton and Pickstone was supported by Ald. E. D. McEwen. Numerous other suggestions sent in by mail were read and filed for study at the next meeting.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURER from London, Eng., Mrs. Georgina Tennant, CSB, will address a public meeting under auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, at the Odeon Theatre Sunday at 3 p.m. Her subject will be "Christian Science: The Science of Spiritual Healing." Mrs. Tennant has been a Christian Science practitioner since 1933, with offices in London.

Nuclear Medicine Unit Established at Jubilee

Use of radio-active medicines in diagnosis and treatment was initiated this week at Royal Jubilee Hospital for the first time on Vancouver Island.

A nuclear medicine branch was opened under supervision of Dr. Lucille Wilson, assistant to laboratory chief, Dr. R. G. L. McNeely.

An example of the work to be carried out by the new branch, said Dr. McNeely, was a test for thyroid disease. A capsule containing minute quantities of radio-active iodine is swallowed by the patient.

An instrument similar to a sensitive Geiger counter records how much of the iodine is retained by the thyroid indicating whether the patient is "hypothyroidic."

Modern test procedures are expanding every month and the new equipment is expected to be useful in shock and burn cases, checking of kidney disorders and diagnosis of certain types of anaemia.

Pr. George Hospital Near Bankruptcy

(From CP Dispatches)

PRINCE GEORGE—The administrator of the Prince George and District Hospital says the hospital is verging on bankruptcy and needs $46,000 to pay debts owing to the end of January.

Administrator Bruce Thomson said adjustments of $12,000 made by the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service during recent years will only serve to cover bad debts.

"Only an increase in the daily BCHIS rate will rectify the situation," he said.

CAT AND DOG SALE Continues!

What's a Cat and Dog Sale? It's a "GOOD RIDDANCE" effort on the part of a clothing merchant to shuffle off on the public...for peanuts...THE MANUFACTURER'S SINS, HIS OWN BUYING MISTAKES, etc. So the boss got a black and dirty pencil in his mitt...started SLASHING WITHOUT DISCRETION... Well, it is...and what's more...IF YOU WANT A SUIT...TWO SUITS...A TOPCOAT...A JACKET...come in and grab it! Charge it! PAY NOTHING DOWN and the rest in SIX MONTHS...by weekly payments.

TOPCOATS

Pacific Coast Weights. What's your idea of a topcoat? Light or dark tones, light or medium weight, raglan or conventional set-in sleeves? What fabric? Blackthorn tweed, Donamara tweed, covert cloth, Donegal boucle, $29⁹⁵ cashmere and wool gabardine? Your pick—CRAZY PRICE.

Next Group...You couldn't tell the difference, but the boss goes nuts when he gets a black pencil in $38⁹⁵ Yours for only Selected Group...and YOU couldn't tell the difference, and guaranteed to contain NO VICUNA $46⁹⁵ ($700)—CRAZY PRICE.

NO DOWN PAYMENT—26 WEEKS TO PAY

SUITS

Attention, Young Men...Big Brothers and Dads! Most beautiful stock of suits we have ever had, when the season opened...New York styles, British woollens, union craftsmen, all sizes. The sizes are shot...color choice is spotty. We didn't guess that charcoals would still be popular...We goofed! We'll take a licking!

HERE ARE SOME DARBS!

We're glad we hate 'em...because they look good and wear like a mortgage...but someone's bound to like 'em. We'll take our loss. $29⁹⁵ Special: CRAZY PRICE.

Boss doesn't like the color of these...cuts the price. You might like 'em...all-wool charcoals, tweeds, rags, muted plaids. Next week you'll brag you paid $70...who'll doubt $39⁹⁵ you? Grab one. CRAZY PRICE.

Here's some that should never have been in this sale...popular shades, styles, fabrics, almost complete range of sizes...maybe a little tame for hotshots; a little too colorful for pulpit wear. Were $55, $65, $75, etc. $34⁹⁵ CRAZY PRICE.

Next Group...Maybe these colors weren't so popular...maybe you'd look good in one. It's well worth a gander. CRAZY PRICE $49⁹⁵

SPORT COATS

This is a worse crime than anything the probe turned up...sports jackets in some variety of colors...tailored from British-loomed wool. These garments gleefully massacred to make a cat and dog holiday! CRAZY PRICE $14⁹⁵

The price is the craziest thing we can find about these jackets...all wool, tailored from brown, blue, grey and tan sheep. By the way...where do they get checked sheep? There are some here. If you are an actor and $21⁹⁵ shop in Vancouver you'd pay three times this CRAZY PRICE.

SHIRTS!

It's no good cursing the manufacturer (we've tried that). He buys a cheap mess of cellophane bags...they bust you so! 'em, and we have to offer these $3, $4, $5, $6 and up shirts (that one laundering would fix) for CRAZY PRICE...$2⁹⁵

Attention, Sheriff...How About a Colorful Necktie Party!

Here's a raft of atrocities...OK...one man's meat...another man's poison. As cravats these brought up to $3.50 (we hoped), some never were worth more than a buck. OK, check...grab...and hold. CRAZY PRICE...$89⁹⁵

Troller Beached After Blast Rocks Cabin

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP)—A 40-foot troller was beached Thursday afternoon on Hernando Island after sustaining heavy damage in an explosion and fire in the cabin.

The owner, Duncan McKay, of Lasqueti Island, escaped without injury in the troller's dinghy. After camping on uninhabited Hernando Island, 20 miles east of here, he was taken to Lund, across the Strait of Georgia from Campbell River.

A B.C. Airlines plane piloted by David Stronach flew to the scene. Stronach reported that McKay said there had been a backfire in the cabin. With 400 gallons of gasoline aboard, McKay had decided to abandon his vessel. He refused a ride in the aircraft, saying he wished to see the end of his boat. He took a few belongings with him in the dinghy.

Save Forbidden Plateau as Park Chamber Pleads

COURTENAY — The Courtenay-Comox Chamber of Commerce has made another plea to the provincial government for the inclusion of the Forbidden Plateau in Strathcona Park.

The chamber fears the Forbidden Plateau may be destroyed by logging for pulp mill wood.

G. Chambers, operator of the Forbidden Plateau Lodge, told the members for a few thousand dollars the area west of Battle Lake and the Forbidden Plateau can be opened as an adjoining parkland with riding trails and footpaths.

Strathcona Park is so inaccessible, he said, that it probably will not be developed for a 100 years.

The chamber agreed to request Premier Bennett to develop Strathcona Park.

Cowichan School Debenture By-Law Gets Second Reading

DUNCAN—Board of School District 65 (Cowichan) Thursday night gave second reading to a by-law to issue $183,000 in debentures under authority of a referendum passed Nov. 19, 1955, on a $660,000 school expansion program.

The new by-law brings to $333,000 the amount issued in debentures under the referendum. Interest rate will be 4½ per cent, and the provincial finance minister was asked to act as the board's agent in marketing the debentures.

The board also appointed F. A. McLellan, inspector of schools for Districts 62 (Sooke) and 65 (Cowichan), chief education officer for this district, subject to approval of the superintendent of education.

Mr. McLellan will advise the board in the appointment and assignment of teachers and in carrying out educational policies as set out in the curriculum. He will have supervisory authority on school organization, instruction and discipline as prescribed under the

Tourist Record Here Last Year

Customs Car Handlings Up 8 Per Cent; Marilyn Bell, Tallest Totem Praised

A total of 96,538 cars carrying 291,532 passengers were handled by Canadian customs at the ports of Victoria and Sidney in 1956, according to the annual report of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

It was submitted by publicity commissioner George I. Warren at the bureau's annual meeting at the Empress Hotel today.

The figures represent an increase of about 8 per cent in foreign automobiles handled at the two ports—indicating that Victoria enjoyed an all-time tourist record last year.

In 1955, a total of 89,398 cars carrying 265,919 passengers entered the two ports.

(Number of foot passengers who came to Victoria via the two ports is not given, as figures are not available. Tourist officials estimate that about 600,000 tourists visited the city by car and on foot.)

In addition, the report showed that British Columbia showed a decrease of one-tenth of 1 per cent in 1955 in the number of foreign cars visiting the province. Canada showed a decrease of 1.6 per cent.

Automobiles transported to Vancouver Island also increased. They totalled 230,400 as compared with 197,767.

During the year, 75,028 persons visited the tourist bureau on Government Street.

Listed in the report as the two outstanding events which gave the greatest publicity to Victoria were the Marilyn Bell swim across the Strait of Juan MOMENTS AFTER LAUNCHING and naming ceremony today, RCN's newest ship, the coastal minesweeper Miramichi, was towed from VMD Bay Street plant to fitting out dock at Outer Wharf.

MONTE ROBERTS

I think I have thought up a new party game. Not that I am such a one who goes in much for party games. At parties, I am the type who lurks behind a potted palm, waiting for a chance to leap out at an innocent bystander and rapidly tell the story of my life.

But, as usual, I have digressed.

This party game idea came to me during a sleepless night. Having tired of counting sheep, I decided trying to count things identified by initials.

It is a well known fact anything worthwhile these days is identified by initials, from the United Nations (UN) to the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartette Singing in America (SPEBSQSA) to soap flakes (FAB).

In the process of attempting to put myself to sleep by counting things identified by initials, I hit upon the party game idea.

It is simple but intriguing, guaranteed to provide clean, wholesome fun for one and all.

The object of the game is to provide new and better odds to go with familiar initial groups.

Let us use, as a first example, CPAL—Canadian Pacific Air Lines (mentioned here in the slim hopes of a free trip to Hawaii).

One player of this new party game might decide CPAL stands for Cats Prove Almost Likeable.

Another could chime in with Corruption Prevention Always Lacking.

And another might suggest Carpet Purveyors' Association Limited.

You see how simple it is?

Simple is hardly the word for it!

Here are a few other examples—just to get you started:

- SPCA—Silent Poets Can't Argue.
- UNESCO—Unlikely Necromancers Enjoy Slim Chances Overseas.
- BCPC—Bolted Codfish Prevent Colds.
- RCN—Remember Careless Nights.
- YMCA—Yogurt Melts Corrupt Abdomens.
- BCCS—Before Crossing, Catch Steam Ship.
- VIP—Various Intrepids Provoked.
- LSMFT—Leading Seamen Must Find Time.
- QED—Quite Essential Demonstration.

But I am sure you have the idea by now, and I wish you'd keep it. I'm all through with it.

Except to say, no fair playing with PGE.

EVERYONE knows this means Please, Gundy Excuse—ingly.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Friends met in the pavilion lounge at the Veterans' Hospital this week to celebrate the birthdays of seven patients.

They were: J. Hurst, 67; R. Wilson, 87; H. Bainbridge, 74; C. Eccleston, 77; F. Hamilton, 77; W. Broadley, 61, and O. Stamm, 78. Concert was given by St. Luke's 60-UP Club and Al Smith played many favorite songs of the First World War. A giant 10-lb. birthday cake, shaped like a Valentine, was served.

The appointment of James Fox as manager of the National Employment Office in Victoria was announced today.

Mr. Fox, at present manager of the Nanaimo branch Unemployment Insurance Commission, will be transferred here next week.

He replaces Charles Mudge, who died last week. Acting manager at present, J. Clark, made the announcement.

Motor vehicles on Vancouver Island have more than doubled since 1946. Attorney-General Robert Bonner revealed in the legislature Thursday.

Replying to a question from George Gregory (Liberal-Victoria), Mr. Bonner said 79,402 vehicles were registered on the Island in 1956 compared with 31,915 in 1946.

All over British Columbia the number of registrations rose from 147,196 in 1946 to 447,981 in 1956.

Ex-Victorian Dies in England

Resident of Victoria before the First World War, Robin G. Stofor died in England Feb. 14. Mr. Stofor left Canada to join the Royal Navy in England. After the war he was assigned to a post in the British Admiralty, London, where he served until retirement. He is survived by brothers Reg Stofor, Victoria, W. J. Stofor, California, and relatives in England.

Half-hour familiarization flights in an RCAF Expediter aircraft from Comox will be given 15 Cadettes and five male members of 89 Kinsmen Squadron Royal Canadian Air Cadets Saturday afternoon.

The plane will fly over Victoria with Vancouver Island air cadet liaison officer, FO R. Jobling, of RCAF Station Comox at the controls. Cadets will go up three at a time.

Last Saturday other members of the squadron were given flights.

Greater Victoria Celebrations Association meets Tuesday at 8 p.m. at City Hall.

Victor W. Griffin, capital City Yacht Club, was elected president of the International Order of the Blue Gavel Past Commodore's Club, Division two, at the annual meeting Wednesday.

Other officers are Chester W. Swanson, Nanaimo Yacht Club; W. Alfred Bazzett, Maple Bay Yacht Club; and M. Clair Watts, Capital City Yacht Club, vice-presidents, and Frank W. Nicolls, Royal Victoria Yacht Club, secretary-treasurer. Election and installation of officers was held at the Maple Inn.

W. T. McLaughlin of Victoria was appointed conciliation officer in the taking and counting of a strike vote in a dispute between Nanaimo Daily Free Press and Nanaimo Typographical Union, Local 337.

Angus P. MacBean, chief forester and manager of the timber and lands division, MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., will address a luncheon meeting of Victoria Rotary Club and the Canadian Club of Victoria at the Empress Hotel next Thursday at 12.10 p.m. His subject will be "The Forest Industry in Russia." In 1956 Mr. MacBean was one of a small group of lumbermen invited to visit mills and camps in Russia as the guests of the government. His lecture will be illustrated with pictures.

New 'Sweeper Gives Curtsy, Comes Alive

The second-to-last ship in the Royal Canadian Navy's current new shipbuilding program on the west coast was named and launched today.

The 137-foot, wooden-hulled, non-magnetic minesweeper Miramichi slipped gracefully down the ways at Victoria Machinery Depot's Bay Street yard at precisely 11 a.m.

The Miramichi was named by Mrs. Harold Husband, wife of the president of VMD, who was asked by the RCN to sponsor the ship.

The traditional bottle of champagne cracked across the bow as Mrs. Husband intoned the launching ritual: "I name thee Miramichi. God bless this ship and all those who sail in her."

PERFECT LAUNCH

It was a perfect launch. As Rear-Admiral Hugh F. Pullen put it: "She slipped into the water, curtsied her thanks, and came alive."

But there is a long period yet before the Miramichi will earn the letters "HMCS" before her name. VMD officials have a target date of October for builder's trials.

Into the small hull must go a maze of highly-complicated gear, designed to outfit the Miramichi as a coastal minesweeper, equipped to protect harbor entrances, sweep clear approaches to enemy objectives.

Propulsion machinery for the new 'sweeper is now in Victoria, but generators—which must be installed before the main machinery—are not due for two weeks.

CUSTOM BUILT

Superstructure still has to be built—and the "vitals" of the craft will need painstaking installation. Like all ships in Canada's modern navy, she is custom designed and will be custom built for her job.

Immediately after launching, the Miramichi was towed to VMD's No. 2 plant at the Outer Wharf, where outfitting will begin.

Last hull in the west coast RCN new ship program will hit the water at 12 noon Tuesday, when the Cowichan will be launched from Yarrow's Ltd.'s Esquimalt yard.

Soldier Jailed 18 Months for Housebreaking

Camp Gordon Head soldier Leonard Harper was sentenced in Saanich court Thursday to 18 months definite and six months indeterminate in Oakalla jail (young offenders' unit).

He pleaded guilty last week to breaking, entering and theft in a Saanich home a year ago. He had been absent without leave from his unit, after returning from a temporary posting elsewhere in Canada, and was arrested in Prince Albert.

The sentence will be served concurrently with 15 months definite and six months indeterminate imposed by B.C. Appeal Court on conviction for assault of a woman cab driver in November. Latter sentence was given on appeal of a $100 fine or month's imprisonment handed down in city police court.

Harper stole an automatic pistol from the home of Malcolm Alex McLeod, 2535 Sinclair, about Feb. 1, 1956.

Gear Industry To Fit Market, Says Economist

'Can't Change Whole World'

Maintenance of export markets for raw and semi-processed materials, and expansion of the home market for fully fabricated goods, are the best roads for economic development in B.C., Prof. John J. Deutsch said today at the B.C. Natural Resources Conference.

Prof. Deutsch, head of the UBC department of economics and political science, summarized the material presented in the conference to date, and found the picture promising.

"We can find markets for raw materials and for goods in the semi-processed form," he said, "because tariff rates of other nations favor importation of such materials."

"If we could fully fabricate the materials produced here we would become a gigantic industrial area, but the export market would not be available in anything like the same degree."

"This must be recognized in deciding how our future development can proceed," he said. "We can't change the whole world."

Entering the world market with fully fabricated products brings competition with old and established industry in addition to tariff barriers.

"That is why such a small part of our resources are fully fabricated," he said.

Two possibilities open to extending "full fabrication" are to try to reduce foreign tariffs, or to confine industry to the domestic market.

EXTENDED

"The latter promises the best future," Prof. Deutsch said. "As the domestic market grows, then the degree of fabrication can be extended."

A problem arising even in the domestic market is the cost of transportation of goods between here and the population centres of eastern Canada.

"We must either produce goods of very high quality, or of low cost," he said. "Our growth is best helped by doing the things that are economically feasible."

B.C. is still a long way from complete utilization of raw material resources, he said.

"The most prominent is the forest resource," he said. "Twenty years ago provincial authorities predicted imminent exhaustion of forest resources, and now I find the volume of timber resources to be marketed will be doubled, and that lack of cutting mature and over-mature stands is considered undesirable. This change is due to extraordinary developments in the utilization of the forest, and development of the integrated forest industry has meant untold wealth to B.C."

In the mineral field, he said, only a small portion has been exploited to date. Large areas where there is no surface indication of minerals have not even been investigated, he said, and development of other techniques is barely under way.

"Difficulties of terrain and accessibility have yet to be overcome," he said, "but when they are solved we will find ourselves on a new frontier. From then on success depends on improvement of techniques."

Fisheries are a long way from full utilization, he said. B.C. fisheries could be expanded by 100 per cent, and the vast resources of the ocean have barely been touched.

TECHNICAL

"There again we come up against a technical problem," he said. "We don't know enough."

Limitations on agriculture are severe, he said. Resources are not extensive, and development of agricultural land expensive. The Peace River area offers the only room for expansion, he said.

The industries of the province have room for development of the semi-fabricating processes for the export market, he said.

"We have not completed all that could be done in increased processing of pulp, paper and plywood," he said. "In the mining field, production is the deciding factor. For instance, if we can increase copper production, then construction of a smelter might be justified. In the fishing industry improvements will depend on new methods of preservation."

"There is not one of these basic industries where the export market is not fundamental," he said.

City Scouters On Honors List

(See Also, Page 28)

Two of Victoria's outstanding Boy Scout leaders were honored today in a list of scouting awards announced by Canada's Chief Scout, Governor-General Vincent Massey, on the 100th anniversary of the birth of Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scout movement.

Medals of merit for good services to scouting were awarded to Miss Laura Winnifred Lees, 2612 Richmond, Victoria district cubmaster and cubmaster of Fairfield B pack, and George Arthur Barr, 2633 Beach Drive, until recently district commissioner of Victoria.

Miss Lees was singled out for "her personal example of loyalty and enthusiasm" and "keen personal interest" in boys of her pack. She has been district cubmaster since 1954, cubmaster at Fairfield for 15 years, and secretary of Akela and Scouters councils at various times.

LOYALTY

Mr. Barr, employee in the sales department of Shawinigan Lumber, was honored for his "personal example of cheerfulness and steadfast loyalty to the principles of scouting" during reorganization of his district.

He served from 1951 to 1955 as district commissioner and for one year ran the district without any voluntary district leaders. Before this, he served two years as assistant scoutmaster at 31st Vancouver.

A total of 51 awards, three to U.S. residents, were announced.

All groups within the Boy Scout movement and Girl Guides here have had or are having celebrations this week to mark the Baden-Powell anniversary. Guides also are honoring the 68th birthday today of Lady Baden-Powell, chief guide of the world.

PARTY TONIGHT

Third Victoria Cubs and Scouts will hold a "Baden-Powell birthday party" tonight at Scout Headquarters, and Fairfield group will stage a concert in the Church of Our Lord tonight at 7.30. Three packs, the Scout troop and Rover crew will present skits.

Langford group will meet for a father-and-son night tonight, and Brentwood group will hold a parents' night program, where speaker will be A. R. Chamberlain, assistant district commissioner for training.

CHURCH PARADE

Several groups, including Third Victoria, Mount Tolmie, Methosin and Oaklands, will parade to church services Sunday. Others held their parades last Sunday, when there also was a district church parade for scout and guide leaders, Rover and Ranger crews to Christ Church Cathedral and Metropolitan United Church.

"Thinking Day" will be celebrated by Langford Cubs and Scouts tonight with a father and son dinner in the Legion Hall. Special guests will be district commissioner, Col. R. Gerard; district akela, Frances Naish, and ministers of the Langford Churches.

Some 300 parents and friends of Belmont group are expected to attend a mammoth birthday party with four-foot birthday cake at John Stubbs Elementary School next Wednesday at 6.30 p.m.

Celebrations have been staged since the beginning of the week by Luxton, Windsor Park and Cordova Bay Scout groups.

Guides in the Lady Douglas and Gonzales divisions will take part in a "thinking day rally" at St. John's Church hall tonight at 6.15. Speaker will be Mrs. Nesta G. Ashworth, Vancouver, one of the original girl scouts who "gate-crashed" the first Boy Scout rally at London in 1909.

The girls forced their way into the Crystal Palace and demanded to be recognized as "scouters" by Lord Baden-Powell. With his sister, Miss Agnes Baden-Powell, he later established the "Queen's Own Corps of Guides."

GOLD CORDS

Margaret Wolos of the 11th South Company of Guides will receive her gold cords at the ceremony. Presentation of the highest Guide award will be made by area commissioner Mrs. F. W. Midgley.

At least three "thinking day" church parades will be held Sunday. Victoria divisions will parade to a special non-denominational Guide service at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay.

Marigold and Glanford Packs and companies will attend Garden City Church, Carey Road, Sunday at 2.30 p.m., and Colquitz Pack and company will parade to Wilkinson Road United Church in the morning.

Cordova Bay Brownies met to celebrate the anniversary this afternoon at St. David's-by-the-Sea Church.

Individual celebrations will be held among packs and companies in Spanish and Sooke.

The Times' Weekend Magazine Saturday will carry a story of scouting in Sakville, N.B., entitled "Town Where They're All Good Scouts," in commemoration of Lord Baden-Powell's anniversary.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—When did Sir John A. Macdonald visit Victoria at the opening of the E. and N. Railway?—V. M. L.

A.—He arrived in this city over the CPR July 24, 1885. He drove the last spike in the E. and N. Railway Friday, Aug. 13, 1886.

PUBLISHER'S NOTEBOOK

By STUART KEATE

All About Annacis

LEARNED a lot of interesting facts about Annacis Island at a luncheon Thursday.

Among other things, General Sir Ouyvre Roberts explained, the name itself was a clerk's mistake.

The true name of the island in the Fraser delta was "Annac's Island."

The "island" was abbreviated to "Is." Then the clerk got the apostrophe and the "Is." all looped in together and spelled it "Annacis."

It's been that way ever since.

Sir Ouyvre's firm—Grosvenor Estates—has been around quite a while.

Since 1066, to be exact, William the Conqueror was a shareholder.

The name "Grosvenor" comes from the French, "Le gros venor," which means "the great hunter."

Sir Ouyvre apologized a bit for the Duke of Westminster (whose family money built the great Fraser River enterprise) as a Johnny-come-lately.

He didn't build his first castle until 1574, on a little old plot of 11,000 acres.

Six hundred acres of the Duke's property became Grosvenor Square in London—where, as all you ex-servicemen will recall—the United States has an embassy and there's a statue to FDR.

This was a dowry, Sir Ouyvre explained, when one of the dukes took a 13-year-old girl to wife.

Another piece of throw-away real estate turned out to be the plush Curzon Street in London. It was leased for £8 a year for 999 years.

When Grosvenors linked up with

John Lang it became a merger of estates management and construction know-how. Among the jobs undertaken by the latter company: the "Mulberry" harbor used during the war; the Queen's atomic power station, and the Coventry Cathedral.

Somebody booby-trapped the distinguished general Thursday.

He was told to speak for 45 minutes, and they put him on at 1 o'clock sharp. But—as everyone knows—Rotary has an inflexible rule that the meeting must stop at 1.30.

The result was embarrassing. From 1.35 on, people were getting up and walking out. About a quarter of the crowd left before Sir Ouyvre finished.

It was wrong that he should have been told he had 45 minutes. But—even conceding the pain of literary har-kart—the general should have slashed himself by one-third to save embarrassment.

There isn't a speech in the world that can't be made in 25 minutes.

Sweet Summertime Foods Are Invading City Markets

By PENNY SAVER

Can it be? Do my eyes deceive me, or are there watermelons in town? Sure enough, if you have 20 cents in your hand, you can have a pound of the luscious, summertime treat. They have just arrived from Mexico, and the quality is good. A wonderful dessert, to make you think of warmer climes, watermelon isn't too plentiful, so buy now.

Mammoth savory cabbages were a feature in one market I visited today. They are 25 cents each, a tremendous buy. Green cabbage is 33 cents for three pounds, and red cabbage, 33 cents for two pounds. Carrots, perennial favorites, are two packages for 33 cents or two bunches for 29 cents, and in bulk, two pounds for 23 cents, while fresh green beans are 25 cents a half pound.

Large endive for your salads and decorating cost 20 cents, and lettuce costs 15 and 20 cents head. Two packages of salad mix cost 25 cents, and Florida cucumbers are 24 and 29 cents each.

White turnips, sweet and attractive, cost 25 cents a pound, and yams and sweet potatoes are two pounds for 39 cents. Green peas are two pounds for 65 cents; sprouts, two pounds for 45 cents and broccoli, two pounds for 45 cents. Fresh green peas, so good with a cream sauce or served with butter, are two pounds for 65 cents.

Away from food for a moment, let me tell you about the good buy in car coats in town. Special for this weekend, tan quilted car coats are selling at just $5.97. There are two styles: one, with collar-hood and toggle buttons, and the other, with conventional collar and toggle buttons down front and at cuffs. Exceptionally good bargains are these warm and comfortable coats.

For information about any of the articles mentioned in the column today or during past weeks, call me at 2-3131. I'll be glad to tell you where I was shopping.

HANDS TIED—HOW WILL MILADY TALK?

PARIS (AP) — A dress which ties the wearer's hands to her side was only one oddity in the Hubert de Givenchy fashion collection shown Thursday.

Hats that look like napkin rings, egg cups, popovers, oyster shells, Christmas crackers, jack-in-the-box or cactus plants had sections of the audience tittering. Fashion writers had waited nearly a month for the show.

Institute Completes Hall Repairs

Mrs. Wm. McDowell was re-elected president of Langford Women's Institute at its annual meeting. Directors are Mrs. V. Braithwaite, Mrs. R. Sewell, Mrs. R. Wade, Mrs. S. A. Sawyer and Mrs. D. Robb.

Highlights of annual reports centered around renovation of the Institute hall on Dunford Ave., which is now in use for all WI meetings and is used by other organizations in the district. Members have been active in giving assistance at St. Mary's Priory. Donations were made to the Salvation Army.

Group activities included the starting of the first sewing classes which have increased to include both elementary and senior sewing. Senior classes, which emphasize tailoring, are conducted by Mrs. D. Mosley. More classes will be formed as requests are received. A work shop meeting will be held next Tuesday in conjunction with other institutes in the district.

Langford Tea Realizes $72

Daffodils and ferns decorated the tables at a tea held by the Women's Auxiliary to Prince Edward Branch No. 91, Canadian Legion, Langford, in the Legion Hall, Dunford Avenue. A sum of $72 was realized. Mrs. J. Jameson was general convener.

Mrs. F. Slater, president, greeted the guests. The head table was covered with a crocheted cloth and arranged with flowers to resemble a garden scene in which stood a miniature old-fashioned lady.

Mrs. B. Goodwin was in charge of tea arrangements and assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. A. Green, Mrs. V. Minckler and Mrs. J. Fitzsimmons. Mrs. N. McTavish, Mrs. N. Brown and Mrs. T. Panter did the serving.

Mrs. R. Douglas read teacups and told fortunes with cards. A contest was won by Mrs. F. Jenkins.

Home cooking was sold by Mrs. I. Rawcliffe and Mrs. S. Jenkins. Mrs. T. McKay was in charge of the cards, and Mrs. L. Bayley supervised a sewing table.

A baby fresh from the hospital is accustomed to nursery noise from many babies. At this time, parents certainly need not feel they have to tip-toe so he can sleep. He'll sleep if he's tired, even if the radio's going.

WEDDING DATE SET

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Collison, 1983 Carnarvon Street, have announced the engagement of their youngest daughter, Myrna Marilyn, to Mr. Berlyn E. Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton W. Hodges, 1137 Caledonia Avenue. The marriage will take place March 29 at 8:30 p.m. in Metropolitan United Church. Miss Collison has asked her sister, Mrs. Colleen Dickinson, to be matron of honor, and Miss Donna Kerr and Miss Dayle Heal to be bridesmaids. Best man will be Mr. Roderick James Harford. ABOUT A PRE-WEDDING RECEPTION

I am to be married in two months, and, for the second time, to a service man. My fiancé, who has never been in my home city, arrives here the day before the wedding. We leave immediately after the small family wedding breakfast for Europe where my fiancé will be stationed for two years. Since the day before the wedding will be my birthday and since none of my friends and most of my relatives have never met the young man, would it be all right for my parents to give a large party that night to take the place of a reception?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS

Ordinarily I would say no, but there are various circumstances and conditions in your case that would warrant a party. I'm all for it. Even though you may have, for example, two hundred people, the affair can be informal and simple in all of its appointments, yet it can be delightful. Call it an "Open House" rather than a reception. I think I would avoid formal invitations if at all possible. It would be better for you and your mother to phone as many people as you can and write notes to those living out of town. Be big and brave by forgetting for the moment the birthday and the wedding. With each call, explain that the party is being given for "Bill" who has a two-year overseas assignment and that you are both leaving for Europe after the wedding and family breakfast. Make it a point not to sound as if the party were to be a substitute for a wedding reception. The idea is to just drop in the night before to meet Bill and to say goodbye to you both. By doing it this way, you would lessen the gift giving obligations.

BIRKS FOR FINE DIAMONDS

IT PAYS TO INVESTIGATE BEFORE YOU INVEST

The engaged man seeking a diamond "bargain" often sets himself up as a target for every type of questionable deal. Too often, the "once-in-a-lifetime" bargain proves to be just the reverse. The average person just does not have enough gem knowledge to judge stones. . . he must rely on the integrity of the jeweller. So, before you invest, investigate!

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Has Brittle Fingernails—Needs Calcium, Vitamin D

Q—"Will you please name some foods which will help improve fingernails that are brittle and split and crack all of the time? I know it must be some lack of mineral or vitamin but I do not know which or the foods which contain them."

A.—You may need more calcium. Milk is the best source. Cheese and eggs are good too. I suggest that you take vitamin

For Charity—A successful coffee party was held by the Native Daughters of British Columbia, Post No. 3, recently in the Hudson's Bay Company's Douglas Room. Mrs. Jack Fouracre was convener, assisted by Mrs. H. Pomeroy, Mrs. J. W. King, Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. R. Cruickshank and Mrs. Boyd Brown. Proceeds will go towards charitable work of the organization.

Coffee Party—Red carnations, red candles and a holiday motif decorated the coffee table and stalls at the recent coffee party held by the evening branch of St. Mary's WA in the church hall recently. The group realized $95 from the affair, which was convener by Mrs. G. P. Clarke, Mrs. Hywel Jones, Mrs. D. C. F. MacArthur and Mrs. E. V. Bird poured coffee. Mrs. A. H. Stokes, president, welcomed guests.

"East of Burma"—Miss N. M. McKillican gave a word picture of the historical and geographical background of the study, "East of Burma," at a recent meeting of the afternoon auxiliary of the WMS of First United Church. Miss A. Long gave the devotional. Mrs. C. A. Goodwin sang two solos, with Mrs. J. Gough accompanying. Mrs. C. L. Whitby and Miss M. Staley gave reports on the presbytery held recently in Oak Bay United Church. Mrs. E. J. Capling presided and welcomed three new members.

D. Without a sufficient amount you cannot properly use your calcium.

Sometimes it helps to leave nail polish off for a few weeks.

Q—"I am writing about my skin. It always has been very oily. I am over 35 and since last spring I have been having some pimples. A doctor told me that they probably come from my scalp. Now I have that cleared up but still have some. What do you think about this?"

A.—Often skin trouble comes from an infection of the scalp. It may take the complexion a little longer to clear up. If it doesn't soon, do go see a dermatologist. In the meantime do not handle the pimples.

Q—"I followed your diets very closely. I did weigh 155 pounds but now weigh 135 pounds. I think I must have a small frame as in my twenties I only weighed 98-112 pounds. My measurements are, bust 34, waist 29, and hips 39 inches. I am short-waisted and so still look fat. My stomach muscles are very poor. Is it possible to lose more weight without losing in my face? I will look gaunt. Also can I get a flat tummy again?"

A.—You are nearer your correct weight now than you were in your twenties. You were underweight then. Now you should lose only about five to eight pounds. If you will exercise while you reduce it will be helpful. Such a small loss will make very little difference in your face anyway.

Q—"I would appreciate very much some advice about my figure. All of my friends tell me that I am just right but I feel that I should lose some weight or something. I am 21 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall and weigh 128 pounds. My bust measures 34, waist 32, and hips 36 inches. I know my measurements are off.

I really would appreciate it if you will answer this in your question box because I read your column every day."

A.—Glad you enjoy my column. You certainly are not overweight. You are just a few pounds underweight unless you have a very small build. Your waist is too large for the rest of you. Take waist reducing exercises faithfully. Of course this may be partially a question of build but the exercises will help.

Langford Notes

Mr. and Mrs. S. Dunstan, 2161 Peatt Road, Langford, entertained recently at a birthday party for their son, Jimmy, who was seven. Games were played and a birthday cake centred the supper table. The young guests included Freddie and Donnie Salmon, Brian Wilson, Ian Smith, Ralph Blaus and Ronnie and Jodie Dunstan.

Triplet babies of Mr. and Mrs. Desmond E. Hourigan, 23 Helmcken Road, were christened last Sunday afternoon in the Lady of Our Rosary Church, Langford, with Father W. J. O'Brien officiating. The babies, who are the third set of triplets in Victoria, received the names, Rosaleen Roberta, Maureen Roberta and Noreen Roberta. Godparents for Rosaleen are Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGrath; for Maureen, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Crossley, and for Noreen, Miss Margaret St. Martin and Mr. Richard Crossley. In the absence of Miss St. Martin, the baby's sister, Colleen Hourigan, stood proxy. A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hourigan following the service.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Newcomb, who have spent the last six months in England, are visiting in Langford. They will leave shortly for Calgary, where they will spend the next three months visiting Mrs. Newcomb's parents, before returning to live in Langford.

Winnipeg Visitors

Miriam Green Ellis, Winnipeg, western editor of the Family Herald and Weekly Star, until she retired several years ago, is in Victoria on a vacation and is a guest at the Empress Hotel.

From Edmonton

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Stacey are visitors in Victoria at present from Edmonton and are staying at the Empress Hotel. With them is their daughter, Miss F. W. Stacey, Toronto.

To Attend Ball

Planning to attend the Mardi Gras Ball tonight at the Empress Hotel are Dr. and Mrs. Jack Macdonald, Mr. and Mrs. Geoff Sheffield, Mr. and Mrs.

W. Pumphrey, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Love, Miss Joan Edgar and Lieut. Bill Bishop.

A Bridal Shower

Miss Jacqueline Freer, who is to be married to Mr. George Fayad in early March, was guest of honor when Mrs. Eleanor Hess entertained recently at a luncheon party in her home on Aldous Terrace, Saanich. The bride-elect was presented with a gardenia corsage and a clothes hamper from the assembled guests. Her mother, Mrs. Jack Freer, received a carnation corsage. Luncheon was served buffet style from a lace cloth covered table centred with daffodils. Mrs. Joan Bamford and Mrs. Joan Whittingham assisted the hostess. Other guests were Mrs. Peggy McMillan, Mrs. Elsie Churchill, Mrs. Rosemary McGillis, Miss Marie Reider and Miss Audrey Lansley.

President Re-Elected At Auxiliary Annual

Mrs. J. A. Church was re-elected president at annual meeting of the Children's Ward Auxiliary, Royal Jubilee Hospital. Other officers include: Vice-president, Miss Irene Bannerman; secretary, Mrs. Violet Edwards; treasurer, Miss Lucie Woodrow; buying, Mrs. G. Rusk; visiting, Mrs. T. W. Turner; phoning, Miss Irene Bannerman.

Secretary Mrs. V. Edward reported that four new members had been welcomed during the year. Money-making events included a games night, blossom tea, penny auction and an apron mailing scheme.

An oxygen analyzer, gowns and slippers, gifts and kindergarten scissors were purchased for the ward, and $250 was contributed toward an anaesthesia machine for the operating room and a copper flower container for use in the reception room of the nurses' residence.

Miss Marjorie Siddall, treasurer, announced total receipts as $308.98 and disbursements $472.61.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. George Masters, M. A. Fraser, F. Mulliner, Mrs. P. E. Corby, Mrs. Murray Anderson, Mrs. Leslie Macdonnell, Miss Verna Beek and Mrs. C. C. Warren.

'BETTY BETZ' NOW A MOTHER

NEW YORK (CP) — The wife of Frank McMahon, Calgary oilman, gave birth Wednesday to a baby daughter at New York hospital.

Mrs. McMahon, the former Betty Betz of New York who wrote a syndicated teen-age newspaper column, and the child, Francine, were "both doing fine."

Other officers are Mrs. A. W. E. Pitkethley, first vice-regent; Mrs. G. R. Laird, re-elected second; Mrs. P. F. Batten, secretary; Mrs. A. Titterle, treasurer; Miss E. Nagle, re-elected educational secretary; Mrs. P. McCutcheon, Echoes; Mrs. G. E. Harris, services at home and abroad and Mrs. M. Campbell, re-elected standard bearer.

Mrs. Thomas Lumsden installed the officers.

Mrs. Dunn presided at the meeting and special guests seated with her at the head table were Mrs. A. Warren Smith.

Auxiliary Plans Fair

Annual Children's Fair sponsored by the Junior Auxiliary to the Victorian Order of Nurses will be held this year at Fireman's Park, Oak Bay, instead of at Carnarvon Park. Plans for the affair, which will be held in June, were discussed at a recent meeting. Mrs. W. Graham, convener, announced that a bazaar would be an added attraction this year, and tea will be served inside the Scout Hall at the park.

Members handed in dressed dolls to be sold in the "Doll House" at the fair, and plans were made to hold a meeting to cut out doll's clothing for members to sew.

Meeting was held at the home of Mrs. G. A. Jones, 880 St. Patrick Street. Reports were given by secretary, Mrs. Jones, and treasurer, Mrs. R. H. Huil.

Members volunteered to assist the senior board in sorting rummage for the forthcoming sale, and to help in the stalls.

Clubwomen's News

On Law—At the recent Credit Women's Breakfast Club meeting in McEwen's Tartan Room, H. L. Matthews of Lauder and Matthews legal firm was guest speaker. His topic was, "You and the Law." Mrs. Esther Harwood, president, was in the chair. Members were reminded of a rummage sale to be held in early March, and were told that donations may be left at Evans, Coleman and Johnson Bros. Ltd.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

JAMES BAY GROUP—The Pack under Scout H. R. Roberts will hold a church parade to the Anglican Church on Menzies Street, Sunday morning.

WINDSOR PARK GROUP—About 225 Cub Scouts, Rovers and their fathers sat down to the annual B-P dinner in St. Mary's Church Hall, Elgin Road, on Wednesday evening.

Each "patrol" and "six" decorated their table with their patrol colors and some motif on the life of B-P or a jungle animal. During the evening David Angus and Bob Gibson were presented with their first class badges. Jim Gallin, Bill Smith and G. Parke received their second class badges. The B.C. Forest Service showed film of the interior of B.C.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Linda Knight, aged 10, of Houston, Texas, for her question:

What Are the Elements?

The word element has changed its meaning with the times. Way back in the Middle Ages, the alchemists had their ideas of the elements. They thought there were four of them—earth, air, fire and water. The world and everything in it, they believed, was made from various combinations of these four basic elements.

The old-time alchemist dreamed of using this information about basic elements to turn lead into gold. He worked secretly, in robes figured with strange symbols. He chanted magic words as he mixed and heated brews and formulas. But he never changed lead into gold. He just did not know enough about elements. If he had known what we know, he never would have tried. For even the modern scientists cannot change lead into gold.

We still believe that the earth is made from a number of basic elements. But we recognize about 100 of them. What's more, neither earth, air, fire or water appears on a modern list of basic elements. Water we recognize as a substance made from a combination of two of the basic elements, hydrogen and oxygen. Air is a blend of several gases, most of them basic elements. Carbon dioxide, present in small amounts, is a compound of two elements.

The earth, or the ground, is a countless variety of compounds made from the basic elements. Only rarely do we find a mineral in pure form as an element. Water is a compound of the elements hydrogen and oxygen. Fire is not even counted as a substance or compound of elements. It is a chemical reaction, a process of change from one state of matter to others.

The basic elements of which the earth is made are themselves made up of atoms. Each element is made from its own kind of atom. Gold is different from lead because gold atoms are different from lead atoms. We can mix these two elements together to form an alloy. But we cannot change one into the other.

In the last 100 years or so, we have learned a great deal about the elements and the atoms of which they are made. The atoms come in various weights and sizes. They have been sorted and listed from the simplest to the most complex. The simplest atom is the hydrogen atom. It contains but two principle particles. Billions of these atoms together form hydrogen gas, the lightest element in the world.

KLONDIKE KATE DIES AT 77

SWEET HOME, Ore. (AP)—Klondike Kate died at her home here Thursday. She was 77. Her real name, Mrs. Kate Rockwell Matson Van Duren, was known to her neighbors, but it was as Klondike Kate, the dance hall girl of Dawson City, that she had a continent-wide acquaintance.

Born in Kansas in 1880, she went north from Seattle when she was 20. For the last 45 years she lived in Oregon.

Fine Collection of Graphics At Gallery by European Artists

By GWADYS DOWNES

The National Gallery has just sent the Victoria Art Gallery a fine collection of graphics by Europe's best artists from the Renaissance to the present day.

No amateur or student of art should miss the opportunity to see this exhibition.

Starting out with woodcuts, engravings and etchings, by Durer and Rembrandt, the exhibition moves down the centuries through Tiepolo, Claude le Lorrain, Canaletto, Corot, Manet to the contemporary scene.

It is interesting to see how the demands of an exact medium challenge the artist. Subjects and tastes differ, but the materials themselves do not become any more tractable. I think many people will be surprised to find that the craftsmanship of the moderns is just as delicate, just as precise, and in many cases more effective than that of their predecessors.

In spite of the technical accomplishments of the Renaissance, this particular genre does not move me, although I confess a liking for Durer's "The Great Horse." It is the moderns and their predecessors—Daumier, Goya, Blake, who seem to have welded passionate feeling into the severe medium most successfully.

Picasso, Gauguin, Chagall and Roualt are all well represented. Each has responded in his characteristic way to the medium chosen, and each engraving or woodcut bears this personal style, as obvious as a signature.

VIVID CONTRAST

The Massey Gallery contains work which is a vivid contrast to the sobriety of the graphics. Elizabeth Freeman is a Victorian with some, but not much, formal training. She doesn't need it. Here is a perfect example of a primitive painter with an unerring eye for texture and design, who fills the picture plane completely.

SEPARATING—After 11½ years of marriage actor-producer-director Dick Powell and actress June Allyson have come to parting of ways. "We have not been getting along for the past few years, even though we have tried," the actress said today. Powell and Miss Allyson have two children, Pamela, eight, and Richard Jr., six. There are no immediate plans for divorce.

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS

Bette Davis Back —But Only Briefly

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bette Davis is back in town, but only to knock off a few acting chores. Then she's hustling back to her home in Portland, Me.

One of Hollywood's most distinguished expatriates, Bette gave up the movie capital six years ago for the New England life. She was born a Yankee in Lowell, Mass., and she and husband Gary Merrill find life more invigorating back there for themselves and their brood.

"Sure, it's been cold this winter," she admitted. "We had a couple of weeks of 20-below weather. But it's not bad if you live in the country and don't have to go out a lot."

Bette is here for her annual visit. "I have to work sometimes, you know," she explained. "Gary comes out more often on flying visits to do film and TV chores. But she dislikes flying and makes the trip by train. Because of this, she likes to accomplish as much as she can in one visit.

Ottawa Sweetens Stratford Fund

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal grant of $250,000 towards construction of a permanent theatre for the Shakespearean Festival at Stratford, Ont., was announced Thursday by Finance Minister Harris.

Mr. Harris read to the Commons a letter he has sent to Wilfred Gregory of the Shakespearean Theatre that the federal government will match the total capital grants of the province of Ontario, "namely $250,000."

The minister's announcement was met with loud applause from all sections of the House.

Construction program of the permanent theatre, begun last fall, is continuing and festival officials hope to open the 1957 season July 1 in the new building. The festival previously was held in a huge tent.

GAVE LIFE FOR CHUM

Posthumous Award For Prairie Scout

OTTAWA (CP)—An 11-year-old Roblin, Man., boy scout who lost his life while trying to rescue a chum from drowning has been awarded the Bronze Cross of Scouting.

Members of the family of Scout Wayne Rudolph Jones will receive the posthumous award from Governor-General Massey at Government House here next fall.

The name of the brave scout is included in a list of 51 Scouting awards announced on the eve of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scout movement.

MANY HONORED

The list includes names of Canadians who gained recognition for bravery, services to scouting and promotion of the movement. Two Americans and an Englishman were also rewarded for services of exceptional character to Scouting.

Major awards will be presented by Governor-General Massey at an investiture. Others will be made at local presentations.

Wayne Jones and three eight-year-old companions were playing on a raft on Goose Lake, near Roblin, Aug. 28, 1955. One, a non-swimmer, got in trouble in the water and Wayne swam to help, only to be pulled under by the frightened youngster. Both boys were drowned.

The Gilt Cross, for gallantry with moderate risk, went to Cubmaster Jean Louis Caron, 18, of Quebec City, and Scout Joseph Hugh MacFarlane, 15, of Sydney, N.S.

Other awards: Medal for meritorious conduct: Eric Gerald MacKenzie, 14, Woodstock, N.B.

Certificate of merit for gallantry: Donald Brockie, 12, Oakville, Ont.; Stuart Mills, 14, Electric, Ont.; Thomas Nippak, 15, Toronto; Andre Rode, Oakville, Ont.

Certificate of meritorious conduct: Orland Wasson, 15, Newcastle, Creek, N.B.

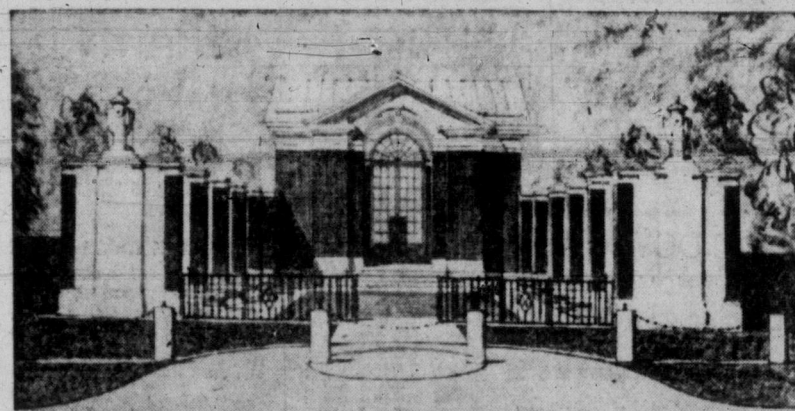

SERVICES RECOGNIZED

The Silver Fox award, made to non-residents of Canada for services of exceptional character to Scouting, went to Rear Admiral Sir Richard H. L. Bevan of Minchinhampton, Gloucestershire, England. Chief Scout's commissioner: Amory Houghton, New York, and John M. Schiff, New York.

Mr. Houghton and Mr. Schiff are honorary vice-presidents of Boy Scouts of America.

The Silver Wolf award for services of exceptional character has been granted E. E. Gregg of Vancouver, former president of the British Columbia provincial council; and Walter H. Gibbons, Tillsonburg, Ont., regional commissioner.

The Silver Acorn, for distin-

DUNKERQUE MEMORIAL, in commemoration of the 4,700 men of the British Expeditionary Force who died there after the fall of France is depicted here in an artist's sketch. The Memorial, near Dunkerque, France, will be unveiled by Queen Mother

Elizabeth on June 29, as tribute to the British soldiers who held the German Army at bay in one of the great delaying battles of the Second World War, while inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy, (CP).

IT WAS NOT ENEMY FLAK— JUST EXPLODING TIN PINS

LONDON (CP)—Colin Hodgkinson, a legless fighter pilot, has written a book about his Second World War experiences. The title: "Best Foot Forward." He tells how, terrified that he might crash over the seas and be dragged down by the weight of his artificial legs, he filled the "tin pins" with ping pong balls for buoyancy.

Fellow pilots who saw Hodgkinson take evasive action one day, with nobody near, learned later he had been dodging what he thought was flak. The ping pong balls had exploded at high altitude.

Hodgkinson lost his legs in 1940 but continued to fly until captured at St. Omer, France, in 1944.

1957 AUTOMATIC WASHERS AND DRYERS

$120 TRADE-IN

For your old washer not over 10 years old in working order

AUTOMATIC WASHER

Rubbing and scrubbing—so hard on clothes—play no part in this washer. The secret is simple—Frigidaire's fast-moving up-and-down pulsator-agitator moves the water. No harsh fins or blades touch them. Each piece of clothing washed separately, thoroughly and gently.

AUTOMATIC DRYER

The Frigidaire Filtrator—Makes drying your clothes a "lint-free" breeze. No vents, no pipes needed—just a simple slide-out feature that settles the lint problem. The dryer also has a toe-touch door, automatic interior light and ozone lamp gives your clothes that outdoor fragrance with indoor sunshine.

QUEEN CREATES DUKE PRINCE OF THE REALM

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen today created her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, a prince of the realm less than 24 hours after he returned from a world tour which took him to the remotest parts of the Commonwealth.

The honor, which does not affect the succession to the throne, means the Queen's husband will be known in future as His Royal Highness Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh.

Asian Bloc Moves On UN Sanctions

TITLE BOUT SET TONIGHT

CLEVELAND (AP)—Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio and challenger Johnny Saxton each weighed in today at exactly 147 pounds, the limit for tonight's 15-round title match. Basilio ruled a 7-5 favorite.

Saxton was three ounces over the limit the first time he got on the scale. But after a little exercise, he came back and made it. Bout will be televised over Channel 4 at 7 p.m.

Unemployment Passes Peak

Winter unemployment appears to have passed its peak in Victoria and on the lower mainland.

Officials of the Unemployment Insurance Commission said today 419 men and women had gained or regained jobs in the last week.

Total of unemployed now stands at 4,092 compared with 4,511, the winter peak recorded recently.

City hall building inspector's office reported today several permits have been issued for new homes and one new four-suite apartment is expected to be constructed shortly.

Carpenters are also expected to start next week on a $52,000 renovation to the Salvation Army Men's Hostel on Johnson Street.

Most of the 264 men who went to work in the last seven days were recalled by previous employers. The amount of new hiring is still quite low and jobs continue to be scarce. Officials expect the number of job vacancies will increase in the next two or three weeks.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Six Arab and Asian nations today formally demanded that the United Nations invoke sanctions against Israel.

The demand was laid before the 80-nation General Assembly by Dr. Charles Malik, foreign minister of Lebanon. The plan was sponsored by Lebanon, Iraq, Sudan, Indonesia, Pakistan and Afghanistan.

The demand called for:
1. A general condemnation of any non-compliance with United Nations resolutions.
2. The withholding of economic, financial and military aid from Israel.

POLICY UNDER FIRE

Latest despatches from Jerusalem say minority party leaders on both sides of the political fence are uniting today in demanding that Ben Gurion keep Israel's troops in the Gaza Strip and along the Egyptian coast of the Gulf of Aqaba.

Speaking in the Israeli Knesset (parliament), they rejected the latest conditions laid down by Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion for Israeli withdrawal behind the armistice lines.

At Washington, Eisenhower administration officials said today the United States will agree to Israel's request for further talks on the question of withdrawing her troops, but will not seek to delay United Nations pressure against the Jewish state.

Freight Rates Hike

OTTAWA (CP)—The railways have been directed to boost freight rates on goods moving between eastern and western Canada by two cents per 100 pounds, the board of transport commissioners announced today. The order is effective March 1.

B.C. Budget Hits New High; No Tax Changes for Public

BUDGET at a GLANCE

1. No changes in consumer taxation.
2. Province to sign federal tax rental agreement for another five years, avoiding dual income and corporation taxes.
3. Technical changes in mining and logging resources taxes.
4. Province takes over from Ottawa 2% levy on insurance premiums.
5. Budget hits all-time high with over-all allocations of $295.9 millions.
6. $28 grant to home-owners for land tax relief confirmed.
7. Reduction of direct provincial debt speeded up with special allocation of $21 millions from revenue surpluses. Object is to retire all direct debt by 1962.
8. Guaranteed debt jumps $85 millions in year.
9. No new aid for University of B.C. buildings.

Another Man Faces Charge In Bank Raid

Indictment Against Barry Keele Withdrawn for Lack of Evidence

A charge of armed bank robbery against Victoria man Barry Irwin Keele, 26, was withdrawn in city police court today because of insufficient evidence.

Meanwhile, police said a second Victorian, 25 years old, has been arrested in Vancouver and will be charged in court Saturday with armed theft of $3,000 from Canadian Bank of Commerce James Bay branch on Feb. 11.

'Foolish' to Start University In Victoria Now, Says UBC Head

Strong opposition to the establishment of a provincially supported university in Victoria at the present time, was voiced here today by Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia.

He urged full development of UBC before establishing a second university or a system of junior colleges.

Dr. MacKenzie was speaking at the annual meeting of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau at the Empress Hotel on "The Future of Higher Education in B.C."

The best and most useful contribution that Victoria College can make, he said, is in the field of arts and sciences at the undergraduate levels. "I am sure that, in due course, as the need arises and as the development is justified, Victoria College will grow and expand the work that it now undertakes," said Dr. MacKenzie. He pointed out that there is nowhere in Canada at present a system of junior colleges, nor has any Canadian province been able to afford more than one autonomous branches in various parts of the state all under the same president.

Under this plan, he said, there is one common board of governors or regents representing the whole state, and presenting a united front in their claims for support.

This in no way affects the right or the practice of the individual institutions who make separate appeals to local groups

IWA Drafts Secret Pact On Wages

Will Be Revealed Monday at Parley

VANCOUVER (CP)—A secret draft of pay demands by 30,000 coast woodworkers has been drawn up for presentation here Monday to the district convention of the International Woodworkers of America, it was learned today.

The draft was completed Thursday by a policy committee whose officials were sworn to secrecy until it is presented to the conference for final approval.

Some of the 122 locals represented at the meeting are calling for wage demands of from 15 to 30 per cent above the present basic rate of $1.59 an hour.

MANY DEMANDS

There are numerous other demands for a union shop, health and pension plans, improved holidays and a 200-day guaranteed work year.

When the coastal workers of British Columbia enter wage negotiations March 15, their talks will coincide with negotiations of about 70,000 other IWA members in Washington and Oregon.

Al Hartung of Portland, international vice-president of the union, urged B.C. members to work with fellow unionists in the Pacific northwest states for "a big increase."

GOT TO MOVE

"We've got to move," Mr. Hartung said Thursday. "Other basic industries are winning big increases and the cost of living is going up. We can't lower our standard of living by staying where we are."

"If we should have to go on strike in B.C. and across the line, at least we will not be filling each other's orders when the other group is out."

ATTACKS CARPENTERS

Mr. Hartung also attacked the United Brotherhood of Carpenters as "a strike-breaking institution."

He told cheering delegates: "They are going behind picket lines and signing up scabs. They do not want to meet or co-operate with us. I've tried to meet them but they are always too busy to talk."

Land Tax Relief For Home Owners Is Main Policy

Details of B.C. Budget, Page 10

An all-time record provincial budget calling for total outlays of $295.9 million was submitted to the B.C. Legislature today by Premier Bennett.

The budget is $37 millions higher than the budget of last year, but $21 millions of the increase is brought about by a special allocation of funds toward paying off the direct provincial debt.

The actual increase in general spending will be $16 millions, or about 6 1/2 per cent.

There were no surprises in Mr. Bennett's budget.

There were no changes in consumer taxation either up or down.

A tax relief scheme of $28 for homeowners through a direct provincial grant had already been forecast. The premier gave no details just how this back into the income and corporation tax fields thus creating detailed legislation will be put dual taxation.

before the House shortly. The aid to homeowners all over B.C. will amount to $7,490,000.

Mr. Bennett dispelled, for good, rumors of the last two days that the province might go into the income and corporation tax fields thus creating detailed legislation will be put dual taxation.

New Five-Year Tax Agreement

He announced that B.C. will again sign a five-year agreement with Ottawa under which the federal government rents the province's tax rights in these fields.

In signing this, he said B.C. has negotiated a better deal than the agreement of the last five years, giving it about $9 million a year more in its share of the revenues collected by Ottawa.

The only tax changes in the budget were an outcome of the alterations in the agreement with Ottawa.

B.C. will now impose a 2% tax on insurance premiums—a tax vacated by Ottawa at the first of the year—and there will be minor changes in the natural resources taxes on logging and mining which will bring increased revenue to the provincial coffers.

The budget contained no new grants for buildings at the University of British Columbia, sought by both the university administration and a students' drive.

The premier pointed out that the government has already allocated $1,000,000 a year for ten years for this purpose and has been very generous with the university.

One of the chief announcements in the budget was that the massive road and bridge building program launched last year will continue at the same high level.

Total allocations for roads of all kinds is fixed at $70.9 millions, an increase of $2.7 millions over the 1956-57 appropriations.

Another $10,000,000 is allocated for buildings and various other capital works, bringing to $80.8 millions the total spending on capital projects, an increase of $700,000 from last year.

The ordinary expenses of government show a jump of $10.5 millions, from $198,080,131 to $208,526,533.

One substantial jump is $1.5 million in the cost of hospital insurance which will total $31.9 millions.

The province's education bill will increase $1.8 million to a new high of $48.8 millions.

The only major reduction in the budget is in debt charges which will drop by $2,236,152 as the government continues its policy of paying off the direct provincial debt and making new loans only as guarantees for specific things like the PGE Railway, schools, toll bridges and power development.

The premier reiterated his previous claim that by 1962 the entire direct debt of the province will be wiped out.

A substantial portion will be paid off in the coming year through a special allocation of $21,000,000 for debt retirement.

The budget, on the whole, reflected the continued booming economy of the province. It showed revenues rolling into the treasury at an unprecedented rate.

It is estimated total general revenues of the province will reach $268,444,000. This compares with an estimate of $224,537,000 for the fiscal year which ends March 31, but in his preliminary report the premier showed that the revenues this year have already far exceeded these estimates.

While the revenue estimate would not cover the whole of the planned outlays by the government, the premier explained that there is $49.1 millions in the revenue surplus account, built up from previous surpluses. All of this is available for use as required.

The sales tax in the coming year will yield $86,250,000. It was estimated. Gasoline taxes will yield more than $25,000,000, and liquor profits are estimated at $23,750,000, an increase of $2,250,000.

However, the premier said the general approach to the budget had been one of caution because of the tight money policy at Ottawa and the disturbed international situation.

WENNER-GREN BALLOTS TOP 1,200 MARK

Well over 1,200 ballots have now been cast in The Times public opinion poll regarding the Axel Wenner-Gren proposal for developing B.C.'s north-land.

The ballot was printed for the last time in Thursday's paper.

This morning's mail brought between 600 and 700 letters, reflecting the widest interest in the government's decision to reserve the 40,000 square-mile area while surveys are being made by the Wenner-Gren people.

Tabulation of the votes begins this afternoon and it is hoped to have a complete count by Saturday morning. Results will be published in Saturday's paper.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

100-Watt Smile Beamed on Squire

Premier Bennett was in rare good humor Thursday on the eve of his long-awaited Budget Speech to the legislature.

He turned his 100-watt smile on both sides of the House during the closing stages of the Throne Speech debate, and refused to be angered even when John Squire—that ardent CCFer from Alberni—reproached him about not answering letters.

It must be admitted, however, that Mr. Squire's methods of approach are somewhat Machiavellian.

"If the premier had answered my requests there is no knowing but what I might have returned to this House as a Social Creditor," he said.

Stand on That Record—Hide It

"If the CCF had a record like the Social Credit government we would stand on it, too, because we wouldn't want anyone to see it."

Mr. Bennett continued smiling while Mr. Squire castigated him for his repeated use of the word "smear" under opposition attack.

"We come here to do an honest job for the province," the member said, "and I think

"You are a pretty nice fellow anyway," the premier replied, beaming a fatherly grin at the opposition member.

Mr. Squire wasn't so easily disarmed. He lit into the premier for calling a snap election last September and told him he would have to get up very early if he hoped to deprive Alberni constituents of their vote.

"Most of us were sitting right beside our radios when the election was announced and we were lining up next names on the voters' list."

Then he chided the first minister for his election statement that the Social Credit government stands on its record.

we are entitled to a respectful hearing.

"The other day the premier was quoted on the radio as saying 'smear, smear.' I wonder what the public think of this sort of thing."

Having more or less disposed of the premier, the Alberni member turned to the subject of reckless motorists.

Bad Drivers Are Dangerous Criminals

Such motorists, he said, should now be regarded as dangerous criminals who between them were responsible for more deaths and injuries than war or disease.

"There has been more heartbreak, more broken homes in this province from auto accidents than anything else," he declared.

Bert Price, the small but vehement Social Credit member for Vancouver Burrard, had one or two ideas about the functions of the new ministry of recreation and conservation to be set up by the government.

He suggested the ministry should develop musical appreciation among the younger citizens and lure them away from the seductive juke boxes.

And he went so far as to suggest that the new minister should look into the beer parlors—administratively of course—to see how they could be improved as a source of recreation.

Combining the two ideas, there is little doubt the serious-minded Mr. Price would have British Columbians drinking beer to the refining strains of Bach and Mozart.

THIS SCREWBALL WORLD

Party Crasher Just A Party Pooper

DETROIT (AP)—Miss Margaret Boone had the doggedest tea party.

As a friend, Mrs. Mary DeMoulaere, stepped through the front door, a grumpy, mud-splattered hound dog bounded in close behind her. It lumbered over to Miss Boone's new living room sofa, stretched out its dirty paws and fell asleep.

When Mrs. DeMoulaere started to leave, with the dog still sleeping peacefully, Miss Boone asked: "Aren't you forgetting your dog?"

"My dog!" said her guest. "I thought it belonged to you. It was gnawing on a bone on your front porch when I arrived."

POMPTON LAKES, N.J. (AP)—This suburban community is finding out the hard way the truth of the old saying, "When the cat's away, the mice will play."

Several weeks ago, the borough council passed an ordinance licensing cats. Cats without tags were taken to a cat pound.

Now the council is told rats are overrunning the community.

CONCORD, Va. (AP)—Dairyman W. D. Evans is not crying

Evans was loading a milk truck when he received her phone call from several miles away. He sped to the fire with 100 gallons of milk in 10-gallon drums and used half of it to control the fire.

Egyptian Princess Has First Free Date

CANNES, France (AP)—Princess Ferial, ex-king Farouk's eldest daughter, went out without her chaperone for the first time Thursday night and danced far into the night with young society friends.

The 19-year-old Egyptian princess came from Switzerland to attend the wedding of Princess Marie-Louise of Bulgaria and German Prince Karl Wladimir of Leiningen. She left the wedding party, with her father's approval, shortly after dinner.

Norman James Horner, 18, 1376 Hastings, $40 and licence suspension for careless driving and $50 for supplying liquor to a minor. He agreed not to drink until he becomes 21.

Son-in-Law Seeks Winch's Burnaby Seat

BURNABY (CP)—The son-in-law of the late Ernest Winch was nominated Thursday night as CCF candidate in his father-in-law's constituency in the forthcoming provincial by-election. The Burnaby riding vacancy was created by Mr. Winch's death.

Cedric Cox, a pattern-maker, won the nomination over Mrs. Grace McInnis, wife of Angus McInnis and daughter of the late J. S. Woodworth, first national leader of the CCF.

If the city of Victoria, following the example of London and Hamilton in Ontario, wished to give an annual grant to Victoria College, or if citizens wish to create an endowment for it, it could easily be accomplished.

Said Dr. MacKenzie: "I am convinced we should have in this province at least one good and fully-equipped university, and that it should be provided with reasonably adequate finances to carry on its work."

"Unless this is done, and done first, much of the rest of our effort and our money will be so dispersed as to be in a sense wasted, in that the results are likely to be second rate and mediocre higher educational opportunities for the young men and women of the province."

Dr. MacKenzie stressed he is not interested in building a "colossus" at Point Grey—"nor am I in principle opposed to the decentralization of higher education or the establishment of junior colleges; provided this is done intelligently and with a view to the wise use of the taxpayers' money and avoidance of unnecessary and expensive duplication of effort and facilities; and provided, too, it is done in the right order and at the right time."

The UBC president said the university is planning a large capital drive program in 1958.

"We have already begun work and hoping that it will be possible to increase private and public contributions to our capital needs."

Dr. MacKenzie announced that within the past week he has received letters of resignation from three highly qualified young men who are leaving the university for better paid positions in the U.S.

"This is likely to continue in an accelerated way unless two things are done. One: that we get enough money to pay them reasonably adequate salaries in comparison with offers made them by other institutions in the U.S. or by industry or governments."

"The other is that they be given reasonable hope that over a period of years UBC will be adequately equipped with buildings and facilities to look after the modest needs of Canadian professors and Canadian students."

Death Sentence

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—A special court today sentenced Frixos Lambrou, a 17-year-old plumber, to death for firing a revolver at a British army warrant officer last November. The soldier, Harold Middleton, was slightly wounded.

Canoe Club Guttled

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Sailing and Canoe Club was destroyed by fire early today and club commodore R. K. Brake said an arsonist probably was responsible. Loss was set at $100,000.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Brooklyn Dodgers have won National League permission at a secret meeting to transfer their franchise to Los Angeles, the Herald-Express says today.

Noted 'Carmen' Dies

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP)—One of opera's most famous Carmens, Marguerita Sylva, died Thursday of head injuries suffered in an automobile accident. She was 82.

Police said her car went out of control Wednesday and struck the porch of a house.

2 Die; Truck Hits Sled

ROLLET, Que. (CP)—Two persons were killed Thursday night when a truck crashed into a horse-drawn sleigh near here.

They were identified as Mrs. Ovide Ledoux, 22, and Mrs. Frank Rail, 50, both of Rouyn-Noranda.

2 Tots Die in Fire

HALCOURT, Alta. (CP)—Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Willis died Thursday night when fire destroyed their two-room log cabin home, 2½ miles west of this town, 3½ miles southwest of Grande Prairie.

Assassination Fails

SAIGON (AP)—South Viet Nam's president, Ngo Dinh Diem, today escaped an assassin's bullet which severely wounded a government minister.

NOT WORTH IT

Missing Missile To Stay Missing

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—Remnants of an errant military rocket apparently are scattered in the high Rockies of Colorado or the desert reaches of Utah.

The 39-foot Matador missile escaped Thursday with about an hour's fuel left.

It soared northwestward from Alamogordo and probably landed in southwest Colorado or southeast Utah. The region is sparsely populated.

The U.S. Air Force planned to give up its search this morning for the missile because continuation "would cost more than the missile is worth." They said it did not carry an explosive warhead and was equipped only with instruments.

159 Survive Crash of U.S. Troop Plane

SEOUL (AP)—A United States Air Force C-124 Globemaster carrying 159 American servicemen crashed landed on a South Korean island in the Han River tonight.

First reports said no one was killed. An undetermined number were injured.

Engine trouble forced the plane to land about 10 miles before reaching Seoul's Kimpo airport. The plane was coming from Japan with 149 servicemen returning from leave. There was a 10-man crew aboard.

Weatherman tells how forecasting has progressed

"The immense increase in aviation has necessitated development of new techniques in weather forecasting," says Herb E. Chadburn of the Meteorological Branch of the Department of Transport.

"From a far-flung network of weather stations, information regarding both upper air and surface conditions is teletyped to central forecast offices. Here it is analyzed and used as the basis of forecasts," continues Mr. Chadburn. "Forecasting today benefits not only aviation but farming, shipping, forestry and many businesses and government agencies dependent upon the weather."

In forecasting for their personal futures, men like Mr. Chadburn benefit from progress in another field... life insurance.

In planning your life insurance, you'll find your life underwriter

more helpful today than ever before. He constantly seeks a broader knowledge of the individual needs of families like your own. With today's more flexible protection, he can help shape your life insurance plans so that they provide money for your children's education, for your own retirement income, or for other, worthwhile objectives.

In these and many other ways, the life insurance companies have progressed with the times.

Additional training for life insurance advisors is now provided by a voluntary 2-year course stressing the study of individual needs. Following this, an optional 3-year University Extension course is offered, leading to the degree of C.L.U. (Chartered Life Underwriter).

MOMENTS AFTER LAUNCHING and naming ceremony today, RCN's newest ship, the coastal mine-sweeper Miramichi, was towed from VMD Bay Street plant to fitting out dock at Outer Wharf.

MONTE ROBERTS

I think I have thought up a new party game. Not that I am such a one who goes in much for party games. At parties, I am the type who lurks behind a potted palm, waiting for a chance to leap out at an innocent bystander and rapidly tell the story of my life.

But, as usual, I have digressed.

This party game idea came to me during a sleepless night. Having tired of counting sheep, I decided trying to count things identified by initials.

It is a well known fact anything worthwhile these days is identified by initials, from the United Nations (UN) to the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartette Singing in America (SPEBSQSA) to soap flakes (FAB).

In the process of attempting to put myself to sleep by counting things identified by initials, I hit upon the party game idea.

It is simple but intriguing, guaranteed to provide clean, wholesome fun for one and all.

The object of the game is to provide new and better words to go with familiar initial groups.

Let us use, as a first example, CPAL—Canadian Pacific Air Lines (mentioned here in the slim hopes of a free trip to Hawaii.)

One player of this new party game might decide CPAL stands for Cats Prove Almost Likeable.

Another could chime in with Corruption Prevention Always Lacking.

And another might suggest Carpet Purveyors' Association Limited.

You see how simple it is? Simple is hardly the word for it.)

Here are a few other examples—just to get you started:

SPCA—Silent Poets Can't Argue.

UNESCO—Unlikely Necromancers Enjoy Slim Chances Overseas.

BCPC—Bolted Codfish Prevent Colds.

RCN—Remember, Careless Nights.

YMCA—Yogurt Melts Corruptulent Abdomens.

BCSSS—Before Crossing, Catch Steam Ship.

VIP—Various Intrepids Provoked.

LSMFT—Leading Seamen Must Find Time.

QED—Quite Essential Demonstration.

But I am sure you have the idea by now, and I wish you'd keep it. I'm all through with it.

Except to say, no fair playing with PGE.

EVERYONE knows this means Please Gundy Excusedly.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Friends met in the pavilion lounge at the Veterans' Hospital this week to celebrate the birthday of seven patients.

They were J. Hurst, 67; R. Wilson, 87; H. Bainbridge, 74; C. Eccleston, 77; F. Hamilton, 77; W. Broadie, 61, and O. Stamm, 78. Concert was given by St. Luke's 60-Up Club and Al Smith played many favorite songs of the First World War. A giant 10-lb. birthday cake, shaped like a Valentine, was served.

The appointment of James Fox as manager of the National Employment Office in Victoria was announced today.

Mr. Fox, at present manager of the Nanaimo branch Unemployment Insurance Commission, will be transferred here next week.

He replaces Charles Mudge, who died last week. Acting manager at present, J. Clark, made the announcement.

Motor vehicles on Vancouver Island have more than doubled since 1946, Attorney-General Robert Bonner revealed in the legislature Thursday.

Replying to a question from George Gregory (Liberal-Victoria), Mr. Bonner said 79,402 vehicles were registered on the Island in 1956 compared with 31,915 in 1946.

All over British Columbia the number of registrations rose from 147,196 in 1946 to 447,981 in 1956.

Ex-Victorian Dies in England

Resident of Victoria before the First World War, Robin G. Stofor died in England Feb. 14. Mr. Stofor left Canada to join the Royal Navy in England. After the war he was assigned to a post in the British Admiralty, London, where he served until retirement. He is survived by brothers Reg Stofor, Victoria, W. J. Stofor, California, and relatives in England.

Half-hour familiarization flights in an RCAF Expediter aircraft from Comox will be given 15 Cadettes and five male members of 89 Kinsmen Squadron Royal Canadian Air Cadets Saturday afternoon.

The plane will fly over Victoria with Vancouver Island air cadet liaison officer, FO R. Jobling, of RCAF Station Comox at the controls. Cadets will go up three at a time.

Last Saturday other members of the squadron were given flights.

Greater Victoria Celebrations Association meets Tuesday at 8 p.m. at City Hall.

Victor W. Griffin, capital City Yacht Club, was elected president of the International Order of the Blue Gavel Past Commodore's Club, Division two, at the annual meeting Wednesday.

Other officers are Chester W. Swanson, Nanaimo Yacht Club; W. Alfred Bazett, Maple Bay Yacht Club; and M. Clair Watts, Capital City Yacht Club, vice-presidents, and Frank W. Nicolls, Royal Victoria Yacht Club, secretary-treasurer. Election and installation of officers was held at the Maple Inn.

W. T. McLaughlin of Victoria has been appointed conciliation officer in the taking and counting of a strike vote in a dispute between Nanaimo Daily Free Press and Nanaimo Typographical Union, Local 337.

Angus P. MacBean, chief forester and manager of the timber and lands division, MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., will address a luncheon meeting of Victoria Rotary Club and the Canadian Club of Victoria at the Empress Hotel next Thursday at 12:30 p.m. His subject will be "The Forest Industry in Russia." In 1936 Mr. MacBean was one of a small group of lumbermen invited to visit mills and camps in Russia as the guests of the government. His lecture will be illustrated with pictures.

The second-to-last ship in the Royal Canadian Navy's current new shipbuilding program on the west coast was named and launched today.

The 137-foot, wooden-hulled, non-magnetic minesweeper Miramichi slipped gracefully down the ways at Victoria Machinery Depot's Bay Street yard at precisely 11 a.m.

The Miramichi was named by Mrs. Harold Husband, wife of the president of VMD, who was asked by the RCN to sponsor the ship.

The traditional bottle of champagne cracked across the bow as Mrs. Husband intoned the launching ritual: "I name thee Miramichi. God bless this ship and all those who sail in her."

PERFECT LAUNCH

It was a perfect launch. As Rear-Admiral Hugh F. Pullen put it: "She slipped into the water, curtsied her thanks, and came alive."

But there is a long period yet before the Miramichi will earn the letters "HMCS" before her name. VMD officials have a target date of October for builder's trials.

Into the small hull must go a maze of highly-complicated gear, designed to outfit the Miramichi as a coastal minesweeper, equipped to protect harbor entrances, sweep clear approaches to enemy objectives.

Propulsion machinery for the new 'sweeper' is now in Victoria, but generators—which must be installed before the main machinery—are not due for two weeks.

Superstructure still has to be built—and the "vitals" of the craft will need painstaking installation. Like all ships in Canada's modern navy, she is custom designed and will be custom built for her job.

Immediately after launching the Miramichi was towed to VMD's No. 2 plant at the Outer Wharf, where outfitting will be begun.

Last hull in the west coast RCN new ship program will hit the water at 12 noon Tuesday, when the Cowichan will be launched from Yarrows Ltd.'s Esquimalt yard.

Soldier Jailed 18 Months for Housebreaking

Camp Gordon Head soldier Leonard Harper was sentenced in Saanich court Thursday to 18 months definite and six months indeterminate in Oakalla jail young offenders' unit.

He pleaded guilty last week to breaking, entering and theft in a Saanich home a year ago. He had been absent without leave from his unit, after returning from a temporary posting elsewhere in Canada, and was arrested in Prince Albert.

The sentence will be served concurrently with 15 months definite and six months indeterminate imposed by B.C. Appeal Court on conviction for assault of a woman cab driver in November. Latter sentence was given on appeal of a $100 fine or month's imprisonment handed down in city police court.

Harper stole an automatic pistol from the home of Malcolm Alex McLeod, 2535 Sinclair, about Feb. 1, 1956.

Gear Industry To Fit Market, Says Economist

'Can't Change Whole World'

Maintenance of export markets for raw and semi-processed materials, and expansion of the home market for fully fabricated goods, are the best roads for economic development in B.C., Prof. John J. Deutsch said today at the B.C. Natural Resources Conference.

Prof. Deutsch, head of the UBC department of economics and political science, summarized the material presented in the conference to date, and found the picture promising.

"We can find markets for raw materials and for goods in the semi-processed form," he said, "because tariff rates of other nations favor importation of such materials."

"If we could fully fabricate the materials produced here we would become a gigantic industrial area, but the export market would not be available in anything like the same degree."

"This must be recognized in deciding how our future development can proceed," he said. "We can't change the whole world."

Entering the world market with fully fabricated products brings competition with old and established industry in addition to tariff barriers.

"That is why such a small part of our resources are fully fabricated," he said.

Two possibilities open to extending "full fabrication" are to try to reduce foreign tariffs, or to confine industry to the domestic market.

EXTENDED

"The latter promises the best future," Prof. Deutsch said. "As the domestic market grows, then the degree of fabrication can be extended."

A problem arising even in the domestic market is the cost of transportation of goods between here and the population centres of eastern Canada.

"We must either produce goods of very high quality, or of low cost," he said. "Our growth is best helped by doing the things that are economically feasible."

B.C. is still a long way from complete utilization of raw material resources, he said.

"The most prominent is the forest resource," he said. "Twenty years ago provincial authorities predicted imminent exhaustion of forest resources, and now I find the volume of timber resources to be marketed will be doubled, and that lack of cutting mature and over-mature stands is considered undesirable. This change is due to extraordinary developments in the utilization of the forest, and development of the integrated forest industry has meant untold wealth to B.C."

In the mineral field, he said, only a small portion has been exploited to date. Large areas where there is no surface indication of minerals have not even been investigated, he said, and development of other techniques is barely under way.

"Difficulties of terrain and accessibility have yet to be overcome," he said, "but when they are solved we will find ourselves on a new frontier. From then on success depends on improvement of techniques."

Fisheries are a long way from full utilization, he said. B.C. fisheries could be expanded by 100 per cent, and the vast resources of the ocean have barely been touched.

TECHNICAL

"There again we come up against a technical problem," he said. "We don't know enough."

Limitations on agriculture are severe, he said. Resources are not extensive, and development of agricultural land expensive.

The Peace River area offers the only room for expansion, he said.

The industries of the province have room for development of the semi-fabricating processes for the export market, he said.

"We have not completed all that could be done in increased processing of pulp, paper and plywood," he said. "In the mining field, production is the deciding factor. For instance, if we can increase copper production, then construction of a smelter might be justified. In the fishing industry improvements will depend on new methods of preservation."

"There is not one of these basic industries where the export market is not fundamental," he said.

City Scouters On Honors List

(See Also, Page 28)

Two of Victoria's outstanding Boy Scout leaders were honored today in a list of scouting awards announced by Canada's Chief Scout, Governor-General Vincent Massey, on the 100th anniversary of the birth of Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scout movement.

Medals of merit for good services to scouting were awarded to Miss Laura Winnifred Lees, 2612 Richmond, Victoria district cubmaster and cubmaster of Fairfield B pack, and George Arthur Barr, 2633 Beach Drive, until recently district commissioner of Victoria.

Miss Lees was singled out for "her personal example of loyalty and enthusiasm" and "keen personal interest" in boys of her pack. She has been district cubmaster since 1954, cubmaster at Fairfield for 15 years, and secretary of Akela and Scouters councils at various times.

LOYALTY

Mr. Barr, employee in the sales department of Shawinigan Lumber, was honored for his "personal example of cheerfulness and steadfast loyalty to the principles of scouting" during reorganization of his district.

He served from 1951 to 1955 as district commissioner and for one year ran the district without any voluntary district leaders. Before this, he served two years as assistant scoutmaster at 31st Vancouver.

A total of 51 awards, three to U.S. residents, were announced. All groups within the Boy Scout movement and Girl Guides here have had or are having celebrations this week to mark the Baden-Powell anniversary. Guides also are honoring the 68th birthday today of Lady Baden-Powell, chief guide of the world.

PARTY TONIGHT

Third Victoria Cubs and Scouts will hold a "Baden-Powell birthday party" tonight at Scout Headquarters, and Fairfield group will stage a concert in the Church of Our Lord tonight at 7:30. Three packs, the Scout troop and Rover crew will present skits.

Langford group will meet for a father-and-son night tonight and Brentwood group will hold a parents' night program, where speaker will be A. R. Chamberlain, assistant district commissioner for training.

CHURCH PARADE

Several groups, including Third Victoria, Mount Tolmie, Metchosin and Oaklands, will parade to church services Sunday. Others held their parades last Sunday, when there also was a district church parade for scout and guide leaders, Rover and Ranger crews to Christ Church Cathedral and Metropolitan United Church.

"Thinking Day" will be celebrated by Langford Cubs and Scouts tonight with a father and son dinner in the Legion Hall. Special guests will be district commissioner, Col. R. Gerard; district akela, Frances Naish, and ministers of the Langford Churches.

Some 300 parents and friends of Belmont group are expected to attend a mammoth birthday party with four-foot birthday cake at John Stubbs Elementary

School next Wednesday at 6:30 p.m.

Celebrations have been staged since the beginning of the week by Luxton, Windsor Park and Cordova Bay Scout groups.

Guides in the Lady Douglas and Gonzales divisions will take part in a "thinking day rally" at St. John's Church hall tonight at 6:15. Speaker will be Mrs. Nesta G. Ashworth, Vancouver, one of the original girl scouts who "gate-crashed" the first Boy Scout rally at London in 1909.

The girls forced their way into the Crystal Palace and demanded to be recognized as "scouters" by Lord Baden-Powell. With his sister, Miss Agnes Baden-Powell, he later established the "Queen's Own Corps of Guides."

GOLD CORDS

Margaret Wolos of the 11th South Company of Guides will receive her gold cords at the ceremony. Presentation of the highest Guide award will be made by area commissioner Mrs. F. W. Midgley.

At least three "thinking day" church parades will be held Sunday. Victoria divisions will parade to a special non-denominational Guide service at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay.

Marigold and Glanford Packs and companies will attend Garden City Church, Carey Road, Sunday at 2:30 p.m., and Colquitz Pack and company will parade to Wilkenson Road, United Church in the morning.

Cordova Bay Brownies met to celebrate the anniversary this afternoon at St. David's-by-the-Sea Church.

Individual celebrations will be held among packs and companies in Saanich and Sooke.

The Times' Weekend Magazine Saturday will carry a story of scouting in Saanich, N.B., entitled "Where They're All Good Scouts," in commemoration of Lord Baden-Powell's anniversary.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—When did Sir John A. Macdonald visit Victoria at the opening of the E. and N. Railway?—V. M. L.

A.—He arrived in this city over the CPE July 24, 1885. He drove the last spike in the E. and N. Railway Friday, Aug. 13, 1886.

Q.—Will you please inform me whether the 5 per cent hospital tax is chargeable on retail merchandise ordered by a customer in B.C. and shipped to the customer from an agency in another province?—A. H.

PUBLISHER'S NOTEBOOK

By STUART KEATE

All About Annacis

EARNED a lot of interesting facts about Annacis Island at a luncheon Thursday.

Among other things, General Sir Overy Roberts explained, the name itself was a clerk's mistake.

The true name of the island in the Fraser delta was Annac's Island.

The "island" was abbreviated to "Is." Then the clerk got the apostrophe and the "Is." all looped in together and spelled it "Annacis."

It's been that way ever since.

Sir Overy's firm—Grosvenor Estates—has been around quite a while.

Since 1066, to be exact. William the Conqueror was a shareholder.

The name "Grosvenor" comes from the French, "Le gros venor," which means "the great hunter."

Sir Overy apologized a bit for the Duke of Westminster (whose family money built the great Fraser-Johnny enterprise) as a Johnny-come-lately.

He didn't build his first castle until 1574, on a little old plot of 11,000 acres.

Six hundred acres of the Duke's property became Grosvenor Square in London—where, as all you ex-servicemen will recall—the United States has an embassy and there's a statue to FDR.

This was a dowry, Sir Overy explained, when one of the dukes took a 13-year-old girl to wife.

Another piece of throw-away real estate turned out to be the plush Curzon Street in London. It was leased for $3 a year for 999 years.

When Grosvenors linked up with

John Lang it became a merger of estates management and construction know-how. Among the jobs undertaken by the latter company: the "Mulberry" harbor used during the war; the Queen's atomic power station, and the Coventry Cathedral.

Somebody booby-trapped the distinguished general Thursday.

He was told to speak for 45 minutes and they put him on at 1 o'clock sharp. But—as everyone knows—Rotary has an inflexible rule that the meeting must stop at 1:30.

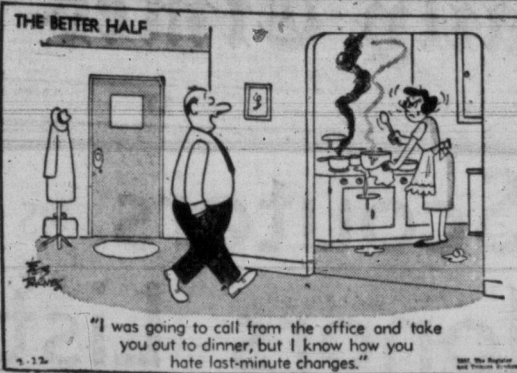

The result was embarrassing. From 1:35 on, people were getting up and walking out. About a quarter of the crowd left before Sir Overy finished.

This was a time when public relations advice would have been invaluable.

It was wrong that he should have been told he had 45 minutes. But—even conceding the pain of literary hark-kari—the general should have slashed himself by one-third to save embarrassment.

There isn't a speech in the world that can't be made in 28 minutes.

Sweet Summertime Foods Are Invading City Markets

By PENNY SAVER

Can it be? Do my eyes deceive me, or are there watermelons in town? Sure enough, if you have 20 cents in your hand, you can have a pound of the luscious, summertime treat. They have just arrived from Mexico, and the quality is good. A wonderful dessert, to make you think of warmer climes, watermelon isn't too plentiful, so buy now.

Mammoth savory cabbages were a feature in one market I visited today. They are 25 cents each, a tremendous buy. Green cabbage is 33 cents for three pounds, and red cabbage, 33 cents for two pounds. Carrots, perennial favorites, are two packages for 33 cents or two bunches for 29 cents, and in bulk, two pounds for 23 cents, while fresh green beans are 25 cents a half pound.

HANDS TIED—HOW WILL MILADY TALK?

PARIS (AP)—A dress which ties the wearer's hands to her side was only one oddity in the Hubert de Givenchy fashion collection shown Thursday.

Hats that look like napkin rings, egg cups, popovers, oyster shells, Christmas crackers, jack-in-the-box or cactus plants had sections of the audience tittering. Fashion writers had waited nearly a month for the show.

Institute Completes Hall Repairs

Mrs. Wm. McDowell was re-elected president of Langford Women's Institute at its annual meeting. Directors are Mrs. V. Braithwaite, Mrs. R. Sewell, Mrs. R. Wade, Mrs. S. A. Sawyer and Mrs. D. Robb.

Highlights of annual reports centred around renovation of the Institute hall on Dunford Ave., which is now in use for all WI meetings and is used by other organizations in the district. Members have been active in giving assistance to St. Mary's Priory. Donations were made to the Salvation Army.

Group activities included the starting of the first sewing classes which have increased to include both elementary and senior sewing. Senior classes, which emphasize tailoring, are conducted by Mrs. D. Mosley. More classes will be formed as requests are received. A work shop meeting will be held next Tuesday in conjunction with other Institutes in the district.

Langford Tea Realizes $72.

Daffodils and ferns decorated the tables at a tea held by the Women's Auxiliary to Prince Edward Branch No. 91, Canadian Legion, Langford, in the Legion Hall, Dunford Avenue. A sum of $72 was realized. Mrs. J. Jameson was general convener.

Mrs. F. Slater, president, greeted the guests. The head table was covered with a crocheted cloth and arranged with flowers to resemble a garden scene in which stood a miniature old-fashioned lady.

Mrs. B. Goodwin was in charge of tea arrangements and assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. A. Green, Mrs. V. Minckler and Mrs. J. Fitzsimmons. Mrs. N. McTavish, Mrs. N. Brown and Mrs. T. Panter did the serving.

Mrs. R. Douglas read tea cups and told fortunes with cards. A contest was won by Mrs. F. Jenkins.

Home cooking was sold by Mrs. I. Rawcliffe and Mrs. S. Jenkins. Mrs. T. McKay was in charge of the cards, and Mrs. L. Bayley supervised a sewing table.

A baby fresh from the hospital is accustomed to nursery noise from many babies. At this time, parents certainly need not feel they have to tip-toe so he can sleep. He'll sleep if he's tired, even if the radio's going.

On Etiquette

ABOUT A PRE-WEDDING RECEPTION

I am to be married in two months, and, for the second time, to a service man. My fiancé, who has never been in my home city, arrives here the day before the wedding. We leave immediately after the small family wedding breakfast for Europe where my fiancé will be stationed for two years. Since the day before the wedding will be my birthday and since none of my friends and most of my relatives have never met the young man, would it be all right for my parents to give a large party that night to take the place of a reception?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS

Ordinarily I would say no, but there are various circumstances and conditions in your case that would warrant a party. I'm all for it. Even though you may have, for example, two hundred people, the affair can be informal and simple in all of its appointments, yet it can be delightful. Call it an "Open House" rather than a reception. I think I would avoid formal invitations if at all possible. It

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Has Brittle Fingernails, Needs Calcium, Vitamin D

Q—"Will you please name some foods which will help improve fingernails that are brittle and split and crack all of the time? I know it must be some lack of mineral or vitamin but I do not know which or the foods which contain them."

A.—You may need more calcium. Milk is the best source. Cheese and eggs are good too. I suggest that you take vitamin

D. Without a sufficient amount you cannot properly use your calcium.

Sometimes it helps to leave nail polish off for a few weeks.

Q—"I am writing about my skin. It always has been very oily. I am over 35 and since last spring I have been having some pimples. A doctor told me that they probably come from my scalp. Now I have that cleared up but still have some. What do you think about this?"

A.—Often skin trouble comes from an infection of the scalp. It may take the complexion a little longer to clear up. If it doesn't soon, do go see a dermatologist. In the meantime do not handle the pimples.

Q—"I followed your diets very closely. I did weigh 135 pounds but now weigh 135 pounds. I think I must have a small frame as in my twenties I only weighed 98-112 pounds. My measurements are, bust 34, waist 29, and hips 39 inches. I am short-waisted and so still look fat. My stomach muscles are very poor. Is it possible to lose more weight without losing in my face? I will look gaunt. Also can I get a flat tummy again?"

A.—You are nearer your correct weight now than you were in your twenties. You were underweight then. Now you should lose only about five to eight pounds. If you will exercise while you reduce it will be helpful. Such a small loss will make very little difference in your face anyway.

Q—"I would appreciate very much some advice about my figure. All of my friends tell me that I am just right but I feel that I should lose some weight or something. I am 21 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall and weigh 128 pounds. My bust measures 34, waist 32, and hips 36 inches. I know my measurements are off.

"I really would appreciate it if you will answer this in your question box because I read your column every day."

A.—Glad you enjoy my column. You certainly are not overweight. You are just a few pounds underweight unless you have a very small build. Your waist is too large for the rest of you. Take waist reducing exercises faithfully. Of course this may be partially a question of build but the exercises will help.

FROM RENAISSANCE TO PRESENT DAY

Fine Collection of Graphics At Gallery by European Artists

By GWLADYS DOWNES

The National Gallery has just sent the Victoria Art Gallery a fine collection of graphics by European's best artists from the Renaissance to the present day.

No amateur or student of art should miss the opportunity to see this exhibition.

Starting out with woodcuts, engravings and etchings by Durer and Rembrandt, the exhibition moves down the centuries through Tiepolo, Claude le Lorrain, Canaletto, Corot, Manet to the contemporary scene.

It is interesting to see how the demands of an exact medium challenge the artist. Subjects and tastes differ, but the materials themselves do not become any more tractable. I think many people will be surprised to find that the craftsmanship of the moderns is just as delicate, just as precise, and in many cases more effective than that of their predecessors.

In spite of the technical accomplishments of the Renaissance, this particular genre does not move me, although I confess a liking for Durer's "The Great Horse." It is the moderns and their predecessors—Daumier, Goya, Blake, who seem to have welded passionate feeling into the severe medium most successfully.

Picasso, Gauguin, Chagall and Roualt are all well represented. Each has responded in his characteristic way to the medium chosen, and each engraving or woodcut bears this personal style, as obvious as a signature.

VIVID CONTRAST

The Magsey Gallery contains work which is a vivid contrast to the sobriety of the graphics. Elizabeth Freeman is a Victorian with some, but not much, formal training. She doesn't need it. Here is a perfect example of a primitive painter with an unerring eye for texture and design, who fills the picture plane completely.

From the stage play of the same name which ran 14 months at the Strand Theatre in London, playing to packed audiences, comes this film, directed by Philip Leacock, who gave us "The Kidnappers" and many other fine pictures. It is a film which brings great entertainment for the whole family because it has to do with domestic affairs as well as the activities of the three boys at school. They have problems too. There's the Headmaster, The Secret Society, "Operation Birdcage" and "Who is Icarus?" All very mysterious, amusing and well done, by an excellent cast.

SEPARATING—After 11½ years of marriage actor-producer-director Dick Powell and actress June Allyson have come to parting of ways. "We have not been getting along for the past few years, even though we have tried," the actress said today. Powell and Miss Allyson have two children, Pamela, eight, and Richard Jr., six. There are no immediate plans for divorce.

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bette Davis is back in town, but only to knock off a few acting chores. Then she's hustling back to her home in Portland, Me.

One of Hollywood's most distinguished expatriates, Bette gave up the movie capital six years ago for the New England life. She was born a Yankee in Lowell, Mass., and she and husband Gary Merrill find life more invigorating back there for themselves and their brood.

"Sure, it's been cold this winter," she admitted. "We had a couple of weeks of 20-below weather. But it's not bad if you live in the country and don't have to go out a lot."

Bette is here for her annual visit — "I have to work sometimes, you know." She explained that Gary comes out more often on flying visits to do film and TV chores. But she dislikes flying and makes the trip by train. Because of this, she likes to accomplish as much as she can in one visit.

Ottawa Sweetens Stratford Fund

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal grant of $250,000 towards construction of a permanent theatre for the Shakespearean Festival at Stratford, Ont., was announced Thursday by Finance Minister Harris.

Mr. Harris read to the Commons a letter he has sent to Wilfred Gregory of the Shakespearean Theatre that the federal government will match the total capital grants of the province of Ontario, "namely $250,000."

The minister's announcement was met with loud applause from all sections of the House.

Construction program of the permanent theatre, begun last fall, is continuing and festival officials hope to open the 1957 season July 1 in the new building. The festival previously was held in a huge tent.

BUDGET at a GLANCE

1. No changes in consumer taxation.
2. Province to sign federal tax rental agreement for another five years, avoiding dual income and corporation taxes.
3. Technical changes in mining and logging resources taxes.
4. Province takes over from Ottawa 2% levy on insurance premiums.
5. Budget hits all-time high with over-all allocations of $295.9 millions.
6. $28 grant to home-owners for land tax relief confirmed.
7. Reduction of direct provincial debt speeded up with special allocation of $21 millions from revenue surpluses. Object is to retire all direct debt by 1962.
8. Guaranteed debt jumps $85 millions in year.
9. No new aid for University of B.C. buildings.

Land Tax Relief For Home Owners Is Main Policy

Details of B.C. Budget, Page 10

An all-time record provincial budget calling for total outlays of $295.9 million was submitted to the B.C. Legislature today by Premier Bennett.

The budget is $37 millions higher than the budget of last year, but $21 millions of the increase is brought about by a special allocation of funds toward paying off the direct provincial debt.

The actual increase in general spending will be $16 millions, or about 6½ per cent.

There were no surprises in Mr. Bennett's budget.

There were no changes in consumer taxation either up or down.

A tax relief scheme of $28 for homeowners through a direct provincial grant had already been forecast. The premier gave no details just how this grant will be made, but said the detailed legislation will be put before the House shortly. The aid to homeowners all over B.C. will amount to $7,490,000.

Mr. Bennett dispelled, for good, rumors of the last two days that the province might go back into the income and corporation tax fields thus creating dual taxation.

He announced that B.C. will again sign a five-year agreement with Ottawa under which the federal government rents the province's tax rights in these fields.

In signing this, he said B.C. has negotiated a better deal than the agreement of the last five years, giving it about $9 million a year more in its share of the revenues collected by Ottawa.

The only tax changes in the budget were an outcome of the alterations in the agreement with Ottawa.

B.C. will now impose a 2% tax on insurance premiums—a tax vacated by Ottawa at the first of the year—and there will be minor changes in the natural resources taxes on logging and mining which will bring increased revenue to the provincial coffers.

The budget contained no new grants for buildings at the University of British Columbia, sought by both the university administration and a students' drive.

The premier pointed out that the government has already allocated $1,000,000 a year for ten years for this purpose and has been very generous with the university.

PREMIER BENNETT

One of the chief announcements in the budget was that the massive road and bridge building program launched last year will continue at the same high level.

Total allocations for roads of all kinds is fixed at $70.9 millions, an increase of $2.7 millions over the 1956-57 appropriations.

Another $10,000,000 is allocated for buildings and various other capital works, bringing to $80.8 millions the total spending on capital projects, an increase of $700,000 from last year.

The ordinary expenses of government show a jump of $10.5 millions, from $198,080,131 to $208,526,533.

One substantial jump is $1.5 million in the cost of hospital

1 Killed, 3 Injured At Dockyard

A 49-year-old HMC Dockyard civilian employee died from carbon dioxide poisoning shortly after 1 p.m. today when a fire extinguishing system was accidentally triggered in the hold of a ship at the Dockyard.

He was one of four men working in the after hold of the motor launch Wildwood, a torpedo recovery vessel in for refit, when the gas was triggered. His name was withheld pending notification of next of kin. Three others escaped and were being treated at HMCS Naden Hospital at present time.

A navy spokesman said they were out of danger. Dockside workers called National Defence Firefighters stationed at Dockyard and firemen were on the scene with emergency apparatus in a matter of minutes.

Three firemen entered the ship and two were overcome by the gas. They felt themselves succumbing to the fumes and were able to get out of the ship to fresh air.

One was taken to Naden Hospital for observation. Other firemen with more advanced equipment for breathing in gas entered the hold and recovered the body.

The navy was unable to explain the accident at short notice.

The dead man was employed as a rigger.

IWA Drafts Secret Pact On Wages

VANCOUVER (CP)—A secret draft of pay demands by 30,000 coast woodworkers has been drawn up for presentation here Monday to the district convention of the International Woodworkers of America, it was learned today.

The draft was completed Thursday by a policy committee whose officials were sworn to secrecy until it is presented to the conference for final approval.

Some of the 122 locals represented at the meeting are calling for wage demands of from 15 to 30 per cent above the present basic rate of $1.59 an hour.

MANY DEMANDS

There are numerous other demands for a union shop, health and pension plans, improved holidays and a 200-day guaranteed work year.

When the coastal workers of British Columbia enter wage negotiations March 15, their talks will coincide with negotiations of about 70,000 other IWA members in Washington and Oregon.

Al Hartung of Portland, international vice-president of the union, urged B.C. members to work with fellow unionists in the Pacific northwest states for "a big increase."

"We've got to move," Mr. Hartung said.

Asian Bloc Moves On UN Sanctions

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—The United States today killed prospects for a quick United Nations decision on invoking sanctions against Israel.

The White House announced that U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. would not put the American position before the General Assembly until Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has concluded a new round of discussions with Israeli Ambassador Abba S. Eban, probably Monday.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Six Arab and Asian nations today formally demanded that the United Nations invoke sanctions against Israel.

The demand was laid before the 80-nation General Assembly by Dr. Charles Malik, foreign minister of Lebanon. The plan was sponsored by Lebanon, Iraq, Sudan, Indonesia, Pakistan and Afghanistan.

The demand called for:
1. A general condemnation of any non-compliance with United Nations resolutions.
2. The withholding of economic, financial and military aid from Israel.

Another Man Held In Bank Raid Case

A charge of armed bank robbery against Victoria man Barry Irwin Keele, 26, was withdrawn in city police court today because of insufficient evidence.

Meanwhile, police said a second Victorian, 25 years old, has been arrested in Vancouver and will be charged in court Saturday with armed theft of $3,000 from Canadian Bank of Commerce James Bay branch on Feb. 11.

(No further details were given to the court, but The Times was reliably informed that Mr. Keele's arrest was due to a case of mistaken identity. It is understood the full details will be disclosed when the new case comes to court.)

Mr. Keele was in custody since Feb. 14 when he was arrested in Saanich with an unnamed companion who also was held but later released after questioning.

City detectives were expected to bring the second suspect to Victoria sometime today.

HAD $600

He was arrested by Vancouver police in a hotel room early Thursday. Detectives had observed him since early Wednesday night and found in his possession $600.

Prosecutor Alan Bigelow told Magistrate H.C. Hall this morning police did not wish to proceed against Mr. Keele. He said a preliminary hearing for Mr. Keele, who elected trial by judge and jury and for whom $10,000 bail was set, was scheduled for next Tuesday.

But "there is insufficient evidence to warrant commitment in this charge," he said.

Mr. Keele was unable to post his bail bond and remained in custody until released today.

TITLE BOUT SET TONIGHT

CLEVELAND (AP)—Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio and challenger Johnny Saxton each weighed in today at exactly 147 pounds, the limit for tonight's 15-round title match. Basilio ruled a 7-5 favorite.

Saxton was three ounces over the limit the first time he got on the scale. But after a little exercise, he came back and made it. Bout will be televised over Channel 4 at 7 p.m.

Snow Fright Easing Off

Indications for snow in the Victoria area eased off today with a recession of a mass of Arctic air which has been threatening the coast.

Official forecast calls for "possible" snow Saturday morning, turning to rain—if the snow develops at all—in the afternoon. Low tonight will be 30, high Saturday 38 to 40.

WENNER-GREN BALLOTS TOP 1,200 MARK

Well over 1,200 ballots have now been cast in The Times public opinion poll regarding the Axel Wenner-Gren proposal for developing B.C.'s northland.

The ballot was printed for the last time in Thursday's paper.

This morning's mail brought between 600 and 700 letters, reflecting the widest interest in the government's decision to reserve the 40,000 square-mile area while surveys are being made by the Wenner-Gren people.

Tabulation of the votes begins this afternoon and it is hoped to have a complete count by Saturday morning. Results will be published in Saturday's paper.

'Foolish' to Start University In Victoria Now, Says UBC Head

Strong opposition to the establishment of a provincially supported university in Victoria at the present time, was voiced here today by Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia.

He urged full development of UBC before establishing a second university or a system of junior colleges.

Dr. MacKenzie was speaking at the annual meeting of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau at the Empress Hotel on "The Future of Higher Education in B.C."

The best and most useful contribution that Victoria College can make, he said, is in the field of arts and sciences at the undergraduate levels.

"I am sure that, in due course, as the need arises and as the development is justified, Victoria College will grow and expand the work that it now undertakes," said Dr. MacKenzie.

He pointed out that there is nowhere in Canada at present a system of junior colleges, nor has any Canadian province been able to afford more than one provincial university.

The UBC head said it would be "short-sighted and foolish" to disperse the limited public monies available between two institutions and a system of junior colleges.

He said there already is great difficulty in finding enough money to look after one reasonably good university.

Dr. MacKenzie said it's in the best interest of all to follow, after a fashion, the pattern established in California where there is one university with autonomous branches in various parts of the state all under the same president.

Under this plan, he said, there is one common board of governors or regents representing the whole state, and presenting a united front in their claims for support.

This in no way affects the right or the practice of the individual institutions who make separate appeals to local groups

IN THE LEGISLATURE

100-Watt Smile Beamed on Squire

Premier Bennett was in rare good humor Thursday on the eve of his long-awaited Budget Speech to the legislature.

He turned his 100-watt smile on both sides of the House during the closing stages of the Throne Speech debate, and refused to be angered even when John Squire—that ardent CCFer from Alberni—reproached him about not answering letters.

It must be admitted, however, that Mr. Squire's methods of approach are somewhat Machiavellian.

"If the premier had answered my requests there is no knowing but what I might have returned to this House as a Social Creditor," he said.

"You are a pretty nice fellow anyway," the premier replied, beaming a fatherly grin at the opposition member.

Mr. Squire wasn't so easily disarmed. He lit into the premier for calling a snap election last September and told him he would have to get up very early if he hoped to deprive Alberni constituents of their vote.

"Most of us were sitting right beside our radios when the election was announced and we were lining up next morning to register our names on the voters' list."

Then he chided the first minister for his election statement that the Social Credit government stands on its record.

Stand on That Record—Hide It

"If the CCF had a record like the Social Credit government we would stand on it, too, because we wouldn't want anyone to see it."

Mr. Bennett continued smiling while Mr. Squire castigated him for his repeated use of the word "smear" under opposition attack.

"We come here to do an honest job for the province," the member said, "and I think we are entitled to a respectful hearing."

"The other day the premier was quoted on the radio as saying 'smear, smear.' I wonder what the public think of this legislature when they hear this sort of thing."

Having more or less disposed of the premier, the Alberni member turned to the subject of reckless motorists.

Bad Drivers Are Dangerous Criminals

Such motorists, he said, should now be regarded as dangerous criminals who between them were responsible for more deaths and injuries than war or disease.

"There has been more heartbreak, more broken homes in this province from auto accidents than anything else," he declared.

Bert Price, the small but vehement Social Credit member for Vancouver Burrard, had one or two ideas about the functions of the new ministry of recreation and conservation to be set up by the government.

THIS SCREWBALL WORLD

Party Crasher Just A Party Pooper

DETROIT (AP)—Miss Margaret Boone had the doggonedest tea party.

As a friend, Mrs. Mary DeMeulenaere, stepped through the front door, a grumpy, mud-splattered hound dog bounded in close behind her. It lumbered over to Miss Boone's new living room sofa, stretched out its dirty paws and fell asleep.

When Mrs. DeMeulenaere started to leave, with the dog still sleeping peacefully, Miss Boone asked: "Aren't you forgetting your dog?"

"My dog!" said her guest. "I thought it belonged to you. It was gnawing on a bone on your front porch when I arrived."

POMPTON LAKES, N.J. (AP)—This suburban community is finding out the hard way the truth of the old saying, "When the cat's away, the mice will play." Several weeks ago, the borough council passed an ordinance licensing cats. Cats without tags were taken to a cat pound.

Now the council is told rats are overrunning the community.

Evans was loading a milk truck when he received her phone call from several miles away. He sped to the fire with 100 gallons of milk in 10-gallon drums and used half of it to control the fire.

Egyptian Princess Has First Free Date

CANNES, France (AP)—Princess Ferial, ex-king Farouk's eldest daughter, went out without her chaperone for the first time Thursday night and danced far into the night with young society friends.

The 19-year-old Egyptian princess came from Switzerland to attend the wedding of Princess Marie-Louise of Bulgaria and German Prince Karl Wladimir of Leiningen. She left the wedding party, with her father's approval, shortly after dinner.

Son-in-Law Seeks Winch's Burnaby Seat

BURNABY (CP)—The son-in-law of the late Ernest Winch was nominated Thursday night as CCF candidate in his father-in-law's constituency in the forthcoming provincial by-election. The Burnaby riding vacancy was created by Mr. Winch's death.

Cedric Cox, a pattern-maker, won the nomination over Mrs. Grace McInnis, wife of Angus McInnis and daughter of the late J. S. Woodsworth, first national leader of the CCF.

and citizens and former graduates. If the city of Victoria, following the example of London and Hamilton in Ontario, wished to give an annual grant to Victoria College, or if citizens wish to create an endowment for it, it could easily be accomplished.

Said Dr. MacKenzie: "I am convinced we should have in this province at least one good and fully-equipped university, and that it should be provided with reasonably adequate finances to carry on its work."

"Unless this is done, and done first, much of the rest of our effort and our money will be so dispersed as to be in a sense wasted; in that the results are likely to be second rate and mediocre higher educational opportunities for the young men and women of the province."

Dr. MacKenzie stressed he is not interested in building a "colossus" at Point Grey—"nor am I in principle opposed to the decentralization of higher education or the establishment of junior colleges; provided this is done intelligently and with a view to the wise use of the taxpayers' money and avoidance of unnecessary and expensive duplication of effort and facilities; and provided, too, it is done in the right order and at the right time."

The UBC president said the university is planning a large capital drive program in 1958.

"We have already begun work and hoping that it will be possible to increase private and public contributions to our capital needs."

Dr. MacKenzie announced that within the past week he has received letters of resignation from three highly qualified young men who are leaving the university for better paid positions in the U.S.

"This is likely to continue in an accelerated way unless two things are done. One: that we get enough money to pay them reasonably adequate salaries in comparison with offers made them by other institutions in the U.S. or by industry or governments."

"The other is that they be given reasonable hope that over a period of years UBC will be adequately equipped with buildings and facilities to look after the modest needs of Canadian professors and Canadian students."

Missing Missile To Stay Missing

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—Remnants of an errant military rocket apparently are scattered in the high Rockies of Colorado or the desert reaches of Utah.

The 30-foot Matador missile escaped Thursday with about an hour's fuel left.

It soared northwestward from Alamogordo and probably landed in southwest Colorado or southeast Utah. The region is sparsely populated.

The U.S. Air Force planned to give up its search this morning for the missile because continuation "would cost more than the missile is worth." They said it did not carry an explosive warhead and was equipped only with instruments.

Weatherman tells how forecasting has progressed

"The immense increase in aviation has necessitated development of new techniques in weather forecasting," says Herb E. Chadburn of the Meteorological Branch of the Department of Transport.

"From a far-flung network of weather stations, information regarding both upper air and surface conditions is teletyped to central forecast offices. Here it is analyzed and used as the basis of forecasts," continues Mr. Chadburn. "Forecasting today benefits not only aviation but farming, shipping, forestry and many businesses and government agencies dependent upon the weather."

In forecasting for their personal futures, men like Mr. Chadburn benefit from progress in another field... life insurance.

In planning your life insurance, you'll find your life underwriter

more helpful today than ever before. He constantly seeks a broader knowledge of the individual needs of families like your own. With today's more flexible protection, he can help shape your life insurance plans so that they provide money for your children's education, for your own retirement income, or for other worthwhile objectives.

In these and many other ways, the life insurance companies have progressed with the times.

Additional training for life insurance advisors is now provided by a voluntary 2-year course stressing the study of individual needs. Following this, an optional 3-year University Extension course is offered, leading to the degree of C.L.U. (Chartered Life Underwriter).

Opposition Supports Municipal Aid Plans

(From Times News Services)

Opposition speakers gave qualified support to a government proposal to extend the scope of federal grants paid municipalities in lieu of taxes on federal property.

Progressive Conservative, CCF and Social Credit speakers all said the measure, expected to cost between $16,000,000 and $20,000,000 annually instead of the present $9,500,000, is a step forward but does not go far enough.

Finance Minister Harris, sponsor of the change, sat through the debate on a resolution preliminary to introduction of the bill.

He has said the bill will provide for payment of the equivalent of full municipal rates on all federal property receiving municipal services.

Promises Great Assistance—Winch

Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) said the resolution promises a bill of great assistance to municipalities. There had been a tradition that Crown property was exempt from taxation.

"This is a recognition by the government in meeting a need by making payments that are morally right but not constitutionally necessary."

Municipalities were meeting responsibilities never contemplated when the constitution was drawn up. The time might be approaching when the Articles of Confederation governing federal, provincial and municipal matters might have to be rewritten.

Mr. Winch said there is no central record of federal property holdings in Canadian municipalities, nor of their values.

"The government doesn't know its own properties nor their valuation." That was extraordinary.

Ambrose Holowach (SC, Edmonton East) said his party is prepared to give every support and co-operation in this measure to assist municipalities.

He also said it does not go far enough, and suggested that a municipal loans board be set up by the federal government to make long-term loans "at reasonable interest rates."

Prime Minister St. Laurent, Thursday, dropped a hint that this year's budget will announce an increase in the old age pension.

But amid House talk of an approaching election, he said the government intends to introduce its budget legislation "if there is time."

Mr. St. Laurent was replying to Opposition questions after he had announced a list of measures which the government may or may not attempt to have passed this session.

The list did not include pension legislation and Stanley Knowles, CCF whip, asked whether that door had been closed.

Defence Minister Campney indicated he has information that the United States plans to amend its statutes so that it can supply atomic weapons to its allies.

Under the U.S. McMahon Act, the U.S. government now is prohibited from putting atomic weapons in the hands of its allies.

Colin Cameron (CCF-Nanaimo), referred to the Washington announcement that the U.S. Air Defence Command is being equipped with atomic rockets for its jet interceptors. He asked if Canada will have access to the new weapons.

Mr. Campney replied that "for the time being at least" the Canadian defence department will not have access to these weapons.

A Liberal and a Progressive Conservative joined forces in the Senate Thursday in criticizing the Canada Council, the proposed new body to foster Canadian culture.

Senator Arthur Roebuck (L-Ontario) said that while he won't vote against legislation establishing the council he isn't happy about it. The $100,000,000 fund it would administer should be under the scrutiny of parliament, not handed out by "irresponsible appointees."

Senator Ralph Horner (PC-Saskatchewan) said he is completely against the council at

The prime minister replied that his announcement had nothing to do with a door to old age pension matters. "That would be something that would be consequent upon the budget," he added without elaborating. "The whole idea was that they can't be purchased with money," he said.

PM Appoints Review Board

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of a royal commission to review the terms of union between Canada and Newfoundland was announced today by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Chairman will be Chief Justice John McNeil of New Brunswick, former Liberal premier of that province.

The other two members will be Sir Albert Walsh, Newfoundland chief justice, and Prof. John Deutsch of the University of British Columbia, former assistant deputy finance minister in the federal government.

The U.N. at Stake

WISELY OR UNWISELY President Eisenhower has thrown the whole moral power of the United States against Israel's continued occupation of any Egyptian territory.

This pressure from the world's most powerful state—backed by many other states throughout the world—will be difficult if not impossible for Israel to resist.

But the immediate effect of the President's policy is to split the Western Alliance, since nations like Britain, France and Canada are not prepared to coerce Israel, at least until it is given real guarantees of its safety, which it deserves. Thus while the Arab world and its friends in Asia and Africa are preparing to demand sanctions against Israel, presumably with American support, a new world crisis of first magnitude is rapidly blowing up.

If it defies the mandate of the United Nations Israel may be confronted with sanctions, even though such states as Canada would oppose them. Even if the economic sanctions did not work completely, as Canada expects, Israel's political isolation would soon become intolerable.

Mr. Eisenhower's speech this week represents not merely a moral lecture but a grave decision of American foreign policy.

The President expresses sympathy for Israel's dilemma, he notes the provocation which led to its attack on Egypt, he refuses to place Israel in the same category as Russia as an aggressor.

Nevertheless, he says Israel is guilty of aggression, that it has refused to comply with the orders of the United Nations, as Britain and France loyally complied in the Suez, and he says that this defiance cannot be tolerated. For in his opinion the whole future of the United Nations may well depend on its authority in this crisis.

More important, perhaps, than his attitude toward Israel is the President's attitude toward the United Nations. By many recent acts and finally by his latest speech, the President has based American foreign policy fully on the United Nations because he regards it, for all its disabilities, as the world's best hope for peace.

Therefore, he refuses to give Israel any direct guarantees from the United States, beyond the promise to work for justice in the United Nations.

Naturally, Israel regards that promise as inadequate, it demands some assurances from Egypt but has received none. Opposition parties in Israel today are even more adamant against withdrawal than Prime Minister Ben Gurion. If Israel is compelled to withdraw with no protection beyond the mandate of the United Nations, the question is whether Egypt will take advantage of the retreat to discriminate against Israel in the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

On this point Mr. Eisenhower gives Egypt a polite but sharp warning. He reminds Mr. Nasser that Egypt already has agreed to six principles governing the operation of the Canal, one of which says there must be no discrimination as between the ships of the various nations and that the canal must be free of Egyptian politics.

It seems clear that the United States, having rebuked Israel, is prepared to discipline Egypt if necessary but only through the United Nations. That is the sticking point with Israel. In short, can it rely on the United Nations where the African-Asian bloc has managed to grasp an unofficial but effective veto?

The answer to that question, as intimated by Mr. Eisenhower, is that if the United Nations cannot enforce justice on Egypt then it may lose its power everywhere and collapse as an instrument of peace.

It is being said far too glibly these days that the United Nations in fact has no power, is riddled with national politics and is only a debating society. Yet Russia has not dared to defy the United Nations outside its own unquestioned zone of power (including Hungary) and only a few weeks ago Britain and France abandoned a military adventure because the United Nations ordered them out of Egypt.

The fact, of course, is that the United Nations can never have any more power than its member nations are prepared to give it. But recently, as never before, the United States has invested its power in the United Nations. To defy the United Nations is to defy not a debating society in New York but the world's most powerful nation and its allies.

For this reason it is to be hoped that the secret diplomacy now at work behind Mr. Eisenhower's latest warning will persuade Israel to accept some kind of compromise short of another explosion in the Middle East.

Mr. Edgelow's Blind Eye

ALD. GEOFFREY EDELOW has peeked through a crack in the fence to look at the school situation. A crack in the fence provides a very limited view. But from it Ald. Edgelow has reached conclusions which disturb him.

He says that Victoria is being asked, in the school building referendum, to finance more than 50 per cent of the municipal half-share of the $4,470,000 total for needed schools in Greater Victoria.

The city, he says, will receive only 11.81 per cent of the value in buildings constructed from this sum.

As far as his vision permits him to see, Ald. Edgelow is reporting facts. But he is looking through a very narrow crack.

The forthcoming referendum is only part of the Greater Victoria school building program which began in 1947 and will probably continue long after Ald. Edgelow has left the council.

In the earlier phases of the program Victoria city did very well.

Of the $5,489,862 required for Greater Victoria schools in the first phase, $2,842,941, or 51.79 per cent, was used for new buildings in the city itself.

In the second step Victoria required and received $1,226,562, or 39.86 per cent of the $3,077,281 voted by the taxpayers of the school district.

Hence, in the earlier stages, the city received the lion's share of monies approved for new buildings.

100 Years Ago

TODAY MARKS THE CENTENARY of Lord Robert Baden-Powell's birth, an event of first importance in the field of youth training.

The young Londoner who turned early to a successful military career had already achieved distinction before he devoted his talents to the origination of the organization of the Boy Scouts. Today the movement he created covers a large section of the world and wins universal approval wherever industry, self-reliance and the principle of liberty are admired.

Indeed, it is a tribute to the spirit of the Boy Scout organization that it has fallen into disfavor only in those lands where dictators have chosen to fashion the malleable stuff of youth into forms for their own narrow purposes.

In this age, the Baden-Powell vision shines more clearly than ever. It is needed as an example of the training which inspires youth to self-discipline and the ideals of service.

As Boy Scouts the world over aspire to the goals the founder set, they honor the centennial of Baden-Powell's birth.

As Our Readers See It

School Bond Issue

Regardless of the merits of the proposed school bond issue, any group of persons who deliberately flout the recently expressed opinion of the people by incurring the expense of a referendum at this time, are not, in my opinion, fit to be entrusted with the disbursement of $5,600,000 or any part.

The excuse that many people in favor of the issue did not vote recently reflects immature thinking. What about those who were opposed to the project and for various reasons did not vote? The writer is one of the latter.

It would be well to remember also that under prevailing conditions the cost of borrowing the funds will be prohibitive, all of which the taxpayers will have to foot.

It is high time this reckless spending of taxpayers' moneys by organized groups be stopped.

Man Behind the Bofors

When Canadian and allied soldiers landed at Dieppe they were greeted by the murderous fire of German guns, some of them Swedish Bofors. Likewise these Bofors guns clawed Canadian and allied fliers out of the sky and many a cross marks a Canadian grave in Europe. Now it is proposed that the man who profited from the sale of these guns be offered one-tenth of our Canadian province. I cry shame on any person of our Provincial Government who countenances such a proposal.

With such people in Ottawa we shall probably see Krupp take over the profits of Canadian effort and blood, elsewhere in Canada.

It would seem that "progress not politics" has been changed to Power and Profits with a new Axe (1) to grind.

Keep Playing Fields

Failing to secure the proposed Pandora Avenue site for a new fire hall, Victoria's fire wardens appear to have become desperate when they seek to acquire an integral part of the Central Junior High School grounds now in course of development for playing fields.

Everyone acquainted with the facts knows that open recreational areas are woefully inadequate throughout Greater Victoria. Adequate playing fields add a valuable contribution to children's education and their retention is absolutely essential.

DENNIS H. BESLEY,

A REPORT FROM INSIDE THE KREMLIN

Mr. K. Wants Western Relations Closer and Armies Farther

MOSCOW: Nikita S. Khrushchev in effect proposes that the United States adopt a "Fortress America" policy as the main item in a program for relaxing world tensions. "Soviet troops," he told me, "would be withdrawn to the national territory of the Soviet Union from all the countries in Europe where they are now stationed in accordance with existing treaties and agreements. Meanwhile, Western European countries would also withdraw their troops stationed in the territories of other Western European countries. The United States would also withdraw its troops to American territory from Europe and Asia, and along with that would go the liquidation of all foreign military bases."

Alsop

This was the most concrete and significant proposal put forward by this remarkable man in an absorbingly interesting interview of two hours. Two other points stood out in Mr. Khrushchev's extensive discussion of foreign relations in general and Soviet-American relations in particular.

On the one hand, the Soviet leadership is anxious for the resumption of what Mr. Khrushchev called "normal diplomatic relations as distinguished from the only formally normal relations we now enjoy."

This normalization, in Mr. Khrushchev's definition, would include both inter-governmental meetings at the summit and the widest possible extension of trade and cultural relations between the two halves of the world.

Also Great

"We particularly want to normalize our relations with the United States," he said at one point, "because your country is a true great power, and we think our country also fits that category."

On the other hand, the suggestion that the Soviet Union might pull out its garrisons in Central Europe in exchange for American adoption of a policy of strictly continental defence constituted Mr. Khrushchev's only offer of a Soviet concession on any of the many issues that now divide the world.

In the currently vital case of the Middle East, he even indicated active Soviet support for the Middle Eastern oil resources which produce the real life blood of the second and third Western partners, Britain and France.

"The peoples of the Middle East must be permitted to develop as they choose, and must make their own use of the natural wealth of their countries," he said. "At the same time, we realize that Britain and France need Middle Eastern oil. But we think the oil should be obtained by normal commercial transactions."

Mr. Khrushchev received me in the First Secretary's big office in the rather forbidding stone building that houses some of the Communist party secretariat. Except for its size, the room was unremarkable, having no distinctive decoration.

At first glance, the man himself also seems unremarkable. But in conversation one soon notices that the rather plain face expresses a much deeper and more penetrating intelligence than appears in the stock photographs of Mr. Khrushchev being jolly.

He spoke authoritatively and listened attentively, but during the translations into English he would fiddle with an ornate paper cutter or an ear of hybrid corn enclosed in plastic, as though he were impatient to get on to the next topic.

Mr. Khrushchev set the theme for the discussion of foreign relations with his opening statement that we "all live on one planet and must find the way to live together in conditions of peaceful co-existence."

Come to Stay

The first step, he asserted, was for the Western leaders to reconcile themselves to the existence of the Socialist countries—"to accept this, as a believer would say, as something given by God." After that, he added, should come the "normalization" of diplomatic and other relations.

As examples of recent "abnormalities" he cited the State Department's interference with a training contract made by the Soviet Department of Agriculture with a Mid-Western hybrid corn producing company, and also the State Department's refusal of transit visas requested by the Russian Olympic athletes returning from Australia.

"These incidents," he said, "were, of course, mere pinpricks, but they were pinpricks given on purpose to prevent a serious approach to the more important problems standing between the two countries."

"Contacts on the highest level would be the most helpful," he added. "I want to express myself rather carefully. In order not to mislead American public opinion into thinking the Soviet Union is over-eager for such contacts. Yet we do believe they would be useful, indeed essential if we want to build up normal relationships. One cannot hope to transmit one's thoughts by magic. One cannot hope to impress one's ideas on the leaders of another country by remote control."

Outside Looking In

APPROACH of the Centennial Year has brought out a good many proposals for ways in which the provincial birthday can be commemorated. Hospitals, arenas, auditoriums and such have been suggested. But among the most popular ideas are plans to put things on view—animals, birds, fish, relics, even people. Naturally, the centennial will be used by many people as an occasion for advancing their own ideas of what a city needs—and this city could do with a good many things it hasn't got. Lots of the proposals haven't much centennial significance about them. For instance, a hospital wing is badly needed, but it should be built on its own worthy merits and not as a mark of our joy in having achieved 100 years of provincial life.

Tobin

The museum suggestions seem more in keeping with the theme of the anniversary. But one of the most pressing needs in this regard, it seems to me, is to rehabilitate the fine museum we already have, and give it a building in which the wealth of Indian lore can be properly displayed. Storage cupboards and packing cases aren't the best medium for exhibition of such things.

It raises an interesting point as to how far down the social scale of living creatures you have to go before you avoid cruelty through captivity. A lion in a box is an affront to any decent person. An eagle in a cage is an insult to all creation. But a fish in

The aquarium idea isn't a bad one either. It's a funny thing: this town is dead against zoos of any kind, and with good reason, but I think it would go for an aquarium.

Seals seem to love an enclosed pool where they can be the recipients of public acclaim, peanuts and empty cigar cartons. Does a fish in a tank feel it's never had it so good?

Come to think of it, do some people?

A tank—is that equally callous? Is a guppy in a bowl a sign of human sadism?

Actually, any living creature out of its natural environment loses most of its effectiveness as a specimen. A tiger dozing blearily in a corner of a cage, like a heap of soiled silken rags, bears no resemblance to the sinuous streak of graceful power it is in the jungle.

Any "student" peering in through the bars gets no impression of what a tiger is and should be, he sees only the crushed shell of what the tiger used to be. In that light, a caged zoo is not educational. A movie would provide a ten times better idea of what the animal is really like.

A wild animal in captivity just isn't the same object as a wild animal in its natural habitat. Its normal freedom makes it what it is; freedom is the main ingredient and if you take it away you've destroyed the specimen.

The human animal is much the same.

Tanks, You're Welcome

Life without freedom is like a meal without salt, a sunrise without color, a can-can without black garters. It can exist but it loses its sparkle and spice.

But does this apply to fish? If it applies to a big fish in a little tank, does it also apply to a little fish in a big tank? Where do you draw the line between the animals that care, and those that are too low in consciousness to mind being cooped up?

A bird that can't stretch its wings in flight is probably headed for insanity at an early date. I have startled more than one keeper of a loved canary by suggesting that its trills and arpeggios may be the maniacal screams of a creature driven mad by close confinement.

But fish don't talk for publication. Seals seem to love an enclosed pool where they can be the recipients of public acclaim, peanuts and empty cigar cartons. Does a fish in a tank feel it's never had it so good?

Come to think of it, do some people?

By JOSEPH ALSOP

ally with a warning that the "peoples of Europe will not tolerate their being guinea pigs in the hands of others" and will insist on the removal of United States bases from their territories. Therefore, he argued, the United States would be wise to begin at once to seek a different way out.

Thence he passed on to the Middle East, which he described as a situation "both complicated and dangerous, where the smoke of battle has not settled."

For these reasons, he declared, an agreement among the great powers was needed that would serve the twin purposes already noted, of a guarantee of free self-development for the Middle Eastern people, plus a guarantee that they could do what they chose with their oil resources.

Mr. Khrushchev further denied that there was any contradiction between suggesting inter-governmental negotiations on the Middle East one day, and then indicting the Middle Eastern policy of the United States in the United Nations the next day.

Question Raised

"We wanted to call things by their proper names," he said.

With an obvious reference to the Eisenhower doctrine, he went on, "The United States has repeatedly infringed on this country's frontiers and interfered in the affairs of other countries, and, therefore, we thought the question should be raised."

Finally, Mr. Khrushchev was asked the meaning of the seemingly sudden replacement of former Foreign Minister Dmitri T. Shepilov by Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

He answered that the change was made only "in order to make the best use of the personnel available; our policy had already been set forth in the report to the Supreme Soviet by comrade Shepilov, and no change of policy is implied."

Anyway, Mr. Khrushchev added, Soviet foreign policy was made collectively by the Presidium, and the Foreign Minister's task was "only to execute the policy already made."

Then, suddenly giving vent to a pleased chuckle, he concluded: "Even our glum comrade Gromyko can also smile very nicely if his partners in negotiation are smiling, too."

So ended this discussion of foreign affairs. It left an impression of a strong, clear, practical intellect, studying foreign relations with considerable astuteness, seeing particularly the important opportunities that this troubled world offers to the Kremlin's policy-makers, but viewing the whole, always and in all places, with the strong refraction of Soviet spectacles.

India Ready to Talk

NEW DELHI (AP)—A spokesman said today the Indian government is ready to discuss the Kashmir problem with the UN Security Council president. But he emphasized that does not mean India approves of the resolution sending the council president to India and Pakistan.

France Aids Israel

PARIS (AP)—Premier Guy Mollet said today France will continue to give Israel all the aid she can. The premier's statement was in reply to reporters' questions whether it was true France was continuing to aid Israel.

QUEEN CREATES DUKE PRINCE OF THE REALM

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen today created her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, a prince of the realm less than 24 hours after he returned from a world tour which took him to the remotest parts of the Commonwealth.

The honor, which does not affect the succession to the throne, means the Queen's husband will be known in future as His Royal Highness Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh.

BUDGET

Insurance which will total $31.9 millions.

The province's education bill will increase $1.8 million to a new high of $48.8 millions.

The only major reduction in the budget is in debt charges which will drop by $2,366,152 as the government continues its policy of paying off the direct provincial debt and making new loans only as guarantees for specific things like the PGE Railway, schools, toll bridges and power development.

The premier reiterated his previous claim that by 1962 the entire direct debt of the province will be wiped out.

A substantial portion will be paid off in the coming year through a special allocation of $21,000,000 for debt retirement.

The budget, on the whole, reflected the continued booming economy of the province. It showed revenues rolling into the treasury at an unprecedented rate.

It is estimated total general revenues of the province will reach $268,444,000. This compares with an estimate of $224,537,000 for the fiscal year which ends March 31, but in his preliminary report the premier showed that the revenues this year have already far exceeded these estimates.

While the revenue estimate would not cover the whole of the planned outlays by the government, the premier explained that there is $49.1 millions in the revenue surplus account, built up from previous surpluses. All of this is available for use as required.

The sales tax in the coming year will yield $86,250,000, it was estimated. Gasoline taxes, will yield more than $25,000,000, and liquor profits are estimated at $23,750,000, an increase of $2,250,000.

However, the premier said the general approach to the budget had been one of caution because of the tight money policy at Ottawa and the disturbed international situation.

Hartung said Thursday, "Other basic industries are winning big increases and the cost of living is going up. We can't lower our standard of living by staying where we are."

"If we should have to go on strike in B.C. and across the line, at least we will not be filling each other's orders when the other group is out."

Mr. Hartung also attacked the United Brotherhood of Carpenters as "a strike-breaking institution."

He told cheering delegates: "They are going behind picket lines and signing up scabs. They do not want to meet or co-operate with us. I've tried to meet them but they are always too busy to talk."
